$1,950,154 Is Goal Set for February 4 Under Joint Plan.

$100,000 OF TOTAL FOR STRICKEN AREA

Bodies Act for Prevention of Confusion Through Separate Pleas.

The plea of the District Chapter of the American Red Cross for $100,000 as its quota of the $10,000,000 drought-relief fund was combined last night with the Community Chest's 1931 campaign, to be waged January 26 to February 4, bringing the total to be raised by the Chest workers to $1,950,154.40.

The action, which had been under discussion for two days, was taken to facilitate raising the money and to prevent confusion which would be caused by two distinct drives for funds during identical periods.

Announcement of the joint campaign was made by Gen Frank R. Keefer, chairman of the District of Columbia Chapter of the Red Cross, and John Poole, president of the Community Chest, following a meeting of the board of trustees of the Chest.

According to the plan of cooperation which was adopted at the meeting by agreement of the Red Cross and the Chest, the Red Cross drought relief will be included in the campaign on the same basis as any member organization.

Red Cross Pledged $100,000.

The only exception is that in view of the urgent need which the Red Cross represents, the Red Cross is guaranteed its $100,000 quota. It will be paid whatever part of this sum is immediately needed upon request after the campaign, and the remainder within 30 days.

Gifts received direct by the Red Cross for this purpose will be credited toward the total drought relief budget of $100,000, but the Red Cross will not solicit separate gifts, encouraging all persons to make their subscriptions through the Community Chest and add to what they otherwise would give to the Chest, the extra amount for drought relief.

The name of the Red Cross will be printed on the Chest pledge cards and gifts to it will be encouraged. If the campaign goal is oversubscribed, the Community Chest and the Red Cross will share the oversubscription in proportion to their prospective budgets.

The joint campaign goal of $1,950,154.40 will include only the $100,000 drought relief quota of the local chapter of the Red Cross and the Chest's previous goal of $1,850,154.40.

$388,000 More Than Last Year.

The Chest's part of the campaign was held by its officials to be the minimum under which its member orgahizations can successfully and adequately carry on their work in 1931. The $1,850,154.40 budget was approved yesterday by the board of trustees. The goal is $388,000 or 25 per cent more than raised last year.

The decision to add the Red Cross quota came after Red Cross officials submitted a plan for participation in a joint money-raising drive to the executive committee of the Chest. This body approved the idea and sent it to the trustees, who also favored it.

President Poole and Gen. Keefer issued the following statement following the decision to include the Red Cross in the drive:

"We believe that this amount is justified in view of the situation both here at home and in the stricken areas and that Washington will gladly give the additional 25 per cent necessary to meet the emergency or drought and unemployment at home and throughout the country. Washington has always rallied to such emergencies and we confidently count on reaching this goal. We also believe that all Washingtonians will approve the combination of these two campaigns, which

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

The wreckers were holding a wake at old Center Market yesterday, when suddenly an army of firemen butted in. The firemen couldn't help this breach of funeral etiquette, however. They had been summoned to fight what was recorded as a four-alarm fire, the strongest four-alarm fire in all of Washington's history.

RED CROSS LEADER REPLIES TO THOMAS

GIVES REPORT FIGURES

Charges by Senator Thomas (Democrat), Oklahoma, that the Red Cross has $25,000,000 available for relief work instead of $4,500,000, and that managers of the organization have hoarded the money given them in former years and are not only hoarding it but attempting to conceal it, brought a quick retort last night from Judge John Barton Payne, chairman of the central committee of the Red Cross.

"There is no need for any misunderstanding or uncertainty as to the funds of the Red Cross," Judge Payne declared. "It publishes and distributes widely each year an annual report which contains in detail the financial statement audited by the War Department.

"The financial report for the year ended June 30, 1930, was transmitted to the Congress October 10, 1930, by

FATAL EARTHQUAKE ROCKS MEXICO CITY

Walls Fall, Houses Crack and Lightning Flashes as Skies Turn Yellow.

VERA CRUZ ALSO STRUCK

Mexico City, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—The sharpest earthquake felt in Mexico City for 19 years caused at least one death and four injuries tonight, at the same time starting fires in two parts of the city, cracking buildings and throwing inhabitants into panic.

A woman was killed by a falling wall in San Antonio Abad street, while four persons, one of them a small child, were injured by falling objects in houses.

The shock began at 6:48 p. m. (8:48 p. m., E. S. T.) and for two minutes shook buildings with a rolling motion. Minor quakes continued for some five minutes after the principal shock.

Electric lights went out, power lines were broken and telephone service was interrupted for some time.

The fright of the inhabitants, who ran out of their homes in terror as the houses began to heave, was

SENATE YIELDS ON FOOD, HURLS RELIEF THREAT

$25,000,000 PROGRAM ASKED BY DEMOCRATS

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

The Senate yesterday backed down in its controversy with the House over the drought relief appropriation bill, but in so doing the Democrats and Progressives set the stage to give the administration-controlled body at the other end of the Capitol a licking calculated to last it for some time.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, minority leader, introduced an amendment to the pending agricultural appropriation bill providing $25,000,000 for the relief of distress generally, and made it very plain that the amendment would go in the bill and stick there, or there would be no bill.

The upshot of it all is that the bill providing $45,000,000 for loans to farmers in the drought-stricken area for crop rehabilitation goes now to the President, and in its wake arises the issue of giving $25,000,000 from the Federal Treasury to relieve distress generally, in the unemployment centers of the East and in the agricultural sections, and this money is to be given straight out, without the suggestion that it is being loaned. And in administration quarters it was admitted that no way of beating the proposition is in sight.

New Plan Is Dole.

The issue in the drought relief measure involved only $15,000,000 for loans to farmers for personal food. It was attacked by the administration as being dangerously near to constituting a dole, as it was contended the loans would not be paid back.

The new proposition is not dangerously near a dole, but is one. The money would presumably be distributed, however, by the Red Cross, as the Robinson amendment provides it is to supplement Red Cross assistance.

Under the rules of the Senate he needs a two-thirds vote to get the amendment in the pending arricultural appropriation bill, but whether he has that many votes is neither here nor there. His threat that the appropriation will go in and stick, or there will be no bill, is one he can easily carry out.

Tables Are Turned.

The Democrats and Progressives are pretty sore about backing down in every one of these controversies with the House, and it was pointed out that not only did the House conferees remain adamant in their refusal to accept the $15,000,000 provision in the drought relief measure, but held out against another little Senate amendment, quite harmless, as well. But there never seems anything these senators can do but back down, when confronted by a situation such as that yesterday, when it was dangerous to hold up the drought relief measure any longer.

Now the tables are turned and, if the administration refuses to accept the Robinson amendment, the inescapable implication of his threat is an extra session, and the minority leader does not make idle threats.

The idea came to him suddenly while the senators were fretting over the administration's attitude toward giving relief out of the Federal Treasury. Senator Black, of Alabama, in fact, gave it to him, and immediately

NAVAL PROJECT IS VOTED TOTAL OF $74,030,000

House Committee Reports Bill to Augment Sea Forces.

6-INCH-GUN CRUISER PROPOSAL REJECTED

Britten Believes Measure Is Likely to Be Passed in Both Houses.

(Associated Press.)

The House naval affairs committee voted yesterday to authorize $74,030,000 for construction to augment naval forces that operate on, over and under sea. It approved a bill for that amount but declined, by 9 to 7, to indorse Secretary Adams' recommendation that an additional $16,605,000 be spent on a 6-inch-gun cruiser.

The measure would allow the Navy to build a radically different fighting ship—a cruiser to cost $20,780,000 and carry 36 airplanes. Chairman Britten said it is "barely possible that all future cruiser tonnage will be that class of ship" since experts predict it may revolutionize naval warfare.

Provision For Planes.

In addition, this would provide for 280 airplanes, 150 to be built out of funds allotted to the ships. Five million dollars is set aside for the remaining 130. It carries $27,650,000 for a 114-plane airplane carrier, $17,600,000 for four submarines, and $3,000,000 for experimentation with Diesel engines.

Besides this construction, the Navy is asking an appropriation of $5,300,000 for a destroyer leader and $47,000,000 for ten destroyers already authorized. Pending legislation would allow $30,000,000 more to modernize three battleships and appropriations will be asked for the $5,000,000 Sunnyvale, Calif., air base and about $3,000,000 for the sister ship to the dirigible Akron now under construction.

Britten Is Optimistic.

Britten said since the Navy general board had favored 8-inch vessels over the 6-inch gun type, the committee felt it was not advisable to authorize construction of the smaller ship. The United States is allowed 80,000 tons of additional cruisers under the London treaty, he said, and the committee decided it would be "inadvisable to sacrifice any cruiser tonnage on which landing decks could be employed."

The bill provides that construction of the vessels and planes be completed at the "earliest practicable date." Britten predicted it had "quite a good chance to pass both houses" this session.

The battleships and aircraft carriers of the future may be huge metal-clad dirigibles.

This vision was laid before the House yesterday by Representative Collins (Democrat), Mississippi, during consideration of the item in the War Department appropriation bill carrying $200,000 for further cooperative investigation and research into the relative value of metal-clad and fabric-clad dirigibles.

Representative Taber (Republican), New York, presented an amendment designed to eliminate this item from the bill. He had announced in advance his purpose to strike it out. Mr. Taber insisted that under existing law development of rigid airships is left with the Navy Department.

The amendment was supported by Representative Stafford (Republican), who declared it was a scheme to have Uncle Sam finance further studies by private parties. The funds are to be used by the Air Corps in cooperation

Court Also Hears How Secretary Burned Love Notes.

Los Angeles, Calif., Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Clara Bow, the "it" girl of the movies, was described as "being drunk, very, very drunk," in an asserted confession of Daisy DeVoe, formerly secretary to the film actress, read here today in the latter's trial for grand theft.

The DeVoe statement also told how the former secretary, before her discharge, destroyed love letters written to the actress by Harry Richman, an actor; Dr. Earl Pierson, of Dallas, and Gary Cooper, also an actor.

"I burned the love letters because I would not have them around the house. That is how Clara gets into trouble, so I took the liberty of burning them," the alleged statement said.

Reed Quizzed Two Hours as New Start Upon Inquest Nears.

BARGFREDE IS FREED; WIFE STILL DETAINED

Mother, Sister of Slain Girl Granted Release as They Hold to Testimony.

After releasing George T. Bargfrede, who had been held in connection with the murder of Beulah Limerick, detectives of the Homicide Squad last night made preparations for resumption of the murder inquest by interrogating Richard Reed at the Eleventh Precinct.

Capt. Edward J. Kelly, assistant chief of detectives, and Sergt. John F. Flaherty, head of the Homicide Squad, sought to break down Reed's story that he knew nothing of the murder.

Under an interrrogation lasting more than two hours, Reed failed to vary the story which he has told to detectives from the time of his imprisonment on December 31. Capt. Kelly said. "Reed has told us the same story. He has not changed it in the slightest."

Denies Making Statement.

Mrs. Dora E. Limerick, mother of the slain girl, and Mrs. Julia Bywaters, sister of Beulah, yesterday were confronted by Bargfrede and his wife, Mrs. Martha Bargfrede, at the Fifth Precinct station. The Bargfredes repeated their story that on the night following the killing Mrs. Ethel Limerick and Mrs. Dora Limerick cautioned them to say nothing about the recovery of a gun in the stove in the murder house.

Vernon Limerick, who is held in connection with the shooting, was brought into the witness room of the Fifth Precinct, into the presence of his mother. Mrs. Limerick said: "I want you to tell everything that you know about Beulah's death."

"Mother, I have told all that I know," replied Vernon.

When the Bargfredes reaffirmed their story of the statement they said Mrs. Limerick had made, the mother of the girl emphatically denied that any mention had been made of a gun during the conversation held in her home on the night following the murder.

"Gun" Proves Hinge.

Assistant United States Attorney William H. Collins last night indicated that he would use Bargfrede as a witness at the inquest, to corroborate Mrs. Bargfrede's testimony. Mrs. Bargfrede, who was a close friend of Beulah, is still being held at the House of Detention and will again be before the inquest today. Her husband has confirmed her story and repeated it yesterday to detectives, in the presence of the girl's mother and her sister.

Inspector William S. Shelby yesterday announced that a piece of metal, reported to have been found in the basement of the Limerick home, which had been described as a "gun," proved to be nothing more than a piece of hinge, which had apparently been attached to a piece of wood used as fuel.

Mrs. Dora Limerick and Mrs. Bywaters were removed from their home yesterday and, after being questioned for three hours, Capt. Kelly announced that police had been unable to break down their story of events immediately following the murder. They were immediately released.

Seeks to Find Motive.

Harry T. Whelan, counsel for patrolman Robert F. Langdon, who is also held by police, said last night that he will question witnesses closely today in an attempt to ferret out the reason why they are all so ready to cast suspicion upon his client.

"The memories of the witnesses questioned so far," he said, "are very good where it concerns something detrimental to Langdon, but the memories become very hazy where

GOV. RITCHIE ENTERS UPON FOURTH TERM

NOTABLES AT CEREMONY

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 14.—Delivering his inaugural address after taking the oath that inducted him into office for his fourth term as chief executive of the Commonwealth of Maryland, Gov. Albert C. Ritchie today reiterated his advocacy of States rights principles and severely attacked national prohibition and Federal centralization of power.

Gov. Ritchie has frequently been mentioned as a Democratic presidential possibility, and his address today was interpreted in some quarters as a forerunner to his becoming a potential candidate in 1932. The talk was carried to a nationwide audience over the Columbia Broadcasting System's network, and the ceremonies also were broadcast by Station WBAL, Baltimore, under an independent arrangement. And the audience that heard Gov. Ritchie direct was perhaps the largest ever to hear an inaugural address. The statehouse was jammed and amplifiers carried the speech to several thousand persons on the outside.

MAIL ORDER SALES OF RUM UNCOVERED

Two Men and Woman Accused by Federal Agents in $5,000,000 Ring.

NEW ARRESTS EXPECTED

New York, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Federal agents tonight claimed to have smashed an alleged $5,000,000 mail order liquor ring operated throughout the United States, with the arrest of two men and a woman in a Times Square office.

H. J. Simmons, chief agent of the Department of Justice, said documents were seized giving the names of many prominent customers. He said large and small shipments had been sent to all parts of the country.

The prisoners were listed as D. M. Lefkowitz, Benjamin Williams and Pauline Paris. They were taken before United States Commissioner Cotter charged with conspiring to violate the prohibition law.

Simmons said more arrests were expected. The source from which

Freakish Weather Chills Dixie, Southern Countries

Postage-Stamp Blizzards, Snow in Mexico City and Sands of Desert Grown Cold Are Features of World Climatic Conditions.

(Associated Press.)

The world was a bit giddy with its Wednesday weather.

A postage stamp blizzard laid a deep snow along a narrow section of territory near Buffalo, N. Y., and blew itself out without being felt elsewhere in the vicinity.

In Morocco, where the sands of the desert seldom grow cold, palm trees snapped before one of the most severe and chilling storms of years.

Warm-blooded Spaniards, unused to severe cold, saw mercuries fall below zero, and in southern Spain, where furnaces and red underwear are unheard of, there was considerable suffering.

Dixie shivered under snow. It was freezing at Chattanooga, Tenn., and in Johnson City there was 7 inches of snow. The piedmont and mountain sections of the Carolinas also had snow falls and temperatures below 32. It was cold in Virginia and Albama last night, with readings low in the twenties predicted before dawn.

Arkansas went to bed with the warning of a freeze and the promise of warmer weather today. Atlanta looked forward to a season's low of 14 during the night, and even Florida, her feet splashing in the warm gulf, saw the thin red line of her thermometers dip into the thirties.

Snow in Mexico City was a revelation to thousands of natives who never had seen it save on the distant mountain peaks. Many who habitually sleep outdoors had to avail themselves of charity's shelter.

The West Coast had seasonable temperatures which went into the 60's, tapering down to lower figures in the North. Canada's Northwest

Calvin Coolidge Says:

Some of the current reports concerning the expected visit of the Prince of Wales to the Argentine suggest that any advantage resulting to British trade might be an injury to our own exports. That view is unnecessary. The British Empire is world-wide. It is a great stabilizing influence. Naturally it wants trade, but it wants friendly relations even more. The visits of its royal house are properly made for that purpose and do not differ from the trip made by Mr. Hoover to South America.

The better the trade of the empire the better will be our trade. Over two-fifths of our exports go to the British Empire. Canada is our largest customer with the British Isles a close second. We want them all prosperous. To maintain our living standards we have and shall retain some advantage in our home markets under the tariff, but imports of about three billion dollars, free from duties, make us the second largest free market in the world. No nation can do all the export trade on earth. Unless it is properly distributed it diminishes. We can take our chances with all other exporters and wish them well.

Beau Brummel Bootlegger Bounces Into Jail and Out

Habeas Corpus Action Frees Terry Druggan, "Public Enemy," Speedily After Judge Lyle Gives Him Year for Contempt of Court.

Chicago, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Terry Druggan, erstwhile millionaire beer peddler, bounced into jail today—and bounced right out again.

Municipal Judge John H. Lyle sentenced the Beau Brummel bootlegger to jail for a year on a contempt charge, refused bail pending an appeal and ordered him locked up at once.

Druggan's attorneys immediately got a writ of habeas corpus from Judge Joseph Burke, who ruled that granting of bond pending appeal was mandatory, and released the "public enemy" on $5,000 bail.

Manifestly broken in health, Druggan got little sympathy from Judge John H. Lyle, whose municipal felony court has become an unhappy rendezvous for "public enemies." The pleas of his attorney had been waved aside and the crusading judge, a candidate for mayor, pronounced sentence.

A few moments later Judge Lyle heard a rustling in the adjacent bureau of identification, where Druggan was finger-printed and photographed. He went in to find the prisoner seated in a chair drinking milk.

"Take that man and lock him up," the court ordered. Druggan was led away to jail.

It was the former beer baron's failure to appear before Judge Lyle at vagrancy hearings that incurred the court's wrath and the contempt citation. Druggan had been named in one of Lyle's "public enemy" warrants, arrested and arraigned. Later he was absent from a scheduled hearing and his attorneys and physicians testified he was too ill to attend.

Prosecutors and court investigated, raided his luxurious downtown hotel and of the other three suspects are involved."

In addition to Mrs. Bargfrede, Vernon Limerick and Richard Reed, the police are also holding William E. Paddy, her escort on the night of December 30, and, so far as police can learn, the last one to see her alive.

End of Probe Seen.

Mr. Collins and counsel for the prisoners are hopeful that the inquest will be ended early next week. Nearly a score of witnesses remain to be questioned. Patrolman Langdon will likely be on the stand for several hours, as he has stated to his attorney that he will tell everything he knows about the Limerick family.

James O'Shea, counsel for Reed, Limerick, and Paddy, has not decided whether he will place his clients on the stand. In any event, he said, he will not permit the Government counsel to cross-examine them.

Observers who have attended the inquest are almost unanimous in their belief that all four of the prisoners will be held for the grand jury unless some tangible evidence that directs suspicion at one particular suspect is unearthed through the testimony.

Respite for Steeg While Foe Is Ill

Cheron Can Not Introduce Interpellation on Oustric Bank Failure.

Paris, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—The ill wind which brought illness today to Henri Cheron, minister of justice, may blow some good to the Steeg government, for until he recovers the opposition can not introduce the dangerous interpellation of the Oustric Bank failure.

Discussion of this case has been awaited with considerable anxiety, for it is one of a series on which the fate of the government may depend. It is Cheron's department which is under fire, however, and nothing can be done about the issue until he recovers.

It is expected that when the Chamber of Deputies reconvenes tomorrow the premier will ask for an immediate start of discussions on the budget or on the national equipment bill, and that unless unforeseen complications arise the government will have comparatively smooth sailing until debate on the war credits begins.

Parley to Review Trade Problems

Construction Group Seeks to Advise Cooperating Agencies.

The executive committee of the National Conference on Construction will hold its first meeting today in the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. The meeting is called jointly by Secretary of Commerce Lamont and Julius H. Barnes, chairman of the executive committee.

Specific purposes of the conference are to review outstanding common problems of business and other interests identified with public and private construction; to select a limited number of problems to lend themselves to constructive intergroup action; to develop factual studies of such problems, and to agree on recommendations to be made to the cooperating agencies, Secretary Lamont said yesterday.

The conference is the result of several months of informal discussion among representatives of construction industries.

Work Is Offered To "Jobless" Men

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Mayor Frank Edwards, of Seattle, disappointed leaders of an "unemployment demonstration" today. He offered them jobs.

A delegation of nine men called on the mayor after a downtown parade of several hundred marchers and demanded $5,000,000 be raised for unemployment relief by cutting the police department in half and reducing the pay of city officials.

The mayor offered to put the delegation to work either in the street or the water department at $4.50 a day each. The delegates were visibly disappointed and told the mayor he did not seem to understand what they were really after. They finally agreed, however, to tell the people waiting outside about the jobs.

otherwise would have interfered with each other."

In offering his report to the board of Chest trustees for approval, Chairman Corcoran Thom asserted that amounts granted various Chest agencies had been agreed upon only after the most careful consideration, and that the sum asked was the least possible to allow them to operate adequately during 1931.

Salaries Are Not Increased.

No allowances for any increases in salaries were made, he declared, and character building and other organizations outside the family relief group were held to the lowest possible minimum, even repairs that would have otherwise been considered necessary this year being postponed until later in order that every possible penny might go for relief.

Mr. Thom also explained that the Chest reserve fund of $100,000 left from the 1929 campaign, and the $50,000 gift from the inaugural committee, which can not be repeated this year, had been used to meet the demands brought about by unemployment and the drought, making that much more to be raised this year.

Elwood Street, director of the Chest, declared that more money is necessary this year because the Chest organizations are facing the heaviest burden of unemployment relief in the history of the city.

Dr. William Mather Lewis, president of Lafayette College and former president of George Washington University, will be one of the principal speakers at the inspirational dinner to be held by members of the Chest special gifts committee at the Willard tonight. Other speakers include Senator Couzens, Allen T. Burns, Edward F. Calliday, Mrs. James F. Curtis, Frederic A. Delano, John Hays Hammond, Newbold Noyes and Elwood Street.

Section chiefs and keymen of the social agencies division held a meeting yesterday at the Y. W. C. A. E. C. Graham, chairman of the group solicitation unit and James A. Councilor, Chest auditor, were speakers.

LUCAS' REPLY ASKS APOLOGY BY SMITH

Holds New Yorker Maligned Hoover; To Make Amend if Former Is Dry.

KENT ANSWER RULED OUT

(Associated Press.)

Robert H. Lucas, executive director of the Republican national committee, said yesterday he would apologize to Alfred E. Smith for sending out a cartoon in the last election depicting him and Chairman John J. Raskob as "wet" if Smith would state he is now for prohibition.

Lucas also inquired if Smith and the Democratic chairman were ready to apologize for permitting a campaign to "misrepresent and smear" President Hoover.

The former New York Governor, in a letter to Senator Wagner (Democrat), New York, demanded an apology from the Republican national organization for "permitting" Lucas to distribute a barroom cartoon entitled "Al Smith-Raskob Idea of Happiness."

Thought Smith Wet.

"Gov. Smith asks me to apologize," said Lucas in a formal statement from Republican headquarters. "He says a cartoon was distributed which conveyed the information that he was 'wet.' He says that the impression made there was based on incorrect information. If the governor will state he had done a complete about face since 1928 and is now for prohibition, then I owe him an apology."

"In the meantime," he added, "I should be glad to know if the governor and Mr. Raskob are considering apologizing to the American people for the action of Gov. Smith's handpicked chairman, Mr. Raskob, in subsidizing with large sums of money an organized campaign extending over more than a year to misrepresent and smear the President of the United States."

Smith's letter was read into the record of the Senate campaign funds committee yesterday on motion of Senator Wagner.

Kent Reply Kept Out.

While little was heard at the Capitol yesterday of the Lucas-Smith incident, Senator Glenn (Republican), Illinois, attempted to place in the Congressional Record the reply of Frank R. Kent, of the Baltimore Sun, to Democratic Chairman Raskob's statement denying Kent's charge that he was the "first mortgage holder" of the Democratic party.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, objected to this and editorials from the Sun going in the Record when it developed Raskob's statement had not been accorded like publication.

SENATE PLANS NEW DIRECT RELIEF BILL

there was a huddle of Democrats and Progressives.

The Robinson move came late in the afternoon, after there had been earlier indications that something of the sort was brewing, and it came after further acrimonious discussion of the President's attitude in the matter.

Robinson demanded an apology from Chairman Wood, of the House appropriations committee, and Representative Hamilton Fish, of New York, for statements that Communists were responsible for the recent demonstrations at England, Ark. He said he had made an investigation of the charges and that Wood and Fish should either give the basis of their information or apologize.

Senator Gillett, of Massachusetts, defended the President and criticized senators for seeking to make it appear that they were more generous than the President, when he has a worldwide reputation for his humanitarianism. The Red Cross was fully capable of taking care of the situation, he insisted.

Passage Thought Possible.

Senator Barkley, of Kentucky, thereupon recalled that when Gillett was a member of the House he made no protest against a $300,000 appropriation to relieve fire sufferers of Salem, Mass. Gillett insisted he was not in favor of the appropriation, though he did not recall that he voted against it. Everybody laughed.

There was a question as to whether the Robinson amendment would not command a sufficient vote to carry on its own momentum, without resort to filibuster, as the extension of the relief to unemployment centers will appeal to Eastern senators and members of the House. At the same time there was a question as to whether it would not detract from the Red Cross' $10,000,000 appeal.

The attitude that Robinson has developed, partly because of his own indignation and partly because of the temper of his Democratic colleagues, carries all sorts of evil portent for the administration. He has heretofore been working with Republican leaders in an effort to avoid an extra session.

Poland, Roumania Will Rcnew Pact

Secret Treaty, Thought to Be Defensive Alliance, to Be Signed.

Geneva, Jan. 14 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The existing alliance between Poland and Roumania, which expires shortly, is to be extended for five years as a result of negotiations just concluded between Auguste Zaleski, Polish foreign minister, and George Mironescu, foreign minister of Roumania. The agreement extending the life of the pact is to be signed tomorrow by plenipotentiaries of the two countries.

The treaty is popularly supposed to be a purely defensive alliance, as far as its official wording is concerned. The text of several covering letters of an interpretive nature will not, however, be disclosed.

During the course of the negotiations brought to a successful close today the alliance was almost wrecked by Poland's insistence that Roumania agree to the combined armies of the two allies being under Polish high command in the event of hostilities. Bucharest refused to agree to this, proposing instead a French high command.

RED CROSS LEADER REPLIES TO THOMAS

the Secretary of War, with the certificate of the Secretary that it had been audited by the chief of finance of the Army and found correct. A copy of this report was sent to each senator and congressman last October, and some 8,000 copies in all were distributed."

Senator Thomas hurled his charges from the Senate floor while debate on drought relief was in progress.

"I make the statement," the senator said, "that Mr. Payne did not tell the appropriations committee of the resources under his control—that he did not say that he not only had $4,500,000 or $10,000,000 or $20,000,000 now available for any purpose.

"They have the money now, but for some reason they didn't advise the committee they had it."

Senator Walsh (Democrat), Massachusetts, asked how Senator Thomas reconciled his statement with the fact that the Red Cross had made a public appeal for $10,000,000.

"If the record is correct," the Oklahoman replied, "The managers of the National Red Cross have hoarded the money given to the organization in years past and now they are not only hoarding in but trying to conceal it, although they can not conceal it, because the record is here in Congress."

The Red Cross has the money in Government bonds which it could cash immediately if it needed to, Senator Thomas continued. He said he did not think it "fair" in the organization to ask the people of the country for $10,000,000 under those circumstances.

"The Red Cross has done great work in the past," Senator Thomas went on. "No organization has given greater service to suffering humanity. But if the testimony given by the chairman is by order of the board of directors, then I criticize the board, and, if not, I criticize him."

In answering Senator Thomas, Judge Payne said the Red Cross had only its endowment fund and reserve, permanently invested, with only the income available for current use, and its disaster fund.

Its various other funds already were allocated for other purposes, he said:

"The exact financial situation of the Red Cross (as of November 30, 1930) is this," Judge Payne said, plunging into the statistics. "It has an endowment fund and reserve permanently invested of $11,253,000, the income of which is available for current use. It has a disaster relief fund of $5,000,000, which has been appropriated for this present drought relief, of which $1,000,000 has already been expended.

"After providing the budget of $2,226,000 for work of this fiscal year, the Red Cross holds $1,784,000 devoted to our compelling obligation for continuing service to the disabled former service men and women of the World War.

"It has a fund of $850,000, supplemented by an appropriation by Congress, for the replacement of the wartime frame office building, the use of which must be discontinued in accordance with the Government's building program. There are restricted funds of $158,000.

"There remains $4,658,000 to safeguard all the other obligations to which the organization is committed, including immediate response to any other domestic disasters which may occur.

"The Red Cross will welcome the most searching investigation of its financial affairs at any time."

Supreme Court Hears Oil-Cracking Pleas

(Associated Press.)

The Supreme Court spent its entire session yesterday hearing arguments on an antitrust order against four large oil companies.

The order, issued by a three-judge Federal court at Chicago, required the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, the Texas Co. and the Gasoline Products Co. to cancel patent agreements covering the cracking process for making gasoline. Arguments are expected to be completed today.

Italian Ocean Planes Will Reach Rio Today

Rio De Janeiro, Jan. 14. (A.P.).—General Italo Balbo's transatlantic seaplane squadron will leave Bahia tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock and expects to reach Rio de Janeiro between 5 and 6 p. m., advices received here today said.

The Italians will be escorted from Victoria by seven Brazilian army planes which flow there yesterday.

SMITH URGES HELP IN RED CROSS DRIVE

Wires Payne People Should Back Appeal for Cash to Relieve Needy.

LARGE GIFTS RECEIVED

(Associated Press.)

Alfred E. Smith, who had some differences with President Hoover in 1928, found yesterday he could agree with him on the Red Cross drive for drought relief.

A telegram from him to the Red Cross said:

"Experience leads the American people to look with confidence to the American Red Cross for speedy relief in times of distress. The American people therefore should stand behind the Red Cross in their appeal for the necessary funds to continue the work to States suffering from drought."

In making the message public, Chairman John Barton Payne of the Red Cross said he was encouraged by the prompt response to President Hoover's appeal for $10,000,000.

Incoming telegrams told of chapters which were sending immediately checks for their quotas. Other messages came from organizations volunteering cooperation.

Two large contributions were received from New York chapters, $25,000 from the New York Times, and $5,000 from Mrs. E. H. Harriman.

The day also brought reports of communities made more miserable by rapidly falling temperature and snowstorms. A committee from Oklahoma independent Indian tribes, who had received no funds from the Government came to national Red Cross headquarters and told a pitiful tale of slow starvation in fifteen Oklahoma counties.

Payne dispatched five men of his executive staff into drought-stricken districts to report successively on whether the relief being given was adequate. William C. Hunt went to Alabama, Georgia, North Carolina and Virginia; Maurice Reddy, to Kentucky; Walter Davidson, to West Virginia; Richard Thrush, to Mississippi, and Earnest Krisk, to Louisiana.

The Red Cross announced quantities of clothing, including garments for children who can not go to school because they are too poorly clad, are being shipped daily.

One hundred pounds of yeast to combat pellagra was ordered shipped to England, Ark., where a food disturbance arose about a week ago.

Officials said the worst conditions encountered thus far have been in the mountains of Kentucky, where people have refused to ask help. A farm-to-farm canvass in this region disclosed a radius of 30 miles in which Red Cross workers found not a single fire in a kitchen stove because there was no food to cook in the house and none in prospect.

Quick Flood Control Funds Asked.

Chicago, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Resolutions seeking the immediate release of $320,000,000 by the Government for Mississippi flood control construction were framed today by the resolutions committee of Mayor William Hale Thompson's waterway and flood control conference.

NEW MOVE PLANNED IN POWER OUSTINGS

Walsh Would Have Senate Return Names to Committee for Study.

WHEELER RAPS HOOVER

A new test of the Senate's authority to question the right of George Otis Smith, Claude L. Draper and Marcel Garsaud to serve as members of the Federal Power Commission, was promised yesterday by Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, on whose motion the Senate requested President Hoover to return the three nominations for reconsideration, only to be met by a White House rebuff.

As soon as the Senate disposes of the nomination of Eugene V. Meyer, jr., to be governor of the Federal Reserve Board, to be considered tomorrow, Senator Walsh said he would ask that the names of the three commissioners be sent back to the interstate commerce committee for further investigation of their "fitness to hold office."

Restored to Calendar.

The names were restored to the executive calendar when the request for their return was made on the President and have remained there, despite Mr. Hoover's flat refusal to comply.

The expected attack on the President's stand was started by Senator Wheeler (Democrat), Montana, and directly aimed at what he contended was the President's "injection of the general power issue" into the controversy over the commission's action in discharging solicitor Charles A. Russell and Chief Accountant William V. King.

Referring to the President's implication that senators who voted for the Walsh motion attempted to draw the inference that those who opposed it and the White House were "friends of the power interests," Senator Wheeler said:

"That seems a strange statement for the President of the United States to issue, impugning the good intentions of the Senate.

"Where Does President Stand?"

"He has said that the debate on this question indicated that the Senate was concerned, not with the fact that they were not qualified, but because it wanted to insist on the selection of the commission's subordinates."

As a matter of fact, the real issue, Wheeler continued, is where the President is going to stand when it comes to the question of two public servants who have been fighting on the side of the public, and another public servant, Frank E. Bonner, fighting on the side of the power interests.

"The President," he added, "has chosen to stand by the man who was fighting for the power interests and to stand against Russell and King, who fought for the public interest."

Nye Investigation Committee 'Broke'

Must Suspend Its Work, Says Senator, Unless Given Funds.

(Associated Press.)

The Senate campaign funds committee is "broke." Chairman Nye said last night that unless additional money is voted by the Senate the committee will have to suspend operations.

A meeting of the audit committee has been called for today, however, to consider a resolution by Senator Nye asking $50,000 to continue the investigation of senatorial campaigns.

If the appropriation receives committee approval it will be called up immediately for Senate action. The Nye committee was voted $100,000 last spring when the investigations were ordered.

Inquiries are contemplated by Nye into the Montana and Alabama campaigns. He said the committee also had some additional work to do in winding up its study of the Nebraska, Colorado, and Delaware campaigns.

Name Is Selected For Hudson Span

Hoover Told Bridge Is George Washington Memorial.

(Associated Press.)

The new suspension bridge over the Hudson River between Fort Washington, N. Y., and Fort Lee, N. J., will be named the George Washington Memorial Bridge, President Hoover was informed yesterday by representatives of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission and the Port of New York Authority.

His callers were Representative Sol Bloom, of New York, and George B. Keim, who represented the New York and New Jersey members of the Port of New York Authority.

The bridge will cost $70,000,000, and its two main towers will be more than 100 feet higher than the Washington Monument. The bridge is expected to be opened to traffic in time for dedication ceremonies in 1932, when the entire country will celebrate the 200th anniversary of the birth of George Washington.

Firm Uses Earnings To Create New Jobs

New York, Jan. 14 (N.Y.W.N.S.)—An extra dividend of 4 per cent on the common stock was declared today by directors of the General Rubber & Tire Co. at their annual meeting in Akron, O., and W. O'Neil, president, announced that directors had set aside a sum equal to the dividend to be used this year in providing steady employment by financing out-of-season sales.

This is said to be the first measure of its kind taken by any of the larger industrial concerns for the welfare of its workers. Mr. O'Neil said his company's plant is sure to operate fully through the first quarter of this year and expressed hope for increased employment thereafter.

ALIEN AMENDMENT BEFORE COMMITTEE

Beck Attacks Refusal to Include Noncitizens in Apportionment.

HOCH SEES CHANGE VITAL

The Capper-Sparks resolution proposing to exclude alien residents in the apportionment of population for purposes of representation in the House of Representatives was the subject of a hearing yesterday before the judiciary committee, together with two other resolutions proposing similar amendments to the Federal Constitution.

Various dry organizations have been boosting this proposed legislation. The fact that dry senators and representatives introduced the measures in Congress naturally was construed as meaning that the prohibitionists are behind the movement.

Amendment Held Needed.

Representative Hoch (Republican), Kansas, author of one of the resolutions, was heard in its support, while Representative Beck (Republican), Pennsylvania, recognized as an outstanding constitutional lawyer, appeared in opposition.

"This proposed amendment is necessary in order to bring present conditions in harmony with the Constitution," said Mr. Hoch. "At the time the Constitution was drafted no differentiation was made between aliens and others in this country. In every State in the Union today citizenship is a precedent to suffrage and this is of importance in the consideration of the matter before you."

He pointed out that according to the 1920 census New York State had an alien population of 1,600,000, by virtue of which the State is allotted four more representatives. He insisted it was not fair to the other States that New York should cast four extra votes on important questions because 1,600,000 aliens happen to be congregated there.

Mr. Beck contended that "unless we depart from the theory of the Constituiton the aliens must be included in the count for apportionment of representatives," adding that "the Constitution has stood the test for 140 years."

Recalls Vital Compromise.

The great compromise in the framing of the Constitution, Mr. Beck said, concerned inclusion of aliens in the count. Unless that proviso had been adopted "there would have been no Constitutiin."

"An alien from my district is a constituent of mine," continued Mr. Beck. "He has to obey the laws which I help to make and he should have representation. The alien must contribute to the Treasury, and, if necessary, be conscripted in time of war.

"To deny these quasi-citizens the right of representation is to strike at the fundamental decencies of liberty."

Representative Sparks (Republican), Kansas, active dry and co-author of one of the resolutions, demanded immediate action. Chairman Graham was of another mind, declaring that further hearings should be granted. Hearings will be resumed next week.

Police in Miami Raise Ban Against Al Capone

Miami, Fla., Jan. 14 (A.P.).—The City of Miami has not exactly invited "Scarface" Al Capone to sojourn a while at his place here, but the word has been sent out by high authorities that if he wants to come to these environs, it will be all right.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

FORMER Representative Jimmie Begg is back in what is affectionately termed the Nation's Capital, thus giving rise to all sorts of reports that he is to succed George Akerson as one of Mr. Hoover's secretaries.

It may be that the reports are based on nothing more in the world than what appears to be the man's peculiar fitness for the job. He is as amiable as the amiable George himself, is aggressive and he knows his politics.

Begg is, in fact, what is known as one of those likable fighters. He hits hard and yet you like him.

* * * *

HE was the Republican whip in the House until he reached for a higher rung in the ladder, the governorship of his State, and missed. It is doubtful, though, if a more popular man was ever retired to private life.

A great part of Akerson's job, of course, is to deal with the gentlemen of the press, and Begg would be perfectly at home in that capacity, to say the least.

BEGG was Longworth's manager in his successful Speakership fight in 1924, and for years the men were inseparable friends. They fell out because when Begg ran for governor of Ohio Longworth supported Cooper and Begg lost by such a slender margin that he felt right bitter toward Longworth for a considerable time.

Our impression is, though, that the breach has been healed and that no one would be more tickled than Longworth to see Begg back here again.

* * * *

HOWEVER, we do not know that Mr. Hoover has him in mind.

It may be nothing more than the high esteem in which he is held that his name is being connected with the place.

Any number of other names have been mentioned for the job, prominently among them, Earl Venable, who as secretary of the Republican congressional campaign committee for years, knows the game as do few men.

Somebody must be appointed soon because the genial George must be on his way to New York—and about George, in all of the frowns and gloom of officialdom around here, you will miss his smile, his cheerful air.

NEW MERIT SYSTEM TO RATE DRY FORCE

Woodcock Plans Promotions According to Records of Agents.

TELLS JUDGING BASIS

(Associated Press.)

If Prohibition Director Woodcock has his way, the small army of Federal dry agents will be one of the "best trained bodies of investigators in the world," he announced yesterday as he made public another move in that direction.

A circular letter addressed to all agents, administrators and deputies was dispatched from his office, putting into effect today a merit system of promotion, under which each man may better his position on a definite scale.

Woodcock explained in detail, with example, how much weight would be given to each of the factors entering into the making of a perfect dry agent. Not the least of these was the ten points allowed for the performance of an "outstanding accomplishment," in enforcing the prohibition laws.

"To attain this credit," the prohibition director wrote, "the officer must have demonstrated his ability, and have been the subject of an official communication which sets forth an accomplishment acceptable to the rating officer."

Other factors in the scale were "self-improvement as evidenced by completion of correspondence courses" and "knowledge as evidenced by completion of extension courses."

The correspondence courses are dispatched regularly from prohibition headquarters here, and virtually the entire force of agents has subscribed to these lessons, despite the fact that this study is voluntary.

The extension courses, however, are compulsory and consist of two weeks of intensive work at impromptu schools, set up in various parts of the twelve prohibition districts.

In the scale set forth by Woodcock, the study of "criminal investigation" and "constitution and law" would count 5 points each. The agent's term of service would count 2½ points for each six months of work, while 50 per cent of each man's general efficiency rating would be allowed.

U. S. Revolvers Stolen.

Two large-caliber revolvers, property of the U. S. Government, were stolen from a stock room in the Department of Labor building Tuesday, John T. Flourney, special agent, Department of Justice, told police yesterday. The guns were worth $29.

LABOR CHIEFS BACK MOVE FOR WET WAR

Executive Council Reported as Approving Plans for Capital Base.

PARLEY HERE FEB. 23-24

Miami, Fla., Jan. 14 (A.P.).—The Miami Herald says the executive council of the American Federation of Labor, in session here, has approved the establishment of headquarters at Washington of labor's legislative committee for modification of the Volstead act and that a conference will be held there February 23 and 24 to plan a campaign for the committee.

William Green, president of the federation, declined to comment tonight on the plan.

"That will be another story some other time," he said.

The paper says Ira N. Ornborn, president of the Cigar Makers International; John Sullivan, president of the New York State Federation, and Al Kugler and Joseph Obergfelt, of Cincinnati, members of the committee, appeared before the council executive session.

Purposes of the campaign will be to use legitimate avenues to develop and crystallize public opinion toward modification, and to stamp out bootlegging, illicit distilling, and manufacture of alcoholic beverages in the home.

The campaign will be conducted through internatoinal unions, State federations and local central bodies. Journals of the various organizations, as well as the radio, will be used also. Available for the campaign will be 14,000 paid organizers in the various international and local organizations.

Federal Workers To Go on New List

New Record Will Affect Those Transferred to Other Departments.

A change in the method of keeping employment records of the thousands of Government workers in Washington is being made under the direction of the Civil Service Commission and the general accounting office. At present, records are not transferred when workers themselves move from one department to another. Under the new plan they will be.

At present, an employe in the Department of Agriculture has his record there. If he transfers to the Treasury, the record in Agriculture stays there and a new form is made up for him in Treasury. This new form bears the notation that he has been transferred from another department, but does not have the record. As a result, if Treasury officials desire to refer to his previous record, they must borrow it from Agriculture.

Under the new plan, a standard form is kept in all departments, and the employe's complete record follows him about. It will be some time before the new system is in operation, however, as all the old records must be transcribed on the new forms.

SENATORS TO HEAR ROOT UPON COURT

Foreign Relations Committee Arranges Hearing for Wednesday.

WALSH URGES ACTION

(Associated Press.)

The controversial World Court issue emerged yesterday from a brief period of slumber to thrust itself again into the Senate picture.

It was revived by a request from Senator Walsh (Democrat), Montana, that the decision to defer action until next December be reconsidered.

Later, the Senate foreign relations committee, which had voted postponement, agreed to meet next Wednesday to hear Elihu Root, who helped to draft the modified proposal for American adherence. It had previously been decided to hear the noted jurist at some future time.

Senator Walsh was absent when the committee voted, 10 to 9, to defer consideration. He agreed, however, there was no opportunity for action at this session, although he is opposed to the postponement motion.

Assurances were given by committee members that if extra session of the new Congress is called the postponement until December would not be binding. The request of Senator Walsh was put over until next week.

Had Walsh been recorded on the postponement motion it would have lost on a tie vote. However, he can not force reconsideration, but, in view of the situation, he was confident he would be given a chance to record his opposition.

Considerable interest attaches to the prospective examination of Mr. Root. Chairman Borah said this hearing would be in open session.

After the other nations refused to accept a Senate reservation to American adherence, Elihu Root, with a committee of international jurists, redrafted the court rules in an attempt to reconcile the Senate's position with that of the other powers.

Meanwhile, the Senate foes of the world court were looking for a statement from President Hoover that he would not call the Senate into special session solely for consideration of the court.

There has been a strong intimation from these forces that the drive to avoid an extra session of Congress will be hard to carry through successfully if such assurance is not forthcoming.

Three Mail Sacks On Coach Robbed

Thefts Second to Occur at Union Station Within Week.

Thefts from three mail sacks from a Norfolk & Western mail coach sidetracked in the yards at the Union Station yesterday were reported to police of the Sixth Precinct last night. Value of the articles taken from the sacks, two of which were owned by the Pennsylvania Terminal Co. of New York City, and the third by the Bellas Hess Co., of Birmingham, Ala., is not known, police said.

The sacks were cut open some time between 8 o'clock yesterday morning and 6:30 o'clock last night, railroad authorities said. The theft was the second from a mail coach in less than a week. Last Saturday two sacks were taken from a Southern Railway mail car at the station.

Broken Nose, Arrests Results of Street Row

One broken nose and police charges of drunkenness and assault were the result of fisticuffs exchanged by a taxicab driver and another man yesterday afternoon on East Capitol street near Second street northeast.

John Mahoney, 26 years old, of Indiana avenue near Second street northwest, recipient of the nose fracture, was treated at Casualty Hospital, after which he was removed to Gallinger Hospital on a drunkenness charge. The taxi driver, Thomas F. Lyon, 29 years old, of Seventh street near E street southeast, was arrested by Ninth Precinct police, who placed a charge of assault against him.

wine, whisky and gin was obtained by the operators had not been ascertained. A small quantity of liquor was seized in the office, he said.

"We are prepared to show that this group did a $5,000,000 business in three years of existence," he asserted.

Customers were solicited through the mails in letters quoting liquor prices and shipping details, he added.

D.A.R. Group Hears Fish Talk on Reds

Cheers Greet Representative for Activity Against Communists.

Representative Hamilton Fish, jr., chairman of the special committee investigating communist activities, was the guest speaker last night at a meeting of the Maj. L' Enfant, chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution in the District at the Washington Club.

He told the gathering of the work now being done by the committee and of the duty of all Americans to cooperate in withstanding the attack now being launched by the Soviet Government to attempt to undermine the Government of the United States. Prolonged applause greeted Mr. Fish's remarks.

A section of the Army Band furnished music. Mrs. Albert N. Baggs, regent of the chapter, introduced the speaker.

JOB CENSUS BEGINS TODAY IN 20 CITIES

Number Idle Yesterday Is to Set Standard for Relief Calculations.

APRIL FIGURES ARE GIVEN

(Associated Press.)

In twenty large cities today a new unemployment census, asked by President Hoover's emergency relief committee, will open. More than 4,000 enumerators will be at work.

Census Director William M. Steuart went to New York yesterday to help start the tally-taking there.

The number of persons who were on the job yesterday in those twenty cities will tell the employment tale. The number who were not will set a new standard for Nation-wide relief calculations, in comparison with the April census unemployment situation.

The day before the census taker calls was adopted by the Census Bureau as a basis of determining unemployment. This was done, the bureau experts explained, because many a wife would answer the doorbell. If her husband was out looking for a job she might not know if he had found it. But she would be likely to know if he worked the day before.

"That there has been material change in unemployment conditions since April is acknowledged by all," said bureau officials.

Census Bureau machines will be set to work with the arrival of the first set of schedules to determine the extent of that change.

A summary was compiled at the bureau of the April status of fifteen of the twenty cities having a combined population of 13,129,422. Of this number, 514,322 were out of work and looking for a job; 89,954 on layoff without pay; 26,103 out of work and unable to work; 31,921 had jobs but were idle because of illness; 12,466 were out of jobs and not looking for work; 8,907 had jobs, but voluntarily were idle without pay, and 9,685 had jobs and were drawing pay, though not at work.

Lawyer Seriously Hurt When Struck by Auto

Thomas Walker, 80 years old, colored, lawyer for 45 years, was struck and seriously injured yesterday by an automobile driven by A. Zapal, 29 years old, of Kenyon street near Sixth street northwest, at the corner of New Jersey avenue and Third street northwest.

Walker, who lives at 1811 Eighth street northwest, was treated at Sibley Hospital and later removed to Carson's Hospital. He suffered lacerations to the head, fracture of the shoulder, and shock.

WILBUR AND KELLEY MEET ON OIL TODAY

House Committee Will Hear Both on Clarifying Law on Shale Lands.

SENATORS WILL GATHER

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Wilbur and Ralph S. Kelley, who have aimed shafts of criticism at each other for several months, are to meet today for the first time. They are scheduled to appear before the House public lands committee to testify on proposals by Mr. Wilbur to clarify the laws governing administration of oil shale lands.

Meanwhile, the Senate public lands committee planned a meeting for today to consider the charge by Mr. Kelley, former field agent for the Interior Department's General Land Office, that the department had favored large oil companies in disposing of Colorado oil shale lands.

Mr. Kelley made his charge several months ago. The Department of Justice, after an investigation, exonerated the Interior Department. Subordinate officials of the Department were called into conference yesterday afternoon by Mr. Wilbur, but no comment was forthcoming after the session.

The Senate committee will consider the resolution by Senator Walsh, Montana, asking a senatorial investigation of Mr. Kelley's charges.

The committee is expected to name a subcommittee to make a preliminary inquiry into the charges to determine whether a more thorough investigation is necessary.

Senator Walsh has said he was not satisfied with the Justice Department investigation. He said he would propose that the subcommittee call Secretary Wilbur, Solicitor Finney and Mr. Kelley.

Dry Law Report Still Undelivered

Prohibition Commission Has Apparently Met With Temporary Snag.

(Associated Press.)

The prohibition report remained in the hands of the Law Enforcement Commission last night, with the prospects of its immediate submission to President Hoover apparently having struck another temporary snag. Neither at the White House nor commission headquarters was any definite indication that the report would be submitted to the President today. It was acknowledged to be virtually completed, however.

The commission met yesterday despite the fact that only three of the eleven members were present. The session, after ten minutes, adjourned until today. Arriving at commission headquarters shortly after the session had adjourned, Henry W Anderson, of Richmond, put the finishing touches on his opinion, to be attached to the full report with the opinions of the other ten members.

Indications came from the White House and the commission that the report would be of considerable length, and that the annexed opinions would run several thousand words more.

Airship Los Angeles Ends All-Day Flight

Lakehurst, N. J., Jan. 14 (A.P.).—After an all-day flight, the first since the ship was overhauled, the naval dirigible Los Angeles was returned to her hangar at 5:30 p. m. today.

The Los Angeles flew over New York, along the New Jersey coast, and to Philadelphia. Lieut. Comdr. V. A. Clarke, in charge, said her performance was satisfactory.

HAMILTON RENAMED BOY SCOUTS' LEADER

Officers Elected by District Council at Annual Meeting Here.

3,548 BADGES AWARDED

George E. Hamilton was reelected president of the District of Columbia Council of the Boy Scouts of America at the annual council meeting yesterday.

Dr. Paul Bartsch, Julius Garfinkel, Samuel Kauffmann and Capt. Chester Wells were chosen vice presidents, and Barry Mohun was selected as commissioner and George Hewitt Myers reelected as treasurer. New members added to the executive board are Harry B. Caton, George E. Hamilton, jr., A. N. Miller and Charles H. Tomkins.

Last year 4,907 boys were enrolled as scouts in the local council and 1,990 men took part in the work, according to the report of Scout Executive Linn O. Drake. The work of the council extends not only to communities in the District of Columbia, but includes nearby Maryland and Virginia. Since the annexation of additional territory in 1930, the council boundaries reach to the Pennsylvania line on the north, Point Lookout on the south, Chesapeake Bay on the east and the Blue Ridge Mountains on the west, he said.

Dr. Bartsch, chairman of the court of honor committee, reported that 3,548 merit badges had been awarded during the year.

Merchants Will Move To New Places Feb. 16

A number of wholesale and retail commission merchants who occupied buildings near Center Market will move to their new location, at the Camp Meigs site, Fifth and Florida avenue northeast, on February 16, it has been announced. They will occupy 52 storerooms which have been completed.

It also was reported by the office of Phillips & Caldwell, exclusive agents for the property, that plans are under way for the construction of another group of buildings for the poultry dealers.

Man Pleads Guilty Near End of Trial

Charles Young, Negro, pleaded guilty to manslaughter in District Supreme Court yesterday in the death of Elijah Quarles, Negro, during a card game dispute November 9.

Young's plea, which was accepted by Justice Jesse C. Adkins, stopped his trial on a charge of first degree murder. Through his attorney, Octave Bigoness, Young offered to plead guilty to lesser offense after all testimony had been taken and arguments were about to begin.

Edward R. Donaldson, micro-analyst of the Police Department, made his first appearance as a witness in a homicide case. He testified that stains on a knife found on the dead man were not caused by blood. Assistant United States Attorney James R. Kirkland appeared for the Government.

United War Veterans Have Annual Dinner

The annual dinner of the United Veterans of American Wars, G. P. O. Unit No. 1, was held last night in Harding Hall of the Government Printing Office. Reports of officers were presented.

The entertainment program was presented by the players under the direction of Clara Roehrle. Those taking part were Florence Yocum, Peggy Hurdle, Ann Arlen, Virginia McCumber, Helen Geiger, Fred Nolan, Bill McClure and Cliff Yeomans.

New York Man Hurt As Car Runs Off Road

William Mann, 33 years old, of Lynbrook, N. Y., was seriously injured yesterday when the auto he was driving ran off the highway two miles south of Fort Humphreys, Va. He was taken to Emergency Hospital by O. P. Hevant, also of Lynbrook, a passenger in the car.

DRUGGAN SENTENCED TO JAIL FOR CONTEMPT

suite and his North Side apartment, found evidences of hasty departure and decided Druggan was well enough to appear. His $10,000 bond was declared forfeited and the contempt charge added.

Druggan's counsel contended in vain the bond forfeiture was ample punishment and that Druggan must violate some court order to be found in contempt. It was emphasized that Druggan's physicians had testified he suffered from a complication of diseases and that incarceration might menace his health.

Jail cells are no novelty to Druggan. In 1924 and 1925 he served with his former partner, Frankie Lake, jail terms for prohibition conspiracy and the liberties he was allowed in and out of jail resulted later in sentences for the sheriff and jail warden for contempt of Federal Court.

Last Monday Druggan pleaded guilty to violating Federal income-tax laws, stipulating that if Ralph Capone or Lawrence O'Brien should win appeals from conviction on similar charges he may change to a plea of not guilty. More than a year ago he had offered the Government $25,000 to wipe out his debts to the Treasury—the Government claimed he owed $243,209—and had protested his net earnings were really only $100,000 or $125,000. He had filed no income-tax return in 1922 or 1923, he said, because he believed no return was required on the profits from manufacture and sale of beer, and, besides, his finances became exhausted in defending the trial that resulted in jail sojourns in 1924-25.

During the income-tax investigation the Government attached Druggan's Miami Beach estate, which his agents bought in at $40,000; $85,000 was realized when Druggan and Lake posted the amount to stop the auction of their Chicago brewery property, Lake's home, and Druggan's stock farm in Lake County.

There still hangs over his head the vagrancy charge and the anticipated jail sentence and fine on the income-tax charge.

INAUGURATED FOR FOURTH TIME

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland yesterday began his fourth term, taking the oath of office from Chief Justice Carroll T. Bond, of the Maryland Court of Appeals, in inauguration ceremonies at Annapolis.

FOURTH-TERM OATH IS TAKEN BY RITCHIE

HEARD BY BIG THRONGS

State is an honor never before attained by any other Maryland governer. No other Maryland governor has ever succeeded himself.

That Gov. Ritchie views the future optimistically is indicated by the following passage from his address:

"I enter upon my fourth term with the conviction that, in spite of drought and depression, our future will be even more glorious than our past. There is so much that can be done to make this a better Nation, and more and more is being done. In the doing of it I like to feel that Maryland is both an example and an inspiration."

The inaugural ceremonies covered a period from 11:45 to 1 o'clock, as far as official events were concerned, but the governor held an informal reception in the old senate chamber soon afterward and shook hands with some several thousand persons.

Dignity marked the ceremonies, and while they were of a simple nature, in accordance with the wishes of the governor, without the parade, customary in years gone by, the inaugural crowds that piled in from Baltimore and other sections of the State furnished demonstrations inside and outside the Statehouse. Perhaps the largest representaiton was from the Young Men's Bohemian Club and its ladies' auxiliary. They made up a party of several hundred, headed by a band.

Military Touch Added.

Detachments of the Maryland National Guard and bands of music furnished a military touch. And the full complement of the Naval Academy Band, under Lieut. H. J. Peterman, its director, stationed in the grounds about the executive mansion, gave a concert from 12 to 2 o'clock.

The actual ceremonies got under way promptly at 11:45 o'clock when the party of official guests formed a procession from the executive mansion to the Statehouse.

In the party were former Gov. Emerson C. Harrington and Senator Phillips Lee Goldsborough, the latter also a former governor; Brig. Gen. Milton A. Reckord, adjutant general of Maryland; David C. Winebrenner 3d, secretary of state, and the Right Rev. Edward T. Helfenstein, bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Maryland; Senator Millard E. Tydings; William C. Bruce and Blair Lee, former senators; Maj. Gen. Fred W. Sladen, commander of the Third Corps Area; Rear Admiral S. S. Robison, superintendent of the Naval Academy; Mayor Broening, Frank A. Furst, William S. Gordy, jr., State comptroller; William Preston Lane, attorney general; James A. Young, clerk of the court of appeals; Mayor Walter E. Quenstedt, of Annapolis, and John M. Dennis, State treasurer.

Mother Hears Address.

Gov. Ritchie's mother, for the first time, could not take part in the ceremony. Poor health compelled her to remain in the executive mansion where she listened to her son's address over a radio receiver.

The Senate and House of Delegates, which had been in session, recessed, to make way for the inaugural, and the official party assembled in the Senate chamber where at noon the oath of office was administered to the governor by Chief Judge Carroll T. Bond of the court of appeals. This was the signal for the first big demonstration of the day, and a salute of 19 guns was fired from field pieces on the campus of St. Johns College.

The governor then sent to the Senate the renomination of David C. Weinbrenner, secretary of State. The Senate promptly confirmed this nomination and the governor administered the oath to that official in the executive offices.

Meanwhile senators and delegates, judges of the court of appeals, official guests and others had assembled in the House chamber to await the arrival of the governor to deliver his inaugural address.

Greeted by Ovation.

The ceremonies opened with an invocation by Bishop Helfenstein, immediately after which the governor began his address. As he arose the governor received a tremendous ovation. The governor began his address at 12:16 and concluded at 1 o'clock.

Conspicuous among the visitors was a delegation of some 100 loyal Democrats from Washington County. They made the journey in motor buses that bore large banners inscribed "Ritchie for President in 1932," and "On to Washington."

With no other business on the calendar following the inauguration of Gov. Ritchie, the Senate and House adjourned this afternoon until Tuesday night.

D. A. R. HEAD LAYS IDLENESS TO REDS

President General Quotes Communist as Basis for Her Belief.

SOVIET RUSSIA SCORED

The danger to American institutions from Communistic activities in this country was emphasized at a meeting held under the auspices of the American Legion and Auxiliary of Montgomery County last night in the Rockville High School.

Maj. Gen. Amos A. Fries, former chief of the chemical warfare service of the United States Army, and Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, were the speakers.

They told the 650 persons present Communism is endeavoring by every means to overthrow the American Government, religion, home, and liberty, in order that a Soviet Government could be established.

Quoting a speech made four years ago by a leading Communist, in which it was said Communism's only chance would be a widespread unemployment situation, Mrs. Hobart submitted that she believed the Reds had had a part in bringing about the present crisis.

Gen Fries decried efforts of Protestant ministers in preaching pacifism. He said the only way to help the Russian people is to refuse to buy Russian goods.

Patriotic airs were played by the Victory Post Legion Band. Warner E. Pumphrey, general chairman, introduced George Henderson, of Cumberland, department commander of Maryland, who presided. Mrs. Estelle Hunt Dean sang the "Star-Spangled Banner," accompanied on the piano by Miss Helen Dean, her daughter. Invocation and benediction were pronounced by the Rev. Millard F. Minnix, of Rockville.

Two Men Taken In Raid on Still

Frederick Group Seizes Big Lot of Mash, Sugar and Moonshine.

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., Jan. 14.—Seven policemen, three deputy sheriffs and three State policemen led by Sheriff Charles W. Crum, raided a still of 500 gallons capacity, in the Linganore Hills, fifteen miles from here yesterday. Two men in charge were capture and two tons of sugar, 5,000 gallons of mash, about 2,000 pounds of meal and 70 gallons of moonshine were confiscated.

A "tip" that whisky was being hauled in trucks from a secluded location in the hills and distributed among operators of automobiles led to the raid.

The prisoners said they were Lester Clark and Marshall Williams, both of Hagerstown. Clark is a brother of Norris Clark, who with other moonshiners, operated a big still in Catoctin Mountain, near Thurmont, last year, the raiding of which resulted in the killing of Deputy Sheriff Clyde Hauver.

Virginia Tags Are Out.

The Virginia 1930 automobile license tags will be "dead" at midnight tonight, the State having allowed 15 days in which to procure the 1931 tags. After midnight all persons using the old tags will be subject to arrest and fine.

CLARA BOW, COURT HEARS, VERY DRUNK

GIRL ACCUSED OF THEFT

Miss Bow was not in court during the reading of the confession by Miss Dorothy Adams, a stenographer.

Miss DeVoe also appeared on the stand and testified that Blaney Matthews, district attorney's investigator, had threatened to prosecute her on "40 or 50 counts if she did not come through with all she knew." Mr. Matthews denied the charge.

Testimony in the case in which Miss DeVoe is charged with theft of $16,000 from her employer, continued today to center about alleged activities of the "it" girl.

Intimate bits of Clara's doings were cut with caniers clearness in sharp phrases from the purported confession.

"One more slam in the papers and Clara is through—she was told to keep her name out of the papers."

"I said unless Miss Bow came around to my way of thinking there might be trouble."

"Yes, I asked $125,000 for things that I know. I think it would be to her advantage to keep my mouth shut."

"Miss Bow was drunk. If I had gotten into an argument with her, she would have tried to kill me. She had tried before."

"On Friday night," Miss DeVoe's confession continued, "she was getting dressed and she was drunk, very, very drunk. She wanted to go to the Beach House and wanted me to go with her. She had a bunch of strange people I don't know, and I said, 'You go; I don't care for these people, and I'll not go.'"

Story of the Lost Watch.

Miss DeVoe then told of Miss Bow's watch being lost at the beach and of a search which included sifting of the beach sands. The insurance company was notified, she said, and sent a $750 check.

Two months later the watch was found under a cover of Miss Bow's bathroom perfume table. Miss DeVoe said she told the actress the $750 must be returned to the insurance company, and Clara Bow said:

"The —— I got to give them back that money. You go stick that watch in the safe deposit box and keep your mouth shut."

Miss DeVoe's alleged admission she had embezzled around $35,000 from the actress also was read into the trial record.

Amount of Money Drawn.

"How much money have you drawn out of that account of Miss Bows' above your salary?" Matthews asked.

"Oh, approximately $35,000."

"What I mean is, how much you have appropriated to your own use?"

"About that much—I couldn't tell you exactly."

"How long did that embezzling continue?"

"I was going to tell Clara about it later on. I could not see my mother lose her home and everything. I made five or six payments on the house and car. I started taking money about September, 1929."

Nathan Freedman, attorney for Miss DeVoe, failed in an attempt to bar the confession on the grounds it was obtained through duress and intimidation.

Miss Bow was pictured by Miss De Voe as a likely victim of wild money making schemes, Benjamin O'Dell, Hollywood bank official, testified. In withdrawing $22,000 from the "it" girl's savings account, Miss De Voe told him, he said, she was afraid Rex Bell, the actress's "boy friend" would induce her to invest in a "wild scheme."

"What was this wild scheme?" asked Nathan Freedman, defense attorney.

Told Him About Many.

"Oh, Miss De Voe told me about so many of them. Let's see. I think this one was a wild idea some German had of raising $1,000 bills to $10,000 bills."

O'Dell said the $22,000 was obtained in a certified check and indicated she was placing it in a safety deposit box, but when this box was opened a few days later at Miss Bow's request, it was empty.

Rex Bell sat beside the actress most of the time she was at the counsel table. Once he was summoned to the witness stand to tell of receiving 1,588 canceled checks and papers from Miss De Voe in a black suitcase. These he turned over to the district attorney, he said.

"You are the same man mentioned in telegrams to Miss Bow?" asked Freedman.

"I haven't seen the telegrams."

Freedman showed him the telegrams, previously introduced as evidence. "They're all my telegrams," he said, blushing.

Reads Only One.

Deputy District Attorney Dave Clark objected to Freedman's reading the telegrams. He was overruled. Freedman, however, read only one.

It said in part:

"Dear sweetheart darling Baby, I do miss you and this is only the beginning."

W. I. Gilbert, Miss Bow's attorney in a number of cases, testified Miss De Voe asked him to tell the actress she had telegrams and letters of hers, threatening to turn them over to the newspapers unless she was paid for them. Gilbert said he asked how much she wanted.

"I'll take $125,000 and not a cent less," he quoted Miss De Voe as replying.

Coffins for Old Parents Lie In Room of Paralyzed Son

Helpless Page County Man Has Gazed Two Years on Grim Death Reminders, Awaiting Couple 80 Years Old, Whose Lives Tragedy Has Dogged.

Special to The Washington Post.

Luray, Va., Jan. 14.—Two coffins awaiting their owners' deaths, occupying the same room where lies a paralyzed former fireman on the Norfolk and Western Railroad, are intensifying tragic events connected with the family of J. D. Ruffner, a farmer of this county.

For a long time the coffins, made for Mr. and Mrs. Ruffner, have been in their home. The farmer and his wife are both more than 80 years old. In order to avoid "confusion" at the time of his death, Mr. Ruffner says, the coffins were made. A local undertaker furnished them according to Mr. Ruffner's specifications.

J. C. Ruffner, the paralyzed former railroad man, is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Ruffner. For two years he has occupied the same room where the death-reminders are kept. He can neither move nor speak; only stare at the receptacles.

Tragedy has trailed the Ruffner family for years. Another son of the aged couple a number of years ago shot and killed his uncle. He served only a short time in prison. This was followed by another member of the Ruffner family shooting and killing their son-in-law, Mark Walker. This killing was committeed within 100 feet of the coffins and the paralyzed fireman's room.

Later Noah Fox, a relative of the Ruffners, was shot and killed within 100 yards of the "coffin room." Fox was slain by his son-in-law, George Riley, who was acquitted of the crime in the Page County court.

Plumber Accused Of Burning Wife

Wyoming Man Denies He Threw Gasoline on Her and Ignited Dress.

Torrington, Wyo., Jan. 14 (A.P.).—An information charging Arthur L. Benshoof, Torrington plumber, with burning his wife to death after he threw gasoline on her was filed by Prosecuting Attorney J. L. Sawyer today.

The alleged "torch slaying" occurred January 1.

Benshoof denied the murder charge. He told officers his wife was cleaning wearing apparel with gasoline and spilled some of it on her clothing. He said it ignited when she stepped near a cook stove.

Mrs. Benshoof was the mother of eleven children. Other members of the family were asleep in an adjoining room when the fire occurred.

SEVEN STRIKERS PAY FINES; GAIN RELEASE

CLAIM 3,000 AT WORK

Danville, Va., Jan. 14.—Seven of the eight striking textile operatives who were convicted in the Corporation Court yesterday of unlawful assembly and given until noon today to pay fines of $25, had paid before that hour and left the courtroom. They were charged with interfering with nonunion workers going to the mills. The eighth man was given until noon tomorrow to pay, by Judge Henry C. Leigh.

Snow again blanketed the strike scene today, with the mill management claiming it has 3,000 operatives at work, the largest number since the strike began last September.

Military authorities at Schoolfield expressed ignorance today of the plans to the State adjutant general to relieve men who have been on duty 60 days, January 24, replacing them with others. Under the State militia law the militiamen will be entitled to a discharge from service on that date to resume civilian occupations.

W. B. Spofford, Episcopal rector, of New York, who addressed strikers last Sunday, criticizing the alleged supineness of the church in relation to the strike, wrote today saying he meant no specific local application to his statement that pastors in most textile communities are mill-owned.

Plan Afoot to Provide Site for War Memorial

A proposal that the entire wooded area south of the Lincoln Memorial reflecting pool, as far east as Seventeenth street, be thinned out to provide an appropriate setting for the District World War Memorial, was submitted yesterday to Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of Public Buildings and Public Parks, by G. E. Clark, chairman of his park committee.

The Fine Arts Commission simultaneously recommended that the smaller trees and shrubbery be cleared away to make a space for bandstand concerts. The suggestions will be considered by the National Park and Planning Commission today or tomorrow.

24 Men Named for Jobs On Capital Police Force

Twenty-four men were named as policemen by the District Commissioners yesterday to fill vacancies created by deaths, retirements, promotions and resignations. They are:

Henry B. Mohler, A. M. McCallum, J. E. Winters, A. W. Lemp, Arthur Gernhofer, W. A. Fish, Thomas Rasmussen, J. C. Daniels, Arthur Coleman, C. G. Darnall, F. A. Myers, J. F. Meshoff, G. D. Wyant, A. W. Taylor, W. B. Yates, C. J. Sullivan, G. M. Wilson, G. S. Eckels, J. H. McHale, C. E. Riley, jr., E. T. Wesselis, H. V. Covell, W. T. O'Brien and R. W. Mower.

Rockville Firemen Elect New Officers

William S. Disney was elected engineer. Other officers elected were: Dr. William E. Linthicum, surgeon; Marbury F. Gates, treasurer; William E. Wooten, secretary; W. O. Wilson, chief; O. W. Perry, assistant chief; Albert Hamke, captain No. 1; Frank H. Higgins, captain No. 2; Clarence Anders, captain No. 3; lieutenants, Ralph Benson, William Watkins and Norman Pyles.

Bethesda Fire Board Elects 1931 Officers

At their meeting last night, the Bethesda fire board elected G. P. M. Brown president for the ensuing year. S. William Bogley was elected vice president.

Other officers elected were T. R. Pickett, secretary; John Farnham, treasurer, and E. H. Bogley, John A. Dickinson and Ford Young, members of the executive committee. Extension of the Bethesda fire district was asked by representatives from neighboring communities. They were asked to apply to the Maryland General Assembly.

D. H. Fowler Will Head Capital Yacht Club

Daniel H. Fowler, of 2735 Woodley place, was elected commodore of the Capital Yacht Club when the group met this week to elect officers for 1931. Brig. Gen. William Mitchell was named vice commodore and Henry A. Willard, secretary and treasurer.

The directors are the three officers and Richard S. Doyle, Lyman F. Hewins, G. W. Forsberg and George H. Bright. Mr. Hewins was reelected to the post of measurer, which he has held for several years.

Man in Jail Pardoned As Pair Admits Theft

Charleston, W. Va., Jan. 14 (A.P.).—A man serving a 15-year prison sentence for robbery was pardoned unconditionally today by Gov. William G. Conley, after Mrs. Irene Schroeder and W. Glenn Dague, under sentence to die in Pennsylvania, had confessed they committed the robbery.

The prisoner, Frank Howell, of New Martinsville, has served more than a year of the sentence. Mrs. Schroeder and Dague have been sentenced to die for the killing of a Pennsylvania State highway patrolman.

NEW HIGH SCHOOL WILL BE DISCUSSED

Delegates From 11 Citizen Associations to Meet in Silver Spring.

BANK OFFICERS CHOSEN

Recommendations as to the proposed Takoma-Silver Spring High School will be made at a meeting of representatives of 11 citizen organizations which is to be held at 8 o'clock tonight at the Silver Spring County Building. The meeting has been called by a committee appointed by the Woodside Park Property Owners Association to cooperate with other civic associations in the school discussion.

The present high school has a capacity of 650 pupils and this number will be reached by September, 1932, if the present rate of increase continues. It is expected the associations will recommend a senior high school be erected and the present school devoted to a junior high school. Tentative allowance of $125,000 for the new school has been decided upon by the Board of Education as the probable amount which must be expended. The board has suggested that the high school should be located on a site containing from 10 to 12 acres and that it be contiguous to the proposed Sligo Creek Valley park in course of construction.

Associations which have signified their intention of sending representatives to the meeting are: Blair Citizens, Capitol View Citizens, Linden Civic, North Woodside Citizens, Silver Spring Chamber of Commerce, Silver Spring Citizens, Seven Oaks Manor Citizens, Woman's Improvement Society of Silver Spring, Indian Spring Park Citizens and the Wheaton Citizens.

Annual meetings were held at two of Montgomery County's banks Tuesday with coincident election of directors and officers.

Ignatius Thomas Fulks, 98 years old, a member of the original board of directors of the First National Bank of Gaithersburg, which was organized in 1891, was reelected a director. Other directors elected are Clarence H. Hoskinson, Frank B. Severance, Thomas I. Fulks, Zadoc M. Cooke, Herbert L. Diamond, Albert P. Meem, Judge Joseph C. Higgins, Dr. Bates Etchison, Windsor W. Hodges and Clyde Thomas.

James S. Windsor, 91, also an original member of hte board of directors, declined relection because of his enfebeled condition, and it was decided not to elect any one in his place.

The following officers were elected: Clarence H. Hoskinson, president; Albert P. Meem, vice president; Frank B. Severance, cashier; William F. Griffith, assistant cashier; Miss Leona Fulks, bookkeeper; Mrs. Ida Fulks, assistant bookkeeper, and William H. Talbott, attorney.

The stockholders of the Montgomery County National Bank, at Rockville, reelected the following directors: Judge Robert B. Peter, George M. Hunter, Dr. J. Thomas Kelley, jr., Dr. Benjamin C. Perry, Dr. Robert W. Vinson, Charles Lee Watkins, Lloyd J. Jones, Frank H. Karn, Otho W. W. Talbott, Dr. Robert C. Warfield, Hattan A. Waters and William T. Griffith.

The following officers were reelected: George M. Hunter, president; Otho H. W. Talbott, vice president; George P. Henderson, cashier; J. Gardner Darby and J. Paul Brunett, assistant cashiers; Mrs. Charles Beard, secretary to the president; Reuben Riggs and John Wilson, bookkeepers; Mrs. Lettie Goldsborough and William Wootton, clerks. The board of directors inspected the reconstruction work on the interior of the bank, which is being remodeled inside at a cost of approximately $50,000, and expressed their approval.

Four Are Arrested In Woman's Shooting

Coffeyville, Kans., Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Dr. S. A. Brainard, Paul R. Jones, "Slim" Orrison, of Coffeyville, and Muriel Sullivan, Seminole, Okla., were arrested today charged with murder in connection with the death of Mrs. Maude Martin, found dying in her home January 5, with a bullet wound in her head.

Mrs. Martin was the State's principal witness in murder charges pending against Dr. Brainard in connection with the death of Mrs. Esther O'Dare Nidiffer. The 19-year-old girl died at Mrs. Martin's home September 13, 1930. The State alleges her death was due to an illegal operation performed by Dr. Brainard.

FLOODS ADD HORROR TO ARGENTINE QUAKE

MANY BELIEVED DEAD

San Antonio de Los Corbes, Argentina, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Floods added to the distress today in the La Poma district of western Argentina, where newly opened volcanos have caused loss of life and heavy property damage.

A relief expedition from here headed for El Potrerillo, where the most serious damage was reported, was forced to turn back by raging streams.

Communication with the district was disrupted, but fragmentary messages led to fear here that many lives had been lost.

Three volcanoes, two near Cobres and El Potrerillo and the third at Abra de Chorilos, spouted hot water, mud, and rocks, burying houses and destroying crops and live stock. Violent earth shocks accompanied the disturbance.

At El Potrerillo a girl was struck with a rock and killed. Her brother was reported missing.

The village of La Poma, in the same district, was destroyed by an earthquake and landslides Christmas Eve, with a loss of nearly two-score lives. Since then the survivors have been terrified by severe earth shocks.

Arthur Jordan Named Head of Postal Life Co.

Arthur Jordan, president of the Arthur Jordan Piano Co., has been elected president of the Postal Life Insurance Co., say dispatches from New York. Mr. Jordan, whose Washington address is at the Roosevelt Hotel, has been identified with the insurance business since 1898, when he bought the Meridian Insurance Co. of Indiana, his native State.

Mr. Jordan was the donor of Jordan Memorial Hall, at Butler University, of which he is a director. He gave the Y. M. C. A. building at Rangoon, Burma, and Tsinan Fu, China. He is founder and chairman of the board of the Arthur Jordan Foundation, established in 1928.

Araujo Is Indicated Winner in Salvador

San Salvador, Republic of Salvador, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Unofficial returns from the presidential election held this week indicate that Arturo Araujo, an agricultural leader, was elected chief executive.

The votes so far counted give him 101,800 against 111,640 divided among the other four candidates, but all the results are not in and the official tabulation will not be announced until after a canvass Sunday.

Escobar Rejoins Wife; Is Arrested

Charge of False Pretense Rudely Interrupts Reconciliation.

Montreal, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—The happy reconciliation of Gen. Jose Gonzales Escobar and his wife, from whom he had been estranged, was rudely disturbed tonight when the exiled Mexican general was arrested. The warrant was obtained by C. L. Vowell, an El Paso, Tex., attorney, who came here as legal adviser to Senora Escobar, who had filed an annulment suit against her husband.

Vowell charges Gen. Escobar with false pretense, alleging that he obtained goods valued at $15,000 from the El Paso firm of V. Andreas for which he never had paid.

Counsel for the general announced today an amicable settlement of the annulment suit.

Two Ships Run Ashore; Passengers Taken Off

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Two ships which grounded today in North Pacific waters were still ashore tonight, but preparations were being made to attempt to float them. The 81 passengers on the motorship Northland, en route to Ketchikan, Alaska, which was driven into the sand on the Salmon River flats with a hole in her starboard bow, were rescued by the Union Steamship Co. vessel Carvina and taken to Alert Bay, British Columbia.

An effort by the tug Creole and the Coast Guard cutter Snohomish to pull the refrigerator ship Navasota off Point Hudson, near Port Townsend, failed this afternoon, but another attempt will be made at high tide tomorrow.

$74,030,000 VOTED TO AUGMENT NAVY

Defended By Barbour.

Defending the item, Representative Barbour (Republican), California, chairman of the War Department subcommittee of the appropriations committee and in charge of the bill in the House, declared that the $200,000 fund was intended solely for the purpose of determining the relative merits of metal-clad and fabric-clad rigid airships.

"Proponents of the metal-clad ship contend they are superior to the fabric-clad, less likely to crash and less dangerous to operating personnel," said Mr. Barbour. "Since we are appropriating money for rigid airships, it seems wise that this question should be settled, if possible. If the metal-clad ship is better, we should change to that type in future construction. If not, we should stick to the fabric-clad, whether built by the Army or the Navy."

Prediction by Mitchell.

Mr. Barbour added that if what Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics of the Navy Department, says about the virtues of rigid airships is true, they should be as valuable for service in land defense as in naval operations.

When the vote was taken only 14 members supported the Taber amendment to strike out the $200,000 item.

Several years ago when the former German naval vessels were being used as targets for aerial bombs off the Virginia Capes, Brig. Gen. William Mitchell, then assistant chief of the Air Corps, predicted that future plane carriers would be great metal-clad rigids with flying decks on top of them.

HURLEY GREETS ARGENTINE

Post Staff Pho. o.

Lieut. Col. Ricaro Miro, field artillery, recently designated as military attache to the United States from Argentina, being greeted at the War Department yesterday by Secretary of War Hurley.

M'CARL IS CITED BY JUSTICE WHEAT

Charge of Contempt Is Made in Payment of Awards in Condemnations.

RULE INCLUDES YATES

Alleged to have failed to obey an order of the District Supreme Court requiring forthwith disbursements on certain condemnation awards, Comptroller General J. Raymond McCarl and his assistant, Frank L. Yates, were cited yesterday to show cause why they should not be adjudged in contempt of court, civilly, fined and committed to jail until the court's edict is complied with.

Chief Justice Alfred A. Wheat signed the rule to show cause on a petition filed by Attorney George E. Sullivan on behalf of five clients, who had been given awards for property condemned to make room for new Agriculture Department projects.

On January 7, according to the petition, the court issued an order directing forthwith disbursements by Treasury warrants of more than $90,000 for property owned by Frank A. Johnson, Irene S. Johnson, as guardian of Isabel H. Johnson; Oscar L. Johnson, Grace M. Johnson and Eleanor R. Johnson.

Attorney Sullivan states that he personally served a certified copy of the order on the Division of Bookkeeping and Warrants of the Treasury Department, with the demand for issuance of the warrants or checks called for forthwith.

However, Comptroller General McCarl and Mr. Yates are alleged to have prevented prompt obedience to the order. In asking that a fine be levied the petitioners ask that it be paid to them.

Dr. J. H. Gilligan Named Medical Society Head

Dr. J. H. Gilligan was elected president of the Arlington Medical Society at its annual meeting last night in the Spaulding Building, Clarendon. Other officers chosen were: Dr. Blanche Tabor, vice president, and Dr. B. H. Swain, secretary-treasurer.

Following the election, Dr. J. Ogle Warfield, of Washington, read a paper on "The Acute Abdomen."

HARRY I. CARROLL FUNERAL

Obsequies for Capital Attorney Will Be Held Today.

Funeral services for Harry I. Carroll, Washington attorney and business man, will be held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Ohev Sholem Temple, with Rabbi J. T. Loeb officiating. Interment will take place in Ohev Sholem Cemetery.

Mr. Caroll was widely known in business circles in the city, having owned and operated the Recreation Health Center, at 918 G street northwest, and the Coliseum, at Ninth street and Pennsylvania avenue. Besides his business connections, he was widely known in bowling circles and active in local charities.

BANKER KEEPS QUIET ON SON'S KIDNAPING

Texas Financier Is Reported to Have Paid Dallas Men $15,000.

YOUTH IN HIGH SCHOOL

Dallas, Tex., Jan. 14 (A.P.).—The Dallas News says in a copyrighted story that Isaac N. Cerf, millionaire banker of Corsicana, Tex., 100 miles from here, paid $15,000 to Dallas kidnapers a week ago for the safe return of his son, and since had maintained silence under threat of death if he reported to police.

James Cerf, the alleged kidnaping victim, was absent three days from classes in the Corsicana High School, according to the News. Cerf is a junior.

The youth was alleged to have been held at Dallas. The ransom was declared to have been paid at a signaled meeting on a nearby highway.

The father's curt refusal to talk today of the extortion was credited to "good and sufficient reasons."

"For all you may know," Mrs. Cerf was quoted as saying, "it may be a matter of life and death."

Will S. Knight, Corsican chief of police, had no office record reporting the abduction.

N. Suttle Roberts, vice president of the State National Bank of Corsicana, was said to have accompanied Cerf when the ransom was paid. Today he kept the same silence his senior officer maintained. Neither, however, denied the money transfer was made.

MRS GERTRUDE MAY DIES.

Resident of Capital Half Century to Be Buried Tomorrow.

Mrs. Gertrude Huntingdon May, 80, of 2124 P street northwest, a resident of Washington for 50 years, died at her residence yesterday morning.

She is survived by her son, Robert H. May, and a grandnephew, Bunt Allen, of Paris, France.

Mrs. May was the widow of the late Heber J. May, Assistant Attorney General of the United States during President Cleveland's administration.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock at Chambers' Chapel. Interment will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

MRS. IDA V. GRINDER DIES.

Native of Washington to Be Buried Tomorrow.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow for Mrs. Ida V. Grinder, who died suddenly at the home of a daughter yesterday. She will be buried in Congressional Cemetery after a short service in the home at 416 Webster street northwest. Death was due to a heart attack.

Mrs. Grinder was a native of Washington and five of her seven children still live here.

Crowd Hears Chesterton And Hamilton in Debate

Distinguished Men of Letters Fail to Tread Common Ground, But Auditors Spend Enjoyable Evening Hearing All About Psychology.

Two Englishmen of letters discussed psychology from two entirely different angles last night for the entertainment, if not enlightenment, of an audience that nearly filled the huge auditorium of Continental Hall. They were Gilbert K. Chesterton and Cosmo Hamilton.

Not only were the interpretations of the query, "Is Psychology a Curse?" well nigh diametrically opposed, but their attitudes toward the topic were as widely divergent. Mr. Chesterton, mild scoffer at things ultra modern, appeared to enjoy himself thoroughly while poking fun at psychoanalysts and his opponent; while Mr. Hamilton, modern novelist and psychologist that he is, took his task more seriously and digressed only to psychoanalyze his opponent and make sarcastic remarks about his address.

When the debate was at an end, it was apparent that both were in accord in their denunciations of fakers and charlatans and differed only in the extent of their appreciations of true psychology.

While denying that he is a "master of paradoxes" and boasting rather that he is a "practical layman," Mr. Chesterton indulged, nevertheless, in numerous paradoxes. His chief grievance against ultra modern psychology was that it is unstable, inconclusive, often blind, and affected too greatly the life of the average man; therefore it is dangerous.

Many of the sciences, such as the theories propounded by Einstein, he pointed out, fail to touch the layman in a direct fashion. As they are not understood, they are approved by the masses, he said, who contend meanwhile that they are exercising freedom of thought.

Mr. Hamilton in his opening talk discussed the topic rather technically, too much so for the greater part of his audience, but in his rebuttal resorted more to the jests of "G. K." He called attention to the contributions of psychologists in the pathological as well as the mass tempermental field.

One could not help regretting when the debate ended that the speakers had not chosen a more exact query, for which Mr. Chesterton profusely apologized and took the blame, or else had come to a definition of terms before attempting the debate. Nevertheless, it was good entertainment.—J. D. S.

SON'S SUIT TO BREAK M'RAE WILL BEGUN

Rich Publisher's Change of Bequest Blamed Upon Father's Secretary.

BULK GIVEN DAUGHTERS

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Trial of Lindsay McRae's suit to break the will of his father, Milton A. McRae, millionaire publisher, was started today before Judge Ormond F. Hunt in Wayne County Circuit Court.

Under the will, disposing of an estate valued originally at $4,000,000, the son was given an income of $500 a month. The son charges that his father was influenced by a secretary to alter an earlier will, which provided more liberally for him. He charges his father's judgment was questionable in his declining years.

Defense counsel contended in court today that the comparatively small bequest included in the will for the son reflected the elder McRae's disappointment in his son's conduct. Attorneys for the estate said today the estate has diminished in value since McRae's death in San Diego last October 11. They assign market fluctuations as the reason.

Under the will the bulk of the estate is left to two daughters, Mrs. Marie McRae Temple, of London, England, and Mrs. Helen M. Henderson, Montclair, N. J. A trust fund was set up for the support of a grandson, John Paul Scripps, of San Diego, Calif.

Arthur J. Abbott, attorney for Lindsay McRae, said in his opening statement to the jury that he would attempt to show that his client had quarreled early last year with Leslie J. Travener, secretary to the elder McRae, and that because of that dispute Travener influenced the publisher against his son.

He said also there would be evidence to show that the two daughters visited their father in San Diego and made statements that turned McRae against their brother.

Terra Seen as President Under Uruguayan Vote

Montevideo, Uruguay, Jan. 14 A.P.). A late compilation of returns from the Uruguyan election on November 30 gives the presidency to the Colorado party, which obtained 165,061 votes in sixteen departments against 149,911 for the Nationalists.

The indications are that Dr. Gabriel Terra, candidate of the aggressive section of the Colorados, will become president. Dr. Pedro Manini Rios, of the Riverista group, ran well in the balloting for the party, but tonight he appeared to be 114 votes short of the 17 per cent agreed upon by the four Colorado factions necessary to elect him chief executive.

DEATH AND PANIC RIDE QUAKE IN MEXICO CITY

pathetic. Despite a downpour of rain, with vivid flashes of lightning adding to their consternation, they ran into the streets and prayed for divine protection.

Increasing their alarm was a peculiar yellow light which, pierced by streaks of lightning, was visible in the sky at the time of the main shock and continued for an hour.

Many persons were looking for the worst, for the shocks followed upon a three-day period of cold weather that was unusual for this normally pleasant city.

Much suffering was in evidence, since heating apparatus in general is poor and many persons had no heavy clothing. Hundreds who had never been out of the capital saw their first snow.

The epicenter of the disturbance was near the town of Matamoras, Zucar, which is southeast of Mexico City in the nearby State of Puebla.

Seismological instruments of the Tacabuya Meteorological Station in Mexico City registered the quake for four minutes, but the shock was so strong it threw the delicate machinery out of order and the full intensity was not recorded.

Begins With Sharp Shock.

The disturbance began with a rather sharp shock and then developed into rapid undulating motions, which decreased gradually after three minutes. The first movement was from North to South and then it switched to East and West.

Persons who were in motion picture theaters, restaurants and other public places poured in panic to the streets and knelt after being sure they were clear of possible falling cornices.

Church bells were stirred into motion by the movement and pealed, adding to the general fright. Clocks were stopped. Some buildings swayed noticeably. The fact the damage was not great was attributed to the great lake of mud which underlies the city and thus absorbs quakes.

Felt Elsewhere.

Vera Cruz, Tampico and many other places felt the disturbance at about the same time. The shock was so severe in Toluca, capital of the State of Mexico and lying 60 miles west of here, it rang the church bells and sent the population shrieking into the streets.

In El Oro, State of Mexico, the shock lasted two minutes and was the strongest felt in years.

Vera Cruz, Mexico, Jan. 14 (A.P.). A strong earth shock of long duration rocke Vera Crus tonight at 7:55 o'clock (6:55 Eastern standard time) and caused great alarm.

People Flee to Streets.

Most of the inhabitants fled to the streets in error despite a chill rain, whipped by a north wind which brought unusually low temperatures.

Other towns in the State of Vera Cruz also felt the shock.

There were no immediate reports of injuries.

Santa Clara University, Calif., Jan. 14 (A.P.).—An earthquake of considerable intensity was recorded on the University of Santa Clara seismograph tonight.

Denver, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—The Rev. A. W. Forstall, seismologist at Regis College, reported a severe earthquake was in progress at 7:25 p. m., Mountain standard time. The reading showed the quake lasted for an hour, he added.

Tampico, Mexico, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—A strong earthquake was felt here for three minutes at 8 o'clock tonight (9 p. m., Eastern standard time). The region affected is believed to have extended for some distance along the Rio Panuco. The shock caused the collision of several railroad cars.

Alexandria Bank Elects.

The board of directors of the Alexandria National Bank yesterday reelected these officers: Judge Howard W. Smith, president; Luther H. Dudley, vice president and cashier; John J. Kiger, assistant cashier; Clarence M. Wells, assistant cashier, and Luther H. Dudley, trust officer.

Speed With Safety, Road-Builders' Aim

Traffic Increase Raises Problems, Session Is Told.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Speed with safety on the highways was the aim of committees reporting today to the twenty-eighth annual convention of the American Road-builders Association here.

Recent increases in the volume and speed of automobile traffic have created new problems, the committees reported. Highway guard rails are coming into wider use and highway builders are aware of the necessity of a guard rail heavy enough to stop heavy vehicles at high speed.

Railway grade crossings are steadily increasing, another committee reported. About 240,000 grade crossings exist today, the committee stated, and pointed out that they can not be "economically eliminated at any time in the near future."

FOUR-ALARM BLAZE CAUSES SLIGHT LOSS

Firemen at Center Market Merely Help Workers Raze Building.

SMOKE CLOUDS DENSE

son, usually tense, allowed himself a wisecrack.

"Well," he said, "this is the first four-alarm fire I ever attended where there wasn't any damage."

What the fire actually did was to give the historic food center a shove toward oblivion. In the last session of Congress, a resolution was adopted which forced all dealers to vacate the market on January 1.

The site, which was selected for a market by President George Washington in 1797, and which has been visited by many of his bargaining successors, is needed now for a great Federal building that will be as near fireproof as any can be—the proposed Archives Building to house the Government's valuable documents.

That is why Congress ordered the Center Market razed, and that is why the dealers have now disappeared. Also that is why the workmen of the H. Herfurth Co., wrecking contractors, have lately been tearing the old building to pieces. The Herfurth Co., by the way, receives as payment for the wrecking job whatever it can raise by selling the material.

Thus, although he must be pardoned for his fast one, Fire Chief Watson was not entirely correct when he said there was no damage. The damage amounted to whatever the Herfurth Co. might have received for what yesterday's fire destroyed.

Discovered by Superintendent.

At any rate, to "cover" this blaze in a professional way for a moment, the fire was discovered about 1:45 o'clock in the afternoon when Al Fields, superintendent of the wrecking crew at the market, had his attention called to a column of smoke pouring from the center section of the market. He immediately turned in an alarm.

In accordance with the local fire department's policy of calling out as much apparatus as possible, four alarms were turned in altogether, and presently an array of screaming fire engines was converging on Seventh and B streets, followed by the inevitable convention of curious motorists.

Plunging into the market, the firemen soon were busy themselves in tearing it asunder. For a while, the 40 professional wreckers stood aside, but soon they, too, were at it again, attacking the bricks and the shingles in another sector.

Cause Is Mystery.

Various men were still arguing last night over what started the fire. Some said it was caused by a loose electric wire coming in contact with trash; others said this was not so, and still others offered entirely different theories, including the one about the carelessly tossed cigarette. In any event, it was quickly extinguished.

There was not the same gloating over yesterday's fire, however, as there was over the last one that broke out there. That came in 1870, after a period in which the market had been used as a morgue for Civil War soldiers, and in which the building, through lack of care, had become an eyesore. The fire wiped it out, and the Daily National Republican provided its epitaph the next morning in three words—

"Gone at Last."

$138,995 Is Low Bid On Capital School Job

The Fidelity Construction Co., of Washington, was found to be lowest of bidders on the construction of a four-room addition to the Congress Heights School yesterday afternoon when bids were opened by Roland M. Brennan, chief clerk of the District engineering department. The estimate was $138,995. A combination gymnasium and assembly hall is included in the contract.

The highest bid was made by Loudoun-Rust Co., of Washington, which has been low bidder on several other school jobs. Its estimate was $149,445.

Ambulance and Auto Crash.

An Emergency Hospital ambulance, speeding on a call, and a passenger auto collided yesterday at Twentieth and E streets northwest, but no one was hurt. Waverly Pearson, colored, was driving the ambulance, and Cleveland B. Miller, 42, of Twenty-first street near N northwest, was at the wheel of the other machine.

Book Review to Be Given.

Mrs. Helen Sternbarger, readers' adviser at the Mount Pleasant branch of the public library, will give a review of the book, "A Tourist in Spite of Himself," before the Elementary Principals' Association at 3:45 o'clock this afternoon at the Franklin School Building. Mrs. E. K. Peoples, president of the Brightwood School, will preside.

STATE COOPERATES ON YORKTOWN PLAN

SEEK ADDED MEMBERS

Special to The Washington Post.

Yorktown, Jan. 14.—Every section of Virginia is cooperating in the campaign to raise $100,000 as Virginia's contribution to the Yorktown sesquicentennial, according to A. H. Lichty, director of the drive.

The finance committee of the Yorktown Sesquicentennial Association, Inc., has reported that it is receiving the cooperation of prominent persons in every community in the State, and that the response has been satisfactory. Members of the finance committee include bankers and businessmen in every section of Virginia.

Mr. Lichty, for the past week, has been busy organizing the State, and in many sections actual solicitation has begun. A subchairman is being named for each community.

Thousands of persons from every section of the country will make pilgrimages to Virginia for the celebration of the 150th anniversary of the surrender of Cornwallis, and the $100,000 obtained in this campaign will be used in making the necessary preparations for their comfort and entertainment.

The money is being raised through memberships in the Yorktown Sesquicentennial Association. The celebration will cost more than $600,000, the larger portion of this money coming from the United States Government, the thirteen original States and those that grew out of the original Territory.

Notorious Convict Hangs Self in Cell

"Bum" Rodgers, Captured by 22 Police, Was Under Life Sentence.

New York, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—One of New York's most spectacular criminals, the notorious John J. ("Bum") Rodgers, hanged himself last night while in solitary confinement at Clinton Prison, near Plattsburgh. A guard found the body suspended by a rope the prisoner had made from a shirt.

Rodgers, a "four-time loser," virtually sentenced himself to life imprisonment December 3, 1926, when he pleaded guilty to carrying weapons illegally. The plea made him a fourth-time offender, and life sentence was obligatory.

To New York police "Bum" Rodgers was known as a "tough guy." The last time he was arrested—twice before he had made daring escapes—22 police, heavily armed, went after him. Rodgers was in bed and asleep.

GOV. RITCHIE OF MARYLAND.

If any doubt prevailed as to whether or not Gov. Ritchie would seize the opportunity offered in his inauguration for his fourth term as chief executive of the State of Maryland to make a bid for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1932, it was resolved almost at the inception of the inaugural address. "Today," he said, "it may not be inappropriate to speak of some of the things which underlie the Maryland theory of government, because I believe the country is entering a decade which will see a new economic and political dispensation in which the ideals and principles incarnate in our Maryland traditions and institutions will find fulfillment." These traditions, he added, are "toleration in all things and to all people; ordered liberty for the individual and the right to follow his own pursuits and to secure his own happiness in his own way, so long as he does not interfere with the like rights of others or the recognized sanctions of society; and a self-governing State, free to settle its local problems in conformity with the needs of its people, who should be unhampered by an excess of government from within and by undue Federal supervision or interference from without."

Because of the prominent position occupied by Gov. Ritchie in the spotlight of national politics, his speech assumes unusual interest. He is the only Marylander ever to have been honored by four consecutive terms in the gubernatorial chair. He has become of recent years probably the outstanding champion of the doctrine of States' rights. He has been mentioned along with Gov. Roosevelt and one or two others as the outstanding hope of democracy in 1932. In the 1928 convention he was looked upon as a favorite son upon whom the lightning might easily have struck. Smith and Roosevelt, of New York; Cox, of Ohio, and Ritchie, of Maryland, are recognized by Democrats as their party leaders.

Gov. Ritchie's inaugural address must be accounted as a first rate statement of Democratic doctrine. The governor laid the blame for the depression at the heels of the Republican party. It is largely the administration's fault, he said, that the unemployment situation is so serious. The tariff he arraigned as a fearful monstrosity gnawing at the vitals of American industry. While the Government has been in the hands of the Republican party, Federal aggrandizement has reached its high-water mark. From the Democratic standpoint these are stirring words.

Gov. Ritchie sees the imminent dawn of a new day. "He must have little faith in his country or little vision of the future who can not foresee a prosperity greater than ever." That prosperity will come, however, in his opinion, under a Democratic administration, to which "Maryland has much to offer in its tried and tested political philosophy, because after all it embodies those virtues which, with unity and harmony, make for greatness in State or Nation."

Who better exemplifies the spirit of Maryland than Gov. Ritchie? Who is better qualified to lead the country in the tested and tried political philosophy that will be the basis of the new order than the man who has been honored four times by his fellow citizens to election to the gubernatorial chair? Mr. Ritchie's hat is in the ring, and since he is a man of attractive personality, of broad vision and of outstanding stature, the Democratic party may count itself fortunate that he is available in its service.

CLEAN UP THE ALLEYS.

A supplementary annual report issued by the National Capital Park and Planning Commission says, in part: "If Washington is to have the appeal it should have to the pride and affection of our own people it must provide dignified, spacious and comfortable living conditions for those whose work calls them here or whose inclination prompts them to become residents. The prestige and appeal of the Capital do not lie wholly in its governmental structures, but do lie largely in its dwellings." Coincident with the publication of the report, Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of the commission, states that a new alley-closing bill will be forwarded to Congress at an early date. The measure is similar to the bill sent in some time ago, except that it provides that the Commissioners instead of the President shall have authority to designate alleys for closing.

Washington's alley dwellers are not a matter of general public concern, but this is true only because they are so completely obscured from view that the public does not realize the tragedy of their lot. John Ihlder, housing consultant to the commission, estimates that there are in Washington some 250 inhabited alleys, in which are situated 2,400 dwellings containing a population of between 11,000 and 13,000. The alleys, he says further, "constitute hidden communities in which disease, vice and crime flourish." Those who dwell therein are deprived of adequate sunlight and air. Their houses are bare of sanitary facilities. They are inadequately heated in winter and they are veritable storehouses of heat in summer.

Washingtonians pride themselves that their city has no tenement section and that it has no slums. The alley dwellings, however, constitute civic sore spots no less objectionable than the tenement and slum sections of industrialized communities. So long as they are permitted to remain Washington can not make the "appeal to the pride and affection of the people" that it should. The alley-closing bill should receive early and favorable action by Congress.

PUBLIC DEBT EXACTIONS.

Ogden Mills, Undersecretary of the Treasury, estimates that the national debt may be entirely liquidated about the year 1949. His statement, made to the Business Policy Forum in New York, was based upon "past experience, future prospects and existing policy."

Since the Government has reduced its debt by approximately $10,000,000,000 since the War, besides cutting down annual interest charges from $1,016,000,000 to $606,000,000, it is reasonable to suppose that the remaining $16,000,000,000 can be paid off during the next eighteen years. The policy of the Government has been to reduce the public debt as fast as the sinking fund, the budget surplus and the miscellaneous funds would allow. In spite of the fact that taxes have been reduced several times since the war, this has been a heavy drain upon the taxpayers.

Does Mr. Mills' statement imply that it will be the policy of the Government to continue payment of enormous installments on the national debt each year until every dollar has been paid? The Treasury has used good judgment in reducing the debt thus far to avoid excessive interest charges. But at the present rate of reduction the debt will soon be no larger than Europe's war debt to this country. When that point is reached, will the Government continue to pay off the obligation which really belongs to its overseas debtors?

This question ought not to be pushed into the background any longer. European countries owe the United States more than $11,500,000,000. They have about 60 years in which to pay. The policy has been to apply these payments to reduction of the American debt. But if the American debt is wiped out in eighteen years or less, what will be done with these payments? They would then be a sort of a bonus to the Government at the expense of taxpayers who are now supplying enormous sums to liquidate the national debt. The only alternative is that European debtors would feel no obligation to pay when the debt had been liquidated by the American taxpayers, and in that case the bonus would go to foreign governments.

It is time for the Government to begin thinking about this problem. A laudable desire to reduce interest charges will not justify the Government in wringing money from taxpayers in order to relieve foreign debtors. These debtors find money with which to increase their armies and build warships. They can afford to pay their debts.

COPYRIGHT JUSTICE.

The overwhelming majority by which the Vestal copyright bill was passed by the House is impressive. The opposition could command only 34 votes against 185 in favor of the bill.

For eight years the substance of this amendment to the copyright laws has been in the process of formation. The bill embodies the most modern practices for the protection of authors, artists, composers and playwrights. Its enactment will enable writers to sell separate rights in their work to magazines, book publishers, dramatic producers and the movie interests. Copyright protection will become automatic. Writers and composers will enjoy the benefits from their work throughout their lives without the necessity of renewing their copyrights, and their families would be protected for 50 years after their death.

The section of the bill which is of the most immediate importance is that providing for entrance of the United States into the international copyright union. In all civilized nations a writer may copyright his work in his own country and his rights will be automatically protected in all of the 42 nations adhering to the union.

Adoption of this bill by the Senate is urgent because the invitation for adherence of the United States to the copyright union extends only to August 1, 1931. It is improbable that the bill will encounter any organized opposition in the Senate, but the calendar of that body for the present session is extremely crowded, and unless the Vestal bill is given special attention it may be lost in the rush. Since this measure means so much to the literary and artistic interests of the country and its enactment would cost so little effort it would be a pity if the Senate should fail to act.

METAL-CLAD AIRSHIPS.

The House does well to approve the $200,000 item in the War Department supply bill for the purpose of financing preliminary experimental studies of the proposed 100-ton metal-clad dirigible airship. Representative Taber opposed the appropriation on the floor a few days ago, despite the fact that the subcommittee of which he was a member and a majority of the committee on appropriations had favored it. His objection was based on the ground that the $200,000 item, if it were approved, would lead to the expenditure of $10,000,000 and that, under the agreement reached in 1920, the task of experimenting with dirigibles was centralized in the Navy, for which two dirigibles are now building at Akron. These ships, in Mr. Taber's opinion, will prove conclusively whether or not Zeppelins have military value. The House, however, in approving the item, ignored this argument.

There is no possible basis of comparison between the fabric-covered Zeppelin and the metal-clad. Both types of ships, of course, are still in the experimental stage. Theoretically, the metal-clad offers superior advantages over the fabric-clad comparable to the advantages of the metal steamboat over the wooden vessel. American engineers alone have built a successful metal-clad, a little ship, too small for military and commercial uses, but nevertheless a ship that has been flown successfully. The group that was responsible for the ZMC-2 now seeks the assistance of the Government so that it may proceed with the engineering studies looking toward the construction of a practical ship. This and nothing more was involved in the request for the $200,000 appropriation.

The Navy, with the new Zeppelins under construction at Akron, will be able to continue its experimentation with ships of this type. The Army should be permitted to cooperate with the developers of the metal-clad, to the end that it may be able to decide whether or not that ship has commercial and military possibilities. It is quite true that final approval of the $200,000 item at a later date might lead to a request for the $4,500,000 that would be required to build the practicable ship. If, however, as a result of the experimentation made possible by the $200,000 appropriation the Army should become convinced that the metal-clad has possibilities Congress would want to further the project, not only in the interest of adding to the national defense, but also because the commercial possibilities of a practical metal-clad would be large. America, with its monopoly of helium and its exclusive possession of the theory of design of what possibly may be a revolutionary new carrier, has the opportunity to jump to a vantage point in a new art that some day may alter the transportation system of the world. The Senate should follow the example set by the House and give final approval to the $200,000 item that will permit the inception of experimental work on a practical metal-clad.

DESTROYERS AND SUBMARINES

By Commander HOLLOWAY H. FROST, U. S. Navy.

(The last of this series of four articles will appear tomorrow.)

The one-year naval building program recently submitted by the President to Congress includes one destroyer leader, ten destroyers and four submarines.

Soon after our entry into the World War Congress authorized a large building program of destroyers to combat the German submarines. Most of these vessels were still in process of construction when the war ended. Some of them were completed as late as 1922. Twelve were never commenced and the authorization to build them still holds good.

Of this war program we still retain 227,364 tons. The London Treaty age limit for all these vessels is twelve years. All of them reach this age by 1934 and thus become due for replacement. The treaty allows us 150,000 tons of destroyers. The treaty would permit the completion of this entire tonnage by 1934. Of course, this is an impossibility. It is stated to show how far we have fallen behind in our destroyer building.

If we are to maintain a properly balanced fleet of modern ships it is essential that we replace our present old destroyers with new ones. There are two important reasons. First, they were built in great haste to meet a war emergency. In many cases the contractors had little previous experience in naval construction. Frequently material which would not meet the usual specifications had to be used. Much machinery of unsatisfactory quality had to be accepted. In some vessels the speed is below the destroyer standard. It was for such reasons as these that the age limit of destroyers built during the war was properly placed as low as twelve years.

Second, in the eight years since our last destroyer was completed there has been a great advance in the size of destroyers. While our largest boats are only 1,050 tons, Great Britain has 25 built or building of about 1,350 tons and Japan has 23 of 1,700 tons. Even the French and Italian boats are much larger than ours. With this advance in size there has been a proportionate increase in armaments. Our destroyers carry only four 4-inch guns. The latest British boats have four 4.7-inch guns and the Japanese carry six 5.1-inch. Furthermore, these are better mounted for all-around fire. Thus these very heavily-gunned foreign destroyers have reduced the value of ours in much the same way the 8-inch cruiser has reduced the usefulness of the 6-inch type. This is emphasized by the fact that our destroyers can count upon little gun support from their cruisers, due to our deficiencies in that type.

Our request for ten destroyers is a most modest one. If we continued at that rate we would not complete our new program until about 1943. At that time some of our 150,000 tons allotment would be 21 years old—or 9 years over their replacement age. As an illustration of what the British think of the value of such destroyers it is sufficient to say that they have retained only one destroyer which took part in the Battle of Jutland fourteen years ago. All the rest have been scrapped. It is essential, therefore, that we obtain an appropriation for the construction of at least ten at the earliest practicable date. Once these are well under way, so that the defects found in their design may be corrected, the program should be increased to at least twenty annually.

Following the British practice, we desire to build special destroyers for use as the flagships of destroyer squadrons—composed of twelve boats each. To provide extra quarters, office space and communication facilities for the squadron commander and his staff these destroyer leaders should be about 300 tons larger than the destroyers proper. This usually permits them to carry an extra gun and make a knot or two more of speed. The one destroyer leader now requested will serve as a pilot model for this type. To provide for all our new squadrons about eight leaders will be required.

Of submarines under the age limit of thirteen years we have now 56,880 tons. In addition there are three building or appropriated for of a total of 3,750 tons. Of this grand total of 60,630 tons of submarines built, building and authorized, all but 24,750 will become overage and thus due for replacement by 1936. The treaty allowance at that time is 52,700. Therefore, during the life of the treaty we may replace 33,880 tons of old submarines with 29,950 tons of new submarines. We must do this if we are to have 52,700 tons of modern submarines in 1936. Even then we must class as modern 8,100 tons of war-built S-boats.

The drastic reduction of submarine tonnage provided for in the London Treaty renders it all the more essential that the boats retained be all within the 13-year age limit. How strongly Japan feels about this is shown by a special provision of the treaty permitting her to replace a considerable number of her submarines before they reach the age limit—and this despite the fact that she has already the most modern submarine fleet. All our boats due for replacement during the life of the treaty were built during the war. If we call their design, material and workmanship fair we give them the benefit of considerable doubt. What we thought of their engines is shown by the fact that in 1922 we tried to copy the engines of a German submarine we received in 1918. The fact that most of them required four, five and even six years to build renders their design even more obsolete than the figures show and did not improve their construction. Three years is ample for building a submarine.

Our splendid submarine personnel certainly deserves better vessels. Given an even break in this respect, our submarines probably will be the most effective in the world. The American temperament is ideally suited to their operation. The six submarines we have built since the war are of very large types. The present trend is toward reduction in size. This has been emphasized by the reduction of total submarine tonnage in the London Treaty. The prevailing opinion is that two medium size submarines is better than one very large boat—in marked distinction with the ideas about cruisers. Our designers and the General Board have fixed on 1,100 tons as an excellent type. The one-year program asks for four vessels of this type. In subsequent years it will be necessary to double this program if we are to replace our submarines when due. If there is any idea of doing this—i. e., of exercising the rights we gained in the London Treaty—it is imperative that we make a start with at least four submarines this year.

WHY SLAUGHTER DEER?

During the season just closed there were 40,000 itching trigger fingers in the woods of northern Minnesota, observes the Baudette Region. We don't want to be accused of spilling catsup on anybody's ice cream, but wouldn't it be better to close the deer hunting season for five years? Deer are friendly neighbors, and do little or no harm. They would be a wonderful attraction during the tourist season. Why slaughter them?

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

THE FRIEND.

He seemed all faults to the passerby,
All blemish he seemed to the casual eye,
For his raiment hung in a careless way
And to strangers little had he to say,
But the lonely folks, when he stopped to call,
Never noticed or mentioned his faults at all.

The style which singles some men apart
And labels them wealthy, or wise or smart
He had never acquired, as so many do,
But he was all friend to the ones he knew,
And strangely, the people who loved him best
Never bothered to notice how he was dressed.

Those meeting him once could plainly see
How careless and heedless a man was he,
They could tell you when out of the room he'd gone
The list of his failings, one by one;
They could name all the faults to the final dot
Which the people who loved him had long forgot.

The Hope Chest.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

DO you get tired of reading about Russia and sex? It is a topic that would have no more than academic interest if the Russians were content to experiment by themselves; but like other men who adopt new vices or virtues, they wish to justify themselves by persuading others to follow their example. And their example includes complete sex freedom.

An American-Russian named Hindus has written a book about this and other strange things in his native land. He had gone back to Russia once every year since 1923 and traveled from city to village to see the effect of the new doctrines, and his book tells the story without bias. He reports things as they are and neither condemns nor praises.

The new Russia, he says, has given women every liberty enjoyed by men. Lenin, it is true, condemned sex promiscuity and compared it to drinking from a mud puddle.

But while there is no exploitation of sex in the theater or the public prints, and no such effort as America's to make sex attractive, there is complete disregard of the moral standard still effective in America and neither law nor public opinion encourages virtue or chastity.

In fact, the new generation hoots at such things. The young people don't believe in God and therefore can't believe there is such a thing as sin. They marry or not, as they choose, and mate anew when they wish. The only restriction imposed is that parents must care for their children—all of which are "legitimate," whether born in or out of wedlock.

The young people say that the old sex prohibitions were the result of fear and superstition and fetishism, and they have outgrown such things. They are free.

They don't know it yet, but they are headed for disaster. They are trying to buck nature, and it can't be done.

When a man loves a woman, all other men who might covet her become enemies. He must be the first to win her love, and the last.

That isn't the result of superstition or fetishism. It is the nature of the jealous male.

Could any civilized man hold up his head if he knew his mother was without virtue and his sisters unchaste? His soul would revolt—not because of acquired inhibitions or superstitious fears, but because he has within him a sense of decency inherited from the ages.

Sex freedom sounds well, but it means animalism. And those who desert the old and tested and proven standards of chaste womanhood protected by honorable manhood will inevitably descend to the level of animals in the barnyard.

The La Follette Dynasty.

Houston Post-Dispatch.

When Philip La Follette was inaugurated governor early this week that State achieved the distinction of having two brothers in the two highest offices within the gift of its electorate. Robert La Follette has been United States senator from Wisconsin for several years, having succeeded his father, the late Robert M. La Follette, upon the latter's death. The La Follette dynasty is apparently firmly established in Wisconsin. The sons reap the fruit of what the father sowed. La Follette, the elder, originated and taught for years many of the isms that have become widely accepted in his State. The sons follow in the radical footsteps of the father, holding allegiance to his socialistic program. For the sake of convenience, the La Follettes masquerade under the title of Republicans, but as a matter of fact they are closer in political ideals to Comrade Stalin, of Russia, than to President Hoover, of the United States.

Defeatist Reasons.

Tulsa Tribune.

Senator Capper is sponsoring in the upper house, Senate joint resolution 210, which would authorize the government to distribute 40,000,000 bushels of surplus wheat for relief purposes. He proposed last year that the government sell this wheat to the Chinese government for the relief of China's starving millions, and to stabilize wheat prices for American growers by getting it out of sight of the price-fixers who use it to justify their bearishness in the Chicago pit. He now feels that the proposed service may be rendered the farmers, and local communities relieved of a part of their charity burdens, by giving the wheat to American families instead.

An Effective Answer.

Mankato Free Press.

President Hoover's announcement that the government has now set in motion a public works program of $724,000,000 to run through next year is a rather effective answer to the claim that all the government was doing was not a "drop in the bucket" toward relieving unemployment. Certainly those who would provide a program greatly exceeding this should explain where the money is coming from—how the bills are to be paid.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Opposition to Misappropriation of Public Money Does Not Mean Lack of Sympathy—Red Cross Should Be Supported.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Permit me to say a word in praise of The Post editorial, "The Red Cross Appeal," which comments on the appeal of the President for a popular relief fund to be handled by the Red Cross in drought-stricken sections.

You are eternally right when you say that "the largesse of the public is the only proper source of Red Cross revenue" and that "the attempts to take tax money required to run the Government and use it as a dole for needed citizens is a defiance of the Constitution." Aside from this, you are right in the belief that, as a speedy and efficiently directed means to meet the emergency, the popular subscription, Red Cross plan is commended by plain common sense.

Permit me, likewise, to extend my sympathy in consideration of the fact that in protesting against Government doles you may be misunderstood by thoughtless humanitarians. There are too many individuals who, when the furtherance of any public welfare scheme in which they may be interested is under consideration, get fretful at the mention of constitutional checks on the activities of our Government. If there is such a thing as editorial courage, it is surely called for when protests against the legislative folly of the demagogue must be written at the risk of being considered cold and callous and a horrible example of man's inhumanity to man.

Finally, therefore, let me congratulate Uncle Sam—the American people—that in The Washington Post we have a newspaper whose clear conception of the danger involved in legislation beyond the limit of Federal authority is vigorously set forth when attempts are made to misappropriate public money.

FEDERALIST.

Protest Against Razing of Perfectly Good Stone Postoffice Building in Detroit.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Federal Government proposes to wreck the impregnable stone postoffice at Detroit, which is five stories high and took six years to build. This unsurpassed structure, containing 200,000 square feet of floor space and 200 windows, is one of the finest specimens of Gothic architecture in the United States, and it is serviceable for a hundred years to come.

With national, State and county deficits on every side, they propose to wipe out this beautiful landmark, worth $8,000,000, and in its place put up a mass-production building of futuristic design costing $6,500,000, with only 20 per cent more floor space.

In the face of thousands of bankrupt taxpayers, the razing of Detroit's magnificent Federal building will be a scream of wanton waste and an unforgettable offense against economy.

Is this orgy of waste going on all over the United States in Federal appropriations. D. H. O'MEARS.

Detroit, Mich.

Public Money Could Be Well Spent on Viaducts as Time and Life Savers, While Helping Jobless.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The statements of Arthur W. Shepard in your current issue relative to expenditures at this time for public improvements are, in the opinion of the writer, worthy of universal consideration and commendation.

The construction of a viaduct, for instance, would help all classes of people; the business man in a hurry, the person of leisure out for pleasure, and even the pedestrian who is unable to ride. There would be less waiting and less danger at crossings. The saving in limbs, lives and time would be continuous.

There is an endless chain of thoughts to enforce the suggestions. There is need of a numberless host to agitate and spread such ideas and thereby speed up action.

Ought we not to give more thought to make our investments such as are calculated to help everybody at all times?

W. B. WITHERSPOON.

Lack of Headlights Makes Collision Danger.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Week-end drivers, in my opinion, from the way they go on a rampage on the streets and State roads, no matter how intelligent they may be in business matters, show weak minds when it comes to driving a car.

The traffic rules require, if I am not mistaken, that headlights should be lit on all cars after darkness, but how many cars do you see running around town with only parking or cowl lamps lit in place of headlights? With some of the lights that are only a little larger than a silver dollar, what chance has a motorist or pedestrian to know there is an automobile coming from a side street?

I drive a car an average of 100 miles a day, every day, and many times have nearly had a crash just on this account. The police seem to close their eyes to this violation, instead of compelling every one to show a headlight that can be seen a reasonable distance. Let's have some safe driving for a spell. DRIVER.

Simplicity Should Be the Test in Any Move to "Improve" Washington Monument.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In the study of plans for improvement of its surroundings the Washington Monument committee should make simplicity the test. The original idea of a monument to Washington is as good today as it was in the minds of his familiars and early admirers.

It may be that, rising straight out of the ground, there is something wanting in the Monument's appearance, as it now stands. Perhaps a plain marble base, projecting not more than 30 feet and not higher than 15 feet at its foot, would add to its present aspect of towering stability. At least, something like that is as far as I think it safe to go if it is really thought advisable to "improve" the Monument. C. J. T.

VAST DEFICIT AHEAD, GERMANY IS WARNED

Finance Minister Informs Budget Group Reich Is Shy $238,200,000.

REVENUES FALLING OFF

Berlin, Jan. 14 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Germany faces a budget deficit of about 1,000,000,000 marks ($238,200,000), Dr. Hermann Dietrich, finance minister, informed the budget committee of the Reichstag today.

On December 3, Dietrich calculated the falling off in tax and custom receipts for this fiscal year would be 600,000,000 marks ($142,900,000). Today he told the budget committee the estimate must be increased by 100,000,000 marks ($23,820,000).

He estimated the drop in receipts under the 1931 budget at 877,000,000 marks ($208,801,400), at the same time promising to submit a supplementary budget soon.

As a measure of economy, the cabinet has decided, Dietrich reported, to reduce the staffs of the various ministries by 10 per cent. No new taxes of any kind are contemplated, he said.

Herr Hergt, Nationalist deputy, said in debate the additional burden of 1,300,000,000 marks ($309,660,000) in taxes and 1,500,000,000 marks ($357,300,000) for unemployment insurance had been imposed on the German people last year. He contended the Government's great mistake was failure to attack the question of the Young plan.

The Communist members of the budget committee presented a resolution calling on the minister of labor to refuse to declare a reduction in the pay of railroad employes. The resolution was supported by the Socialists and National Socialists (Fascist).

FREAKS OF WEATHER CHILL LANDS IN DIXIE

was brewing snow and cold for the North and Middle West, but nothing of unusual severity.

It was somewhat colder along the Eastern Seaboard, but snow was only spasmodic.

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Freezing weather was predicted as far South as the Gulf Coast tonight, while a mantle of snow covered portions of the border States in Dixie.

Tennessee, Virginia and North Carolina bore the brunt of the snow. Five and eight-tenths inches of snow were reported at Knoxville.

Snow fell during the day in western Virginia. Temperatures ranged from 6 to 16 degrees below freezing in the western part of the State to 28 degrees at Richmond.

The mercury dropped to 22 degrees in Atlanta this morning, with snow flurries over sections of northern Georgia. Muscle Shoals in Alabama had a low reading of 17 degrees while at Montgomery and Birmingham the thermometer sank to 27 and 20, respectively. From Arkansas came reports of a snow blanket that wrapped the Ozarks, along the Missouri line.

Forecasts for tonight indicated freezing weather throughout the South, with the low predicted at 14 or 15 in Georgia, 16 to 22 in Mississippi and 18 to 20 in Arkansas.

Government forecasters in Tampa predicted frost and possible freezing weather for that section tomorrow morning and growers and truckers were prepared for the coldest night of the winter.

R. W. Gray, Government meteorologist at Miami, Fla., issued frost warnings for extreme southern Florida, with the temperature there expected to go to 40 degrees.

BOWMAN LOAN BILL RUNS INTO TROUBLE

Approval of House Committee Opposed by Hull and Tarver.

IS UP AGAIN TOMORROW

The revised Bowman bill providing for amendment of the small loans law of the District fell into difficulties at a meeting of the House District committee yesterday and the prospects are that it will face more difficulties before it gets anywhere.

The Bowman bill is sponsored by the Russell Sage Foundation. In contrast to it is the credits union bill, introduced in the Senate by Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas, chairman of the Senate District committee, and in the House by Representative Gale H. Stalker, of New York.

Mr. Bowman yesterday asked the committee to approve his bill and report it for favorable action by the House. Representatives Hull, of Wisconsin, and Tarver, of Georgia, opposed his proposal.

Mr. Hull sought to have public hearings held on both the Bowman bill and the credits union bill. His effort was not successful. The vote was nine to two.

The fight at the committee meeting yesterday resulted in the bill being put over for consideration at a committee meeting tomorrow morning.

U. S. Passing Buck, Doherty Charges

Cities Service Head Says Nation's Oil Resources Are Being Wasted.

New York, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Henry L. Doherty, head of Cities Service Co., in full-page advertisements to be published in newspapers tomorrow, charges the United States with "passing the buck" in conservation of oil and that meanwhile the national resources are being wasted.

"I have no fight with our Federal officials who have been afraid to take a firm stand on this oil matter," he says, "for I doubt if they would have gotten any place in a fight with a great line of oil barons, but the situation has now gotten so bad that many of these oil barons are themselves frightened, and, I believe, now is the time to strike."

In the statement, issued simultaneously with a meeting at Washington tomorrow of governors of the oil-producing States, he says:

"Perhaps there is no waste in all of the other businesses combined that equals the waste of the oil business. What is called competition in the oil field is no more competition than is a run on the bank."

20,000 Tags Remain; Saturday Is Last Day

A final rush of District motorists for 1931 automobile tags is expected at the District building the remainder of this week, and indications are that a large number of car owners will have to park their vehicles in a garage over Sunday.

The demand for license plates has been light so far this week despite the fact that 35,000 tags remained to be distributed last Saturday. It is estimated that only about 15,000 have been issued since then, leaving 20,000 as yet unsolicted. District authorities have declared that there would be no extension of time after midnight Saturday and that all motorists venturing forth with 1930 tags after that period would be arrested.

INDIAN CONFERENCE TANGLED BY SIKHS

Provisional Accord of Hindus and Moslems May Aid in Later Agreement.

4-HOUR SESSION IS HELD

London, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—By the narrow margin of one seat in the Punjab Provincial Legislature the Indian round table conference tonight failed to solve the Indian minorities problem, although Hindu and Moslem leaders reached a provisional accord which in itself may force a full agreement later.

The evening session ended, however, with the conference still deadlocked over deep racial and religious problems as they affect India's political future under the proposed federal organization.

The latest setback to conference hopes was caused by the insistent demand of the Sikhs for a definite 24 per cent representation in the Punjab Legislature.

Since the Sikhs compose only 11 per cent of the population, neither the Moslems nor the Hindus would yield. Despite Premier MacDonald's extreme efforts to bring about concessions during a four-hour session, no keystone could be found for the arch of agreement which had been built.

Mr. MacDonald's report on the minorities committee will be made tomorrow with his pledge of safeguards for minorities, but with no agreement among the rival Indian delegates as to how they will be applied.

Wilbur Sends Oil Pact To Group in Congress

(Associated Press.)

Copies of the draft of the agreement placing the rich Kettleman Hills oil field of California on the unit operation plan were sent to the Senate and House public lands committee by Secretary Wilbur yesterday.

Wilbur said the agreement was submitted for study. He has endorsed the agreement. Approval of Congress, however, is not necessary under the act authorizing the secretary to negotiate unit plan agreements. The secretary said he thought it advisable the committees consider the agreement because of the large values involved.

Oil Relief Parley Opens Here Today

Delegates Are to Consider Problems Confronting Industry.

Approximately 125 delegates from eleven oil producing States are due at the Hotel Mayflower for a series of conferences to consider relief for the petroleum industry. Early arrivals last night numbered about 50. All of the delegates were officially appointed by their respective State governors.

The call for the meeting, issued by former Gov. W. J. Holloway of Oklahoma and Gov. Clyde M. Reed of Kansas, held that proper solution of the petroleum industry problems was necessary "to meet the unemployment situation, favorably affect the farm question, materially relieve the economic burdens of the Nation as well as save the independent oil industry, now threatened with destruction." It was stated the conference disclaimed any "lobbying" intent. Delegates are said to pay their own expenses and receive no remuneration.

The opening gun in the battle will be fired at 10 o'clock this morning in the caucus room of the House Office Building. Former Gov. Holloway is scheduled to call the meeting to order and Wirt Franklin, president of the Independent Petroleum Association, will outline the problems.

It was stated that the conference was not committed in advance to a tariff on oil or an embargo, but will attempt to find a way out of their present difficulties.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

FESS TO GIVE PLANS FOR BICENTENNIAL

Senator Will Speak Before Colonial Wars Group, Who Would Cooperate.

HOOVER TO GREET THEM

Plans for cooperation in the George Washington bicentennial will be made by the general council of the General Society of Colonial Wars at the forty-fourth meeting of the council Saturday, at the Willard.

Detailed explanation of plans for the world-wide celebration will be given the general council by Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, vice chairman, and Representative Sol Bloom, of New York, associate director of the bicentennial commission.

President Hoover, who is chairman of the George Washington bicentennial commission, will receive the members of the society at the White House, at noon, Saturday. Senator Fess, Representative Bloom and Dr. H. J. Eckenrode, chairman of the Virginia Commission on Conservation and Development, will be guests of the general council of the society at a luncheon at the Willard, at 1 o'clock, Saturday.

A pilgrimage will be made Sunday to George Washington shrines. A wreath will be placed on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier by Maj. Howard Pell, of New York, honorary governor general of the general society. Christ Church, in Alexandria, will be visited. A wreath will be placed on the tomb of Washington at Mount Vernon by George de Benneville Keim, of Edgewater Park, N. J., governor general of the society.

The society will then visit Fredericksburg, Va. Representative R. Walton Moore, of Virginia, will accompany the pilgrimage and explain the points of interest. Returning to Washington, Sunday evening, the general council will be guests of Governor General Keim at a buffet supper at the Metropolitan Club.

Sale of Bundled Sunbeams Is Planned by Food Concern

Proceeds of Marketing Rays Will Go to University of Cincinnati; Rays Especially Valuable in Adding Vitamins to Food, Say Research Men.

New York, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—A plan to market commercially the artificial sunbeam discoveries of the University of Cincinnati was announced here tonight.

The Cincinnatians have learned how to strip light into thin bundles of closely similar rays which have certain specific effects on food, including making vitamin D.

Formation of a holding company "for the practical utilization of the discoveries" was announced by C. M. Chester, jr., president of the General Food Corporation, and Herman Schneider, president of the university, who is here. A statement from the food concern said:

"All revenues accruing to the university will be devoted to further researches in the field of basic science."

The investigations are made in the basic science research laboratory of the university under direction of Prof. George Sperti. The laboratory is a good sized institution with 30 workers, although it was started a few years ago in a garret without funds, a scientific dream of two men, President Schneider and Prof. Sperti, the latter then a student at Cincinnati.

For several years the laboratory has been measuring precisely the differing effects of various wave lengths of light.

The rays seem to be done up in tiny bundles and the size of package, or frequency, is extremely important. The size good for one purpose is useless or harmful for another, and only the exactly right size of light energy will do a particular job effectively.

It is much like tuning in on the radio. The selection of light waves is obtained through use of filters of quartz or other transparent substances.

Recently the laboratory found that a narrow, sharply defined band of radiation in ultra-violet produces the vitamin D that comes from sunshine. Longer rays produce none, and shorter rays do more harm than good in the vitamin making. Similar limits for other light uses were identified.

"This," said tonight's statement, "is essentially the university's discovery as it applies to vitamin D.

"It is of the greatest importance that the present discovery has made it entirely practical to irradiate milk without deleteriously affecting its taste or smell and thereby to sterilize and at the same time increase the vitamin content of the milk.

"The discovery can be used to add vitamin D in definitely controllable qualities to many articles of food and pharmaceutical products. It can be used for sterilization in the prevention of food spoilage.

"Various germs of fermentation, yeast molds and similar foes to preservation of foods are said to yield to the university's light treatment methods. Its discoverers even see in it potentialities for the destruction of germs of disease inside the human body without injury to living tissues."

Rudolph Jose Firm On His Resignation

Harry King Is New President of Chamber of Commerce of Washington.

Rudolph Jose yesterday stood by his decision to resign as president of the Washington Chamber of Commerce despite efforts of a committee of the chamber to induce him to continue as chief pilot of the organization.

Mr. Jose said that he deeply appreciated the courtesy shown him, but felt that he must abide by his decision to resign. He will be succeeded by Harry King, first vice president of the chamber. A. G. Wood, second vice president will become first vice president.

The directors of the chamber will hold a special meeting at noon tomorrow to ratify the change of office and to appoint a second vice president. Mr. Jose was elected president of the chamber last October. He had held the office of first vice president and second vice president. He now becomes an ex officio member of the board of directors.

Mrs. Hume Leaves $250,000 Estate

Property Bulk to Be Split Among Children After Charity Is Cared For.

An estate valued at $250,000 was left by Mrs. Emma P. Hume, widow of Frank Hume, a former local merchant, according to the terms of her will filed yesterday in District Supreme Court. The estate consists of real estate in the District and Virginia assessed at $108,201, cash totaling $44,000, and personal property estimated at $53,000.

Two small charitable bequests were made and Frank N. Hume, a son, was given Hume Springs, in Virginia, and five adjoining acres. After that the estate is to be divided among the children, provision being made that the share of Alan P. Hume be held in trust for him.

In addition to Frank and Alan other children are: Robert S. Hume, of Washington; Howard Hume, U. S. Army; John E. N. Hume, of Schenectady, N. Y.; Alice Cooke and Nannie G. Jewett, both of Washington; Emma N. Hornor, of Clarksburg, W. Va., and Mabel R. Howard, of Hartford, Conn.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 30 years, and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-covered tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets.

BETHLEHEM BONUS HEARING ON JAN. 27

Corporation and Directors Must Answer Demands for Accounting.

SCHWAB DEFENDS PLAN

Newark, N. J., Jan. 14 (A.P.).—The Bethlehem Steel Corporation and thirteen officers and directors were ordered today to show cause January 27 why they should not give an accounting for payment of bonuses totaling $36,493,606.

The order, sought by four stockholders who ask a refund of any part of the bonuses found excessive, was signed by Vice Chancellor Backes. A request for an injunction restraining the company from making any further bonus payments pending settlement of the suit, was denied.

The bonuses were paid to high officials of the corporation over a period from January 1, 1911, to June 30, 1930. The complainants, all small stockholders, said they only learned of the bonus payments last summer from testimony in trial of a suit to prevent a merger of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. with the Bethlehem Corporation.

Schwab Assumes Onus.

New York, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Aroused by the attack in court on the profit-sharing system of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the board, today assumed full responsibility for the plan's administration.

The 60-year-old chairman, who built the corporation into the second largest unit in the steel industry, issued a statement vigorously defending the profit-sharing plan which has been attacked in a suit brought in Newark, N. J., court by stockholders.

He said it was well known that the system had been approved by Bethlehem stockholders and with their consent its operation had been delegated to him. The responsibility for it, he said, "is entirely mine."

Introduced by Carnegie.

"I have never personally participated in the distributions under the system so that I might be entirely free from all possible prejudice in fixing the relative participations of the men who were to be compensated through the system for their efforts," he said.

Mr. Schwab referred to the system as having been originated by the late Andrew Carnegie, in whose employ he got his start.

The chairman contended the value of the system was clearly shown by the fact the cost of its executive management was less than that of any other important steel company "of which we have definite knowledge." Its value is also reflected in manufacturing costs, he added.

South Wales Will Aid Coal Miners' Families

London, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Authorities in South Wales today took measures for widespread relief for the families of 150,000 miners, out of work because of the stoppage in the coal fields of that district.

Reports reached them the distress was becoming steadily more acute and the Glamorgan Public Assistance Committee at Cardiff approved a scheme under which 100,000 pounds would be paid each week to the needy. A deputation was appointed to meet with ministry of health officials so that the scheme might be put in operation.

Ward Baking Fight Gains in Intensity

2 Opposing Factions Call for Special Meetings of Stockholders.

New York, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—The fight for control of Ward Baking Corporation assumed a more complicated stage today with announcements of two different special meetings of stockholders called by the opposing factions.

One meeting was called for January 26 at Baltimore by C. B. Comstock and E. W. Gwinner, directors who recently withdrew their support from the management and joined the opposition.

William C. Evans, chairman of the board of the corporation, said today that at a meeting Tuesday, directors, in accordance with provisions of the by-laws, had called a special meeting of stockholders for February 12 at Baltimore to bring to an end "the agitation that has been carried on during the past months through the press and by personal interviews and correspondence."

Arkansas Reorganization Urged.

Little Rock, Ark., Jan. 14 (A.P.).—A sweeping reorganization of the State Government, and reforms in banking and insurance laws to prevent a recurrence of the recent failure of many banks and two large insurance companies, were recommended by Governor Harvey Parnell today in his message to the General Assembly.

Bank in Esthonia Fails For About $3,652,000

Tallinn, Esthonia, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—The Commercial Bank of Esthonia suspended payments today with liabilities of 13,000,000 crowns (approximately $3,652,000).

The principal creditors were local banks. Foreign banking interests were reported not to have been involved to any appreciable extent.

COMMITTEE VOTES OUT TRAFFIC LAW

HOUSE GETS MEASURE

Favorable report of the new District traffic law was voted yesterday by the House District committee on the recommendation of a subcommittee headed by Representative Gale H. Stalker, of New York.

The bill provides for a new board which shall decide disputes between municipal agencies, especially the Public Utilities Commission and the Commissioners.

The measure is modified from the form in which it was submitted to Congress a few weeks ago by the District Commissioners. The utilities commission voiced its objection at a hearing before a subcommittee of the Senate District committee headed by Senator Hamilton F. Kean, of New Jersey.

Representative Stalker, chairman of the traffic subcommittee of the House District committee, held two sessions of public hearing and finally brought the disputants together in a conference in his office at which the bill approved yesterday was worked out. It does not meet with the objection of the utilities commission, voiced by Harleigh H. Hartman, vice chairman, who said that in an effort to unify control of traffic the measure diversified control of utilities.

General Motors Sales Show Gain

Big December Increase Is Attributed to New Car Models.

New York, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—General Motors Corporation today reported a sharp gain in sales for December, in contrast to the trend a year ago.

The marked improvement in December sales, as compared to both the preceding month and the same month of 1929, reflected the introduction of the corporation's lowest price models in November instead of January, as in previous years.

Total sales of automobiles to dealers last month, including Canadian sales and overseas shipments, aggregated 80,008 cars, against 57,267 in November and 40,222 in the like month of 1929.

Soprano, Violinist Heard At 49th Musical Morning

Mme. Claudia Muzio's Voice Calls for Many Encores; Alfred San Malo's Rendition of Arias Causes Critical Acclaim; Coming Artists Announced.

Europe and the New World each provided an artist for Mrs. Lawrence Townsend's forty-ninth musical morning at the Mayflower Hotel yesterday morning when Mme. Claudia Muzio, dramatic soprano of the Chicago Grand Opera Company, and Alfred San Malo, Latin-American violinist, gave a joint program.

Mme. Muzio was received with much acclaim to which she responded with many encores. She was in splendid voice and her singing of the aria "Vissi d'Arte" from Puccini's "Tosca" was a high point of the program.

In other operatic selections Mme. Muzio was also successful while the ballads on her part of the program, sung in French and Italian, were given with accurate diction, artistic phrasing and emotional value.

Senor San Malo, a native of Panama, who has won a wide reputation in Europe and America as a violinist, revealed the merits of the virtuoso, and the attractions of a musical personality in his playing yesterday. His technique was sure, his bowing vigorous and his double stopping and harmonics of exceptional quality.

He opened the program with an aria from Bach and a gavotte by the same composer which brought out the charming sonority of his tone, with its crystal and delicate effects. The same good opinion of the audience was retained by his later playing of selections by such violin music composers as Kreisler, Sarasate, Chaminade, Rimsky-Korsakoff and Wieniawski.

The artists at Mrs. Lawrence Townsend's fiftieth musical morning next Wednesday will be Miss Myra Hess, pianist, and Hans Kindler, cellist.

Candy and Pencil Venders Included in Chest Talk at Park View.

There is absolutely no need for beggars on the streets of Washington and those who are approached by any should refuse to give them money, Wallace Hatch, of the Washington Community Chest, told the Park View Citizens Association last night at the Park View Platoon School.

Mr. Hatch said that there are only two reasons for beggars in Washington—they have been overlooked by the Community Chest or by some other social agency through accident or they are begging because they can make money at it. He said that the Community Chest is able to care for all men and women who beg. Venders of pencils and candy are just as much beggars as those who deliberately ask for alms, Mr. Hatch said. Sellers of apples he put in a different class.

The association president, John S. Cole, appointed a committee to investigate unemployment in the Park View section and to distribute cards for odd job information. A resolution opposing the proposed substitution for the Borland law was adopted. Indorsement was given the billboard campaign of the American Civic Association.

Atlanta Banks Report Gain.

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 14 (A.P.).—An increase of $6,700,000 in deposits during 1930 was reported today by two Atlanta banks. The Citizens and Southern bank reports a gain of $4,700,000 with increased resources of $6,000,000, while the Fulton National Bank had $2,000,000 more on hand than a year ago.

Taxicab Color Scheme Brings Man 30 Days

Adjudged guilty of contempt of court in connection with the violation of an injunction, John D. Reagan, of Douglas street northeast near Thirtieth street, yesterday was sentenced by Justice Jennings Bailey to serve 30 days in jail.

Reagan was charged with violating a District Supreme Court injunction which restrained him from using the color scheme of the Diamond Cab Company on his taxicab.

Starting that's swift... starting that's safe, because this free-flowing oil never leaves working parts.....

Tomorrow morning, as you step hopefully on the starter, will there be a s-l-o-w disappointing groan, as it tugs at your unwilling motor?... Or, will there come a swift responsive roar?

If you're having trouble starting, you're probably using an old-type oil that congeals at temperatures well above freezing. You should change to Conoco Germ-Processed.

But that's not all! To ward off the wear that these prolonged starting periods bring, you want an oil which provides instant lubrication at the first reluctant revolution of a cold motor... And there's just one oil which can do that! Because there is just one lubricant which penetrates metal surfaces and never drains away in idle periods.

Conoco Germ-Processed Motor Oil is that one lubricant. Change to this motor oil with twin advantages for winter use... 35 cents per quart for all grades at the sign of the Conoco Red Triangle.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

NEW CEREAL MIXTURE.

DR. TISDALE and his associates have devised a recipe for a cereal mixture which they have found rich in vitamins and minerals. The recipe is:

Wheat meal, 53 per cent
Oatmeal, 18 per cent
Corn meal, 10 per cent
Wheat germ, 15 per cent
Bone meal, 2 per cent
Yeast, 1 per cent
Alfalfa, 1 per cent.

These are ground separately and then thoroughly mixed. The final step is to heat the mixture to 158 degrees and to hold at that temperature for 30 minutes. Thus treated the cereal will keep indefinitely and can be marketed in any part of the world. Three and one-half ounces of it supplies the amount of lime found in 22 ounces of milk. Its iron content is twice that of egg yellow. It contains enough copper to supply bodily needs. There is ample vitamin A, derived principally from the wheat germ and alfalfa, ample vitamin B complex derived from the germ and yeast. Ample vitamin D derived from irradiated wheat germ and ample E derived also from the wheat germ. If alfalfa does not supply enough C, fresh fruits and vegetables are generally available. The cereal is high in calories, derived principally from starches and there is a fair proportion of proteins.

The diet of civilized man is composed largely of cereals or grain foods. These foods make up from 30 to 60 per cent of the diet. They are the cheapest sources of energy and they are attractive to the tastes and appetites of people everywhere. The methods of marketing, where the supply is far removed from the place of consumption, necessitates removal of the bran and germ from most cereal products. Therefore, large users of cereal products are exposed to certain deficiency disorders.

Dr. Tisdale has found that were it possible to market whole grain flours there would still be some of these disorders, since not even the whole grain contains enough of the protective principle. This he undertakes to supply by the addition of germ, bone meal, yeast and alfalfa. The remaining questions are, will the mixture appeal to the palate and will the price be right?

ECZEMA OF THE FEET.

B. C. K. writes:

I am about 62. I have had eczema on my feet for about 15 years.

REPLY.

Eczema of the feet is generally due to a fungus parasite. Dyes and other poisons cause some cases. A few are due to other causes. If you will find out what your foot trouble is, and what causes it, cure should be easy. Eczema is just a word and means so much that it means nothing.

IT IS NOT HARMFUL.

Fat writes: I have been trying to knock off a few pounds and heard that rolling was very good. Every night after supper I roll. It seems to work fine, and I have lost weight, but I wondered if it were a harmful exercise.

REPLY.

It is not.

OH, THE WAY YOU CAME HOME LAST NIGHT ROUSING THE WHOLE BUILDING AND WHEN THEY OPENED YOUR GRIP AND ALL THOSE OLD SMELLY FURS FELL OUT I WANTED TO DIE...
SINCE YOU'VE BEEN AWAY WE COULD HARDLY GET ALONG ON WHAT I EARNED..... ONLY HEARD FROM YOU TWICE AND AUNT IDA WORRIED NIGHT AND DAY..... I GUESS YOU DON'T LOVE AUNTIE....
WELL, I SENT ALL THE MONEY I COULD AND SHE KNOWS IT TOO.. TO HEAR HER TALK YOU'D THINK SHE WAS THE ONLY ONE TO DO ANYTHING ROUND HERE....
LISTEN, AUNT IDA..... JUST REMEMBER I THINK AS MUCH OF YOU AS ANYBODY DOES

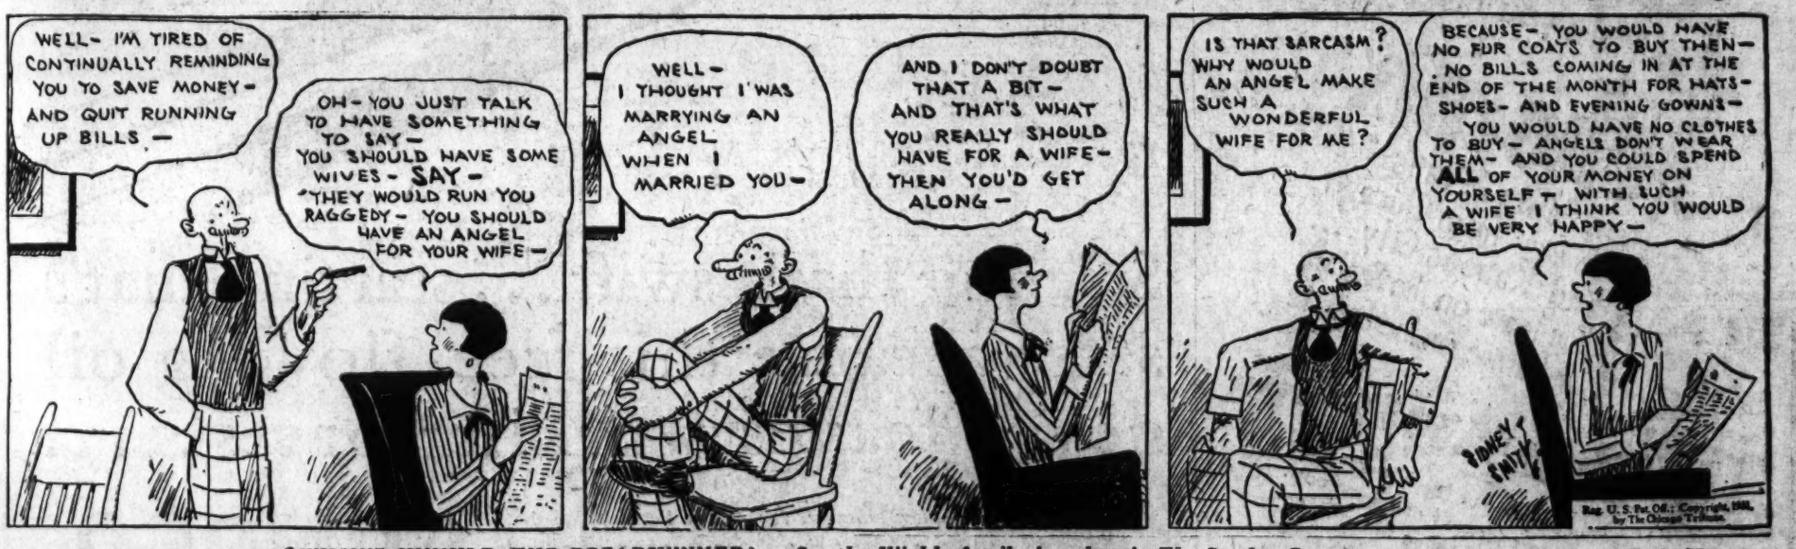
THE GUMPS — Follow the Gumps in the colored Comic Section of The Sunday Post. — If I Had the Wings of an Angel



WELL- I'M TIRED OF CONTINUALLY REMINDING YOU TO SAVE MONEY - AND QUIT RUNNING UP BILLS -
OH - YOU JUST TALK TO HAVE SOMETHING TO SAY - YOU SHOULD HAVE SOME WIVES - SAY - "THEY WOULD RUN YOU RAGGEDY - YOU SHOULD HAVE AN ANGEL FOR YOUR WIFE -
WELL - I THOUGHT I WAS MARRYING AN ANGEL WHEN I MARRIED YOU - AND I DON'T DOUBT THAT A BIT - AND THAT'S WHAT YOU REALLY SHOULD HAVE FOR A WIFE - THEN YOU'D GET ALONG -
IS THAT SARCASM? WHY WOULD AN ANGEL MAKE SUCH A WONDERFUL WIFE FOR ME?
BECAUSE - YOU WOULD HAVE NO FUR COATS TO BUY THEN - NO BILLS COMING IN AT THE END OF THE MONTH FOR HATS - SHOES - AND EVENING GOWNS - YOU WOULD HAVE NO CLOTHES TO BUY - ANGELS DON'T WEAR THEM - AND YOU COULD SPEND ALL OF YOUR MONEY ON YOURSELF - WITH SUCH A WIFE I THINK YOU WOULD BE VERY HAPPY -

Woman Voters Leader Decides To Stay Here

Miss Belle Sherwin Now Comfortably Housed in Old Dwelling.

SETTING at rest persistent rumors that she would retire from the presidency of the League of Women Voters, Miss Belle Sherwin is definitely established in a house at Georgetown apparently having abandoned half-expressed ideas to retire on her great estate near Cleveland.

Returning this week to her offices on Seventeenth street after an absence of many months, Miss Sherwin is again in "harness," although admitting that the end of each day is anticipated eagerly that she may go home to her quaintly remodeled house at 1671 Thirty-first street. With the call of a garden at her back door and the rush of politics tapping at the front, the widely known organizer is hard put to it to strike a happy medium for each day.

Last summer rumor had it that Miss Sherwin would quit her job and devote time to the immense acreage of her Ohio estate. Dame rumor was wrong, for Miss Sherwin purchased a house here, remodeled it, evolved a garden, and on New Year's Day took possession.

The old building, which really seemed to be only four ugly walls last summer, has been made into a charming house. The front door is flush with the street. Other doors open on terraced gardens, where many hundreds of bulbs are planted, by way of setting up competition for the spring with thousands of flowers that nod in the winds of Lake Erie at the Cleveland home.

The Georgetown garden, with its nice balance of boxwood and fountains, its garage hidden in a secluded nook that gives a cloistered effect, stretches to the plain walls of the attractive house like a bit of transplanted woodland.

Since coming to Washington about six years ago to assume her office, Miss Sherwin has lived within stone's throw of the League of Women Voters' headquarters, her house tucked away in semiseclusion in the adjacent neighborhood.

German Ambassador And Wife in New York.

Commander and Mrs. Emanuel A. Lofquist arrived in New York Monday in the S. S. Virginia from California and have joined Mrs. Lofquist's mother, Mrs. Horace E. Andrews, at the Ambassador Hotel. With them are their daughters, the Misses Mary and Ruth Lofquist.

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth L. McGaughey, daughter of Mrs. McGaughey and the late Dr. Carl Williamson McGaughey, of Washington, to Mr. Edward Lyons, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lyons, of Brooklyn, N. Y., took place yesterday in the Memorial Chapel of Central Congregational Church, Brooklyn.

The bride was gowned in brown velvet and lace, with which she carried talisman roses, and was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Carl W. McGaughey. A small reception followed the ceremony. The bridal couple will sail for Stockholm, Sweden, where they will make their home.

Brig. Gen. Robert E. Callan and Mrs. Callan are en route to the Capital from the West Coast, where they arrived this week from Honolulu, where Gen. Callan has been stationed. Gen. Country Club Of Women Has Dinner Party

Vice President Guest at Big Anniversary Celebration.

The board of governors of the National Woman's Country Club entertained at a dinner in honor of the Vice President, Mr. Charles Curtis, and Mrs. Edward Everett Gann last evening at the clubhouse on Bradley boulevard, Montgomery County, Md.

Others attending the dinner were the Ambassador of Mexico and Senora de Telles, the Ambassador of Turkey, Mr. Ahmet Zuhtar; the Ambassador of Poland and Mme. Tytus Filipowicz, the Minister of Finland, Mr. L. Astrom; the Minister of Austria and Mme. Prochnik, the Attorney General and Mrs. William De Witt Mitchell, Senator Arthur Capper, Senator David I Walsh, Senator and Mrs. Hamilton Fish Kean, Senator and Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, Vice Admiral and Mrs. Harry P. Huse, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Guy V. Henry, Judge John Barton Payne.

Also Brig. Gen. William E. Horton, Lieut. Col. Pennaroli, military attache of the Italian Embassy; Mr. Witold Wankowicz, commercial counsel of the Polish Embassy; Mr. Edward E Gann, Mr. Charles Henry Butler, Mr. and Mrs. Henry K. Daugherty, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Weddell, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Cotten, Mr. Alfred Jenkins Shriver, Col. Blanton Winship, Col. Swanson, Representative Edith Nourse Rogers, Mrs. Edwin T. Meredith, Mrs. Virginia White Speel, Mrs. J. W. Lyman, Mrs. J. Wilmer Biddle, Mrs. Ellis A Yost, Miss Florence E. Ward, Mrs. Arthur MacArthur, jr., Mrs. Jacob Leander Loose, Mrs. Henry Alvah Strong, Miss Helen Yates Sterling, Mrs. Walm Morgan Churchman, Miss Anne Randolph and Miss Mary Randolph.

Mr. and Mrs. Tuckerman, the latter president of the club, acted as host and hostess at the dinner. The clubhouse furnished an ideal setting for the company present, the effective table decorations and appointments adding to the beauty of the scene.

Last night's event opened the club's four-day celebration of the first anniversary of the formal opening of its clubhouse. Today the board of governors will give a luncheon for the out-of town members who have come on for the celebration. Tomorrow's outstanding event will be a reception to the entire membership from 4 to 6 o'clock, and on Saturday the club will entertain at a tea dance following the drag hunt of the Riding and Hunt Club on the estate of the club and the surrounding countryside, in which many members of the National Woman's Country Club will participate.

Mrs. V. M. Radcliffe Agnew entertained at dinner at the Shoreham Hotel last evening. Her guests included the Secretary of the Roumanian Legation and Mme. Popovici, Miss Amelia Earhart, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Vidal, Mr. Nikola Perazic, of the Jugoslavian Legation, and Lieut. Aaron Storrs.

An interesting group at the dinner dance at the Shoreham Hotel last evening included officers from Walter Reed Hospital and their wives. The company included:

Col. and Mrs. Walter Fraser, Col. and Mrs. Walter R. Pick, Maj. and Mrs. George R. Koon, Capt. and Mrs. Robert McComb, Capt. and Mrs. Harry Wight, Capt. and Mrs. Raymond Randall, Capt. and Mrs. Peter Carpenter, Capt. and Mrs. Solon B. Renshaw, Capt. and Mrs. Arthur D. Envoys' Wives Plan At Homes For Tomorrow

Mme. Claudel Among Those Who Will Receive in Afternoon.

Several of the diplomatic hostesses have announced they will be at home tomorrow afternoon in their respective embassies and legations. Mme. Claudel, wife of the French Ambassador, will receive, as will Mme. Simopoulos, wife of the Greek Minister, and Mme. Van Royen, wife of the Minister of the Netherlands.

The Minister of the Union of South Africa and Mrs. Eric Louw will receive this afternoon.

The Minister of the Netherlands and Mme. Peter, who are in New York, will return to Washington on Monday, and so will not be at home tomorrow.

Mme. Debuchi, wife of the Ambassador of Japan, will not receive tomorrow, owing to an indisposition.

Mme. Filipowicz, wife of the Polish Ambassador, will be at home Friday afternoon for the first time this season. She will be at home again Friday, January 30, and Friday, February 13.

The Charge d'Affaires of Egypt and Mme. Ali Ishmail Bey have issued invitations for a dinner on Wednesday, February 11, at the legation.

Tomorrow evening they will entertain at dinner in honor of the Minister of South Africa and Mrs. Louw.

On Wednesday evening, January 21, M. and Mme. Ali Bey will entertain at a supper dance for a group of young folk.

Large Throng Of Elite Goes To Musicale

After Concert Artists Are Entertained by Mrs. Townsend.

With Washington's official season at its height, a large and distinguished audience assembled at the Mayflower yesterday morning for Mrs. Lawrence Townsend's musicale, where the artists were Mme. Claude Muzio, soprano, and Senor Alfredo San Malo, violinist.

According to Mrs. Maurice Thatcher, wife of Representative Thatcher, of Kentucky, Senor San Malo was Panama's child prodigy when she was residing there as Representative Thatcher was serving as governor of the Canal Zone.

The Peruvian Ambassador, Senor Don Manuel de Freyre y Santander, was the ranking guest at the luncheon given by Mrs. Townsend for the artists following the concert.

Others in the luncheon group included the Charge d'Affaires of Panama and Senora de Chevalier, and from the Italian Embassy, Count Alberto Marchetti, Capt. Nobile Luigi Notarbartolo dei Duchi di Villarosa, Lieut. Col. Marco Pennaroli, Count and Countess Roncalli di Montorio, Nobile Carlo Andrew Scardi and Count and Countess Cropello.

Also Mr. Jan Tomaszewski, of the Polish Embassy; Baron Alexander von Wuthenau, of the German Embassy; Mrs. Clarkson Runyon and Miss Jane A. Runyon, of New York; Mrs. Frank Letts, Mrs. George Mesta, Mrs. Pendleton Mayo, Mrs. Frank Evans, Senora Alfredo San Malo and Mr. Renato Liberati.

Mrs. J. W. Lyman, of Kansas City, also had guests with her at luncheon at the hotel after the concert. Those in her party were her sister-in-law, Mrs. Herbert S. Hadley; Mrs. Charles E. Cropley, Mrs. Wade Ellis, Mrs. Charles Butler and Mrs. Marian Butler.

Mrs. W. P. Tams was luncheon hostess at the Mayflower, having as her guests Mrs. Charles A. Coolidge, Mrs. Charles W. Warden, Mrs. Mary D. Abbe, Mrs. George A. Heywood and Mrs. C. Haile, jr.

Miss Mary C. Leiter Engaged to Marry.

By ROBERT D. HEINL

FOLLOWING closely on the heels of an announcement of the Federal Radio Commission that an attempt will be made to equalize the distribution of radio facilities over the country in accordance with the Davis amendment to the radio law, Examiner Elmer W. Pratt has recommended the denial of five out of seven applications for renewal of licenses. Four of the former broadcasting stations are in congested areas.

One of the stations upon which the report was unfavorable is WCLS, of Joliet, Ill., which is in a State that exceeds its quota of facilities more than any other in the Union. Another is in Brooklyn, two are in New York City, and a fifth in Jersey City, also a center of congestion.

All stations are in the local category, the highest power of any one being 500 watts. They were all charged with technical violation of radio regulations, such as using phonograph records without announcing them as such and with frequency deviations.

If the Radio Commission approves the Examiner's report in these cases, no vacancies will be created for new applicants because of the policy not to grant further facilities to States and zones already overquota.

THREE world-famous scientists, in terms designed for the understanding of the layman, will tell the Nation about their work this evening (WMAL 11:30 p. m.) The occasion is a dinner for Prof. and Mrs. Albert Einstein. The other members of the trio are Dr. Robert A. Millikan and Prof. A. A. Michelson.

Another of the boxing bouts to be heard twice monthly has been arranged by WOL for this evening, 9:30 o'clock.

Although their evening broadcast has been transferred to the WEAF network, Julia Sanderson and Frank Crummit will return to the Columbia studios tomorrow. Each Friday morning (WMAL, 10:15 o'clock) thereafter this duo will be heard in a half-hour broadcast.

Prof. Selden M. Ely will speak on "Our National Heritage" in the Sons of the American Revolution series over WJSV at 8 o'clock tonight. Frank B. Steele, sceretary general, national society, will tell of "Influences Inimical to our General Welfare."

A man who has as much information in the back of his noodle about radio people as anyone in the business, Harold P. Brown, editor of Radio Digest, will speak during the Fine Arts program of the Radio Home-Makers' Club this morning (WMAL, 11:15 o'clock).

During his program, Gus Van introduced a new singer, Peggy Schenck, whose father, until his death several months ago, was the other half of the team of Van and Schneck. When photographers posed her in the studio she sat down at the piano.

"Don't use both hands", Van directed her. "Put one on the key board and lean your head on the other."

"But that isn't the way I play," Peggy argued.

"Maybe not," Gus told her, "but it's the way your dad played."

Announcer David Ross was assigned to two successive programs at WABC recently and theoretically had exactly no minutes, no seconds flat in which to get from one program, which ended at 8:30, to another, which began at that time. Actually Ross made the transfer in six seconds; close enough for him to begin the second program on time.

Dare Interprets the Mode

Paris, January 14.

WHAT fashionable woman today doesn't grow enthusiastic over purses that are made of unusual and interesting materials, and given odd and attractive trimmings? And they have plenty to be enthusiastic over this year!

I have seen an amazing new afternoon purse, a novelty under-arm purse, made of gros d'habit (which is, in case you don't know—and I didn't until I saw the purse and asked—the silk material that is used to make the revers of a man's tuxedo). This bag was mounted on a gold frame, which was colorfully enameled in a modernistic pattern. Another very lovely afternoon bag I have just seen is one of heavy flat crepe, in pouch shape, with a frame that is formed as graduated pearls set in gold.

Piping plays an important part in a great many daytime purses. The ones I saw were usually of self-color, although others use varied materials such as a flat crepe bag piped with leather, an antelope bag piped with patent leather, &c. One of the loveliest bags I saw in antelope used piping alternating with cut-out designs over moire—the whole a deep brown.

And the most popular materials that I saw were brown alligator, black antelope, black, brown or dark green moire, this latter often elaborately embroidered in beauvais or modernistic designs. All of the bags, too, in their careful workmanship and exquisite detail are things that will make their possessors both proud and happy!

When is a beret not a beret? When it's as cute as the one I have sketched for you today.

Corrective Brassiere.

Doesn't it sound awful—elastic and whalebones and what not? But it isn't, believe me it is not—quite the contrary. It is delightfully dainty and entirely launderable as a dainty piece of lingerie should be for a lovely lady.

Not only that, but once you know how to make it you will always know! And you can learn how to make it from the illustrated leaflet which we made for you this week, which tells, in simple technical terms that any one can follow, just how to make it, and a dainty evening brassiere besides. So better send your stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to the Dare Department of The Washington Post right away!

* * * *

What's this we see strolling smartly down the Avenue des Champs-Elysees before us this bright and sparkling morning—a booful lady in a suit, or is it a coat? 'N' until you get very near to this Joseph Paquin coat it is hard to tell—thanks to the little peplum that stands out so jauntily at the hip line. The coat is developed in heavy black cloth, and trimmed with a really beautiful collar and cuffs of mink. This is snugly belted in with a leather belt and has pockets with big flaps that follow the line of the peplum—and that so-new combination of fabric and fur on the cuffs. Well-l-l-l, it was worth my intensive scrutiny, wasn't it?

* * * *

And now for that matter of Dare's weekly fashion letter. Make it a point to look for it in each Sunday's Washington Post.

Au revoir!

YOUR NAME — WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph. D.

The family name "Gladstone" is especially common in Scotland. It is of English origin, its source being the old English "glida-stan" meaning "the kite-rocks." It implies an original place or residence near rocks which were frequented by such birds of prey as kites and falcons. A certain Johannes Gledstanis is mentioned in a document of the year 1497.

The family name "Spooner" is the modern form of the middle English "Sponer," and its full significance is "he who makes spoons." It will be recalled that the making of spoons was especially important during the thirteenth century, when family names began to be hereditary, because forks were not then in use in England. This name appears to be first recorded in the year 1379, at which time the common spelling were "Sponer" and "Spuner."

The family name "Hazeltine" is found with an unusually large number of variations, of which some of the commonest are "Haselline," "Haselden," "Heaseldon" and "Hazeldine." It is derived from the old English "haeseldenu," meaning "hazel-hollow," and it was first applied to persons who lived at or near a valley in which hazel trees grew. A certain Adam de Haseldene and a Jeppe de Hesilden are mentioned in an English record of the year 1379.

The family name "Sprague" (also spelled "Spragg") is rather common in England, but it is ultimately of Scandinavian origin. It means "lively," "quick," and "alert," and was first given as a nickname. A certain William Sprak is mentioned in an English document of the year 1327.

The family name "Gehringer" is of German origin. It is based on the old personal name "Gero," and its full significance is "the son of the spear or lance."

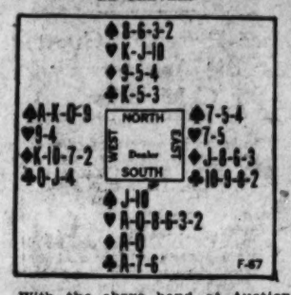
WORK ON BRIDGE

A CHANCE FOR BOTH SIDES TO BE CLEVER.



With the above hand at Auction Bridge, South would bid one Heart, West one Spade, North (probably) two Hearts, and that would end the auction. If North did not bid two Hearts, of course South would do so. If West doubled instead of bidding one Spade, East (if North did not interpose a shut-out two Heart bid) would bid two Diamonds, South would bid two Hearts, and whether or not three Diamonds were bid would be immaterial as South and North would carry the declaration as far as four Hearts. East and West could make only two Diamonds.

At Contract the bidding probably would be: South two Hearts, North three Hearts, South four Hearts. The chances are that West would not bid over the strong hand that South's bid of two would announce.

In the play West would lead three rounds of Spades, South trumping the third. Declarer then would draw the adverse trumps in two rounds; and if he then took the Diamond finesse he would lose one Diamond, one Club and two Spades. On the other hand, if North led a Spade after the adverse trumps were exhausted, and South ruffed, Declarer then could win two rounds of Clubs; and after that should lead a third round of Clubs. If West won the third Club, as in this hand would be probable, he would be obliged to lead up to South's Ace-Queen of Diamonds.

West would have the chance to make a very clever play by letting go his Queen and Jack of Clubs on Declarer's Ace and King; then the third Club trick would be won by East who would lead through South's Diamonds instead of West's being compelled to lead up to them.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

Oh, Horrors!

ALL the crabby old bachelors will just love the letter that we offer here today. They do so love to sharpen their knives and go out after poor woman. In their jaundiced eyes she has no virtues and few excuses for living. To them she is something less than a necessary evil—being not even necessary!

The particularly sour soul who took pen in hand today to enlighten a palpitating world has discovered a new virtue in make-up. Read and laugh!

Dear Frances McDonald: Your findings on the subject of make-up are like most of your pronouncements—new evidence of your uncanny powers of observation, if not of unusual personal experience. You state that men simply do not know make-up when they see it, that they demand a certain effect which to them is feminine, that they even insist upon this effect and care not or know not how it may be produced. Right you are. And there is another reason why woman owes it to man to learn how to produce this much-desired effect.

Men find few attractions in woman other than the surface ones produced by cosmetics, curling irons and dressmakers. Men seek other men for their character, intelligence, loyalty, truth or courage, and they seldom change or tire of their friends. When thrown with women they speedily discover that here are to be found neither intelligence, inspiration, integrity nor any other virtue on which to pin any lasting regard. In fact, they find deceit, dishonesty, disloyalty, selfishness and every quality they have been taught to loathe in a man. But, being men, they realize that woman is what she is and nothing can be done about her. They therefore try to discover in her some offsetting virtue or, rather, attraction, and they find only the questionable one of physical lure. Her skin is soft and smooth to the touch. What if it is some certain brand of cream that makes it so? It entices, and that is enough. Her appearance satisfies his sense of the esthetic, even as her dishonesty shocks that same sense. So he thinks of her appearance rather than her integrity. And that is where the crime of the shiny nose really comes in. A woman can not be a companion to man. So she at least owes it to him to be what she can—something to look at without a shudder.

Keep after the dear ones to justify their existence. They are not necessary, you know. So, being luxuries, let them look it. And who cares how they accomplish the one end that seems to justify their presence wherever man goes?

OBSERVER.

What Today Means to You

"CAPRICORN."

IF January 15 is your birthday the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. to 11:15 a. m., from 3 p. m. to 4 p. m. and from 10:30 p. m. to midnight. The danger periods are from noon to 1:30 p. m. and from 8 p. m. to 9 p. m.

In the astrological picture for January 15 there are shown difficulties with those closely associated with you, either by family ties or otherwise, and a possible estrangement. An adverse period, if you indulge in impulsive speculations or rash investments. Evening hours auspicious for entertainment.

Children born on this January 15 will need to be checked with a tight rein, as they will stubbornly persist in having their own way—which will not be along sane or sensible lines. They will want to live for a good time, excitement, and whatever glory they can obtain. They will have good minds, if they can learn to use them.

You join the ranks of those who from the beginning of time have been able to go their own way. Laws and religions are impotent to alter or to completely control you. You are not overly grateful; are, at heart, selfish, demanding and grasping; but in spite of these self-centered traits, the world is at your beck and call—it can not escape the tyranny of your personality. You are sweet and kind one day and hard and brutal the next. That unknown factor "good luck" will follow you throughout your days.

You have twice the brains, four times the imagination, and one-half the balance which the average normal being has. If your imagination were not so acute, and your emotional self were more stable, your chances of permanent success would be greater. You will never experience serene contentment, or simple, lasting happiness; you will, however, get what you are looking for—many thrills. You have plenty of courage, but it is not always accompanied by common sense, and you will make many irretrievable, if not unspeakable, blunders—socially and in business. You expect others to suffer your moods gladly, but you never try to understand the moods of others. You expect others to be chronically sunny—reserving the psvilege for yourself only to be in the dumps. You have extravagant ideas about a home, and, if possible, you will be the hub, around which the others revolve.

Successful people born January 15:

Philip Livingston, stateman.

Marshall Lefferts, soldier and electrician.

Constance F. Runcie, composer.

Horatio W. Dresser, metaphysician.

Moliere, French dramatist.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE.

Inconvenient Play.

Nancy, aged 5, likes to cut designs out of colored paper. It keeps her busy and happy on many an afternoon when it is impossible to play out of doors.

She has learned to use her scissors with considerable delicacy and skill, and is delighted by the various and often very pretty results of her folding and cutting.

Unfortunately, however, the hundreds of tiny slips of paper that strew the floor cause her mother a good deal of work, for they are too many and too tiny for a 5-year-old to pick up without help.

It seemed as if paper cutting on a large scale was really too inconvenient a form of play to be carried on in the family living room and would have to be relegated to kindergarten along with clay modeling, until mother thought of spreading newspapers over an area of about 4 square feet of the floor.

Seated in the middle of the papers, Nancy continued to cut to her heart's content while the resulting disorder could be cleared away in a moment.

There are all sorts of things that children like to do at home which are forbidden because they cause inconvenience to their elders, especially in cramped apartment living. Often it takes no more thought and imagination than that necessary to think of spreading papers to avoid a lengthy cleaning up process.

A little extra training in orderliness, a pair of overalls or a big apron, an old cloth thrown over the living room table to prevent it from becoming scratched, often make possible many kinds of play and handiwork that would otherwise either cause mother considerable extra work or be forbidden altogether.

Class to Portray History.

A miniature outline of history, through a series of playlets, will be offered by the sixth grade history class of the Brightwood Elementary School at the morning assembly tomorrow, Mrs. E. K Peoples, principal of the school, announced yesterday.

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

AM inclosing a plant whose stems and leaves are covered with a flourlike substance; also brown scale. What can this be? I am fearful lest it attack my evergreens.

MRS. GEORGE C. R.

It is a combination of mildew and scale. Better spray the plant with bordeaux mixture at once and repeat the spraying before growth starts in the spring.

Please tell me the name of the inclosed grass and where its seed may be obtained. This grass soon makes a smooth, matlike covering which requires much less care than ordinary grass. Also, how can I cause an improvement in coloring? It is at present more brown than green. Also mention a species of grass which will grow in a sandy, wet and shady place.

JOHN N. S.

The specimen you inclosed is a weed, and a very obnoxious one. It will ruin the finest grass plot in less than one season. It is never green, but always brown and unsightly. Better uproot it and sow a good grade of grass seed. For wet, shady places I should advise Canada blue grass, creeping bent, wood meadow grass and the rough-stalked meadow grass. In such a location better use plenty of bonemeal.

Will you kindly tell me your opinion of the inclosed leaves. Have they been sprayed with gasoline or any other injurious substance? They are from a privet hedge.

INTERESTED.

It is, I feel sure, just a case of their going into sear leaf, which is natural at this season.

Please tell me whether celery and parsley can be left in the ground in winter without being winter-killed. Please tell me if the plant from which the inclosed leaf and flower were taken is hardy.

MRS. H. M.

Parsley and celery are neither of them hardy. The plant from which the flower and leaf were taken is pyrethrum, a hardy perennial.

I planted some wallflower seed in the spring and now I would like to know how to keep them in winter. Would you advise planting them in a window-box in the house or shall I leave them in the open?

MISS MARGARET McC.

It all depends on the variety of wallflower you have. If it is cheiranthus, it can be left outdoors, but should be given a mulch of well-rotted manure. This variety is a biennial. Early Paris market or bronze king are half-hardy perennials which should be protected in a cold frame in winter.

Will you please tell me why my dahlias do not bloom? For the last two years I have had beautiful foliage but no flowers. I do not care to store them again if they will not flower.

MRS. M. H.

As you have told me nothing about the conditions under which you were growing your dahlias, I can not tell you where you made a mistake, but I can say that overfertilizing them with manure or other nitrogen fertilizer is frequently responsible for a lack of bloom. Too-early planting, when the soil is cold, is another reason why dahlias fail to bloom. Certain regions of the country are not especially adapted to raising fine dahlias.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

(Bureau of Animal Industry.)

For the saddle roast, select a loin weighing about six pounds. Wipe it was a damp cloth, sprinkle with salt and pepper and dust with flour. Place the roast on a rack in an open pan without water in an oven heated to 480 degrees Fahrenheit. Sear for 30 minutes. Reduce the oven temperature to 300 degrees Fahrenheit and continue to cook in an open pan and without water until the meat is done. The total time required for a saddle weighting six to seven pounds will be from two and one-half to three hours when these oven temperatures are used.

Savory Brown Gravy.

Pour the excess fat from the pan dripping. Mix one to two or three tablespoons of flour with the drippings remaining in the pan; let brown; gradually stir in one and one-half to two cups of cold water and cook until smooth. Add salt and pepper and two tablespoons of chopped parsley or celery leaves which have been fried in a small amount of butter until crisp.

Mint Sause.

½ cup of water
½ cup of vinegar
1½ tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons fresh chopped mint leaves
½ teaspon salt

Mix the water, vinegar, sugar and salt; bring to the boiling point. Remove from the fire, add the chopped mint leaves and allow the sauce to stand for three or four hours before serving.

The Life Story of Gen. Wood

By HERMANN HAGEDORN

CHAPTER XII.

Something obviously other than logic and a passion for efficient organization lay behind the querulous and peremptory orders of Gen. Brooke in Havana to Gen. Wood in Santiago. Brooke and the officers of the line who were his assistants were looking sourly through green spectacles at this medico in Santiago who had for half a year revelled in glorious and unhampered autocracy. Wherever they turned they heard Wood's praises sung. Wood was the miracle-worker whom day and night they were adjured to emulate. Wood's methods of sanitation, Wood's manner of handling the Cubans were held up before them. Editors drew invidious comparisons between Brooke's tactlessness and the skill with which Wood had handled difficult situations. Some went so far as to hint that the little man was where the big man ought to be: hinting it finally so vigorously that Alger was forced to explain publicly that the seniority rule made Wood ineligible for the governor-generalship; whereupon The Outlook and other papers paid their compliments to that ancient fetish. The public had taken Wood to its bosom in a last flowering of the romantic mood which Cuba had awakened and could not sustain. Brooke, who had felt the lash for his administration of the training camp at Chickamauga, loved Wood as schoolboys love the paragon who is the teacher's pet; and was determined to put him in his place.

Wood Subject to Cabinet.

Brooke's strength was his sympathy for the down-trodden people he had been sent to rule; his weakness was his deliberate tempo and a purely mechanical conception of his obligation to train the Cubans for the responsibilities of government. Wood wrestled with his Cubans, traveled from town to town, conferred with their leaders, advised, preached, adjured; but Brooke felt he had done his duty when he gave the Cubans authority. The autocratic power which the President had conferred on him he delegated in effect to the Cuban chiefs of the four administrative departments who constituted his cabinet. They were shrewd men, typical Central American politicians who had been ardent revolutionists but had no zeal for reform. They made no move to revise the iniquitous legal procedure which was their heritage from Spain; rather they took advantage of it and used it, like the Spaniards, for their own ends.

Wood found shortly that he was subject, not only to Brooke but to Brooke's cabinet. They made the appointments and no protest to Brooke counted against the decision of one of his secretaries.

"I am kept extremely busy doing all I can to preserve order and harmony in this part of the island," Wood wrote Roosevelt in February. "The new order of things in Havana is not conducive to such conditions here. However, the future is ahead and I have no doubt time will present some solution of the difficulty."

Found Legal Procedure Defective.

He fought for it daringly in the open, providing, incidentally, the only answer possible to the suggestion that Wood's testimony before the Dodge Commission had been colored by his fear of offending his superiors. The red tape involved in the suspension of any provincial official was, he wrote in March, in a special report to the War Department, "disastrous in its effect, inasmuch as it leaves the authority of the military commander in contempt." The system of taxation, he declared, was simply the old Spanish system modified in detail, but preserving the vices and defects inherent in it from the beginning. The legal procedure under the Spanish law, reestablished by the central government, was "radically defective * * * slow, cumbersome and expensive," and in it lay "the most immediate and pressing need for reform and improvement."

What Brooke thought of these public and official comments by a subordinate is expressible only in terms of asterisks and exclamation points.

Receives Good Offer.

In May, 1899, Wood received the following cablegram from an American financier named Pearson:

"Am authorized by company which has consolidated street railways and light companies of Washington to tender you presidency of company, $20,000 salary, five-year contract; answer whether you would consider proposition favorable if time of assuming position can be arranged to suit your convenience."

The offer was alluring. As major general of volunteers Wood was receiving $5,500 a year. But the President would not hear of his accepting the traction company's offer. His future in the Army, McKinley told him, need cause him no anxiety.

An epidemic of yellow fever which broke out while Wood was in the United States deepened his determination not to leave his task half completed. To reporters who heard his decision, he added, "Money is not the only thing in the world." He said it with entire sincerity. In his case certainly the dominant elements of his character, only occasionally in conflict—ambition and the passion for the job—were promising him rewards beyond anything money could buy. He had a sense of duty, moreover, which was unaffected and compelling. The newspapers rang the changes on his ambiguous truism and gave him the accolade.

Praised by Newspapers.

His decision was to cut short his vacation and to return to a city in the grip of the most terrifying of plagues, deepened for the average man the glamour which lay about this vital, romantic yet somehow remote figure. "The Nation should be proud of a man like that," a hundred newspapers said in varying terms.

During a visit to the United States shortly after Wood was given clearly to understand in the War Department that it would be advisable for him to accept the offer, since, of course, he had no future in the military service.

It was considered smart in the department to refer to Wood as "Dr. Wood."

When Wood handled the epidemic with characteristic vigor, permitting no trains to enter the city, no ships to touch at the wharves. He sent American troops to the hills, closed the leading hotels and every saloon, seized the American indigents and tramps, had them washed and disinfected and placed them on a steamer anchored in the harbor. In order to facilitate the movement of nonimmunes to the hill country, he began the construction of a highway.

"Your determination to go South during fight yellow fever, involving the declination of the offer you received today," wrote Charles G. Dawes, "earns you what, after all, is the highest reward in the world—the sincere admiration and affection of your fellow citizens."

Wood's chief at Havana saw the matter differently. Late in July Brooke sent Wood, through virtually public channels, a telegram, not in cipher, which told him and incidentally some dozen or more clerks and enlisted men of the Signal Corps, exactly what his superior thought of him.

"Your estimate for August is wrong and can not be allowed. You must submit estimates for each disbursing officer in your department or forward here his estimates * * *. The haphazard methods heretofore existing in this matter must cease instantly. Public instructions have been distributed everywhere and must be observed * * * We will not make roads at this season of the year; folly too great. * * * You must see that every economy is observed. Allotment of funds to your department will be held up till estimates are received here in accordance with this dispatch."

Wood Protests to Washington.

"I deny every statement therein reflecting on my official acts and specifically those qualified as haphazard methods, great folly building roads at this season, rendering for six months accounts that are a disgrace to the Army. The accusations and imputations contained therein as to my official acts are of such nature that under provision 115, articles of war, I demand court of inquiry to examine into methods observed in this department of estimating for and expending funds, necessity and propriety of all public works undertaken, economy of administration and character of accounts rendered. Division commander having made accusations and imputations referred to, this demand is submitted for consideration of Secretary of War."

Under pressure, Brooke admitted that possibly the words "haphazard methods heretofore existing," "folly too great," and "accounts for last six months a disgrace to the Army," might have been a bit strong. The fact was that Wood's accounts were subsequently examined by an official auditor and found absolutely correct. As for a court of inquiry, Brooke did not consider that it was "necessary or desirable."

Meanwhile conditions in Cuba reflected with disturbing accuracy the mind of its chief governor. There had been notable achievements, but the courts, the police, were still corrupt and inefficient; the judicial procedure was unreformed; the public offices were filled with political appointees, largely unworthy. Nothing had been done to develop education. Almost every abuse that Cubans had rebelled against and Americans had denounced was, in fact, flourishing, and flourishing with American sanction.

Brooke, it seemed to Wood, was making a fundamental mistake in permitting the Cubans to believe that they were capable already of exercising the functions of government without supervision. Wood was convinced that self-government by decree was an illusion. The opportunity might be granted, the technique might be taught, the civic mind might be developed, but the thing itself had to be achieved. One had to move slowly from point to point, with both feet on the solid ground, hoping everything, assuming nothing.

Cuban Cabinet Plays Politics.

Whether Cuba became independent or voluntarily attached herself to the United States, honor and interest alike demanded intelligent administration so long as the United States was in the position of a trustee in Cuba. But Brooke's Cuban cabinet were playing politics day and night. Wood felt acutely the gradual disintegration of much that he had achieved.

"Things are in a bad way," he wrote Mrs. Wood August 15, "and officials are rapidly drifting back to old ways. I am doing what I can, but no one man's personal influence can hold up this outfit. It seems an awful pity that we should throw away every opportunity here and fail as a people when success can so easily be gained."

The American public, meanwhile, was becoming conscious that things were not as they should be in Cuba. Elihu Root, who had succeeded Alger as Secretary of War, already had a lively insurrection in the Philippines on his hands, and watched the progress of events in Cuba with inner trepidation, never opening his newspaper at the breakfast table without the dread of finding on the front page the report that the Cubans had taken to the woods. That would have meant the ignoble end of America's adventure in altruism, with the Cubans fighting not the Spaniards but the Americans for liberty.

Root decided that it was too unsafe to leave Brooke in command of a situation which he could not grasp. He sent for Brooke and was convinced of what he had suspected—Brooke was an upright old soldier, but he was no executive at all, and he had in him not a trace of the reformer. He sent for Gen. Ludlow also and for Gen. Fitzhugh Lee. Ludlow had made a brilliant record as Governor of the City of Havana; Lee, genial, easy going, had done admirably as Governor of Havana Province. Finally, late in November, he sent for Wood.

Root Summons Wood.

Brooke, Ludlow, Lee, Wood. One after the other the governors passed before Root's penetrating eyes and revealed themselves to him. There was much of the great Romans in Root—the crystalline mind, the aggressive will, the creative force in law and government; the deliberate courage, the ruthless determination, the practical vision, the proud anger. He had, too, the gift of compact, chiseled speech. One had the feeling that if destiny had made him a Roman emperor he might have been one of the greatest. He was a Hamiltonian in his conception of republican institutions; only imperfectly acclimated to democracy and barely tolerant of its inefficiency and its rabble; an aristocrat, kindly, witty, realistic, solitary, serene. He reduced his governors to the proportions in which the angels saw them.

Brooke, Ludlow, Lee, all told him how Cuba should be governed. Wood inquired how the President and his Secretary of War wanted it governed. The contrast appealed to Root. He needed a man who had a mind of his own, but it had to be a mind able to subordinate itself to a policy. Beyond that, Wood struck him, above the others, as dynamic, far-seeing and capable of coping with the tangled condition of affairs in Cuba. The fact that Wood was a doctor carried weight with him; it was important to him that sanitation and hygiene had loomed large in Wood's life. He wanted a man who could, in the deepest sense, "clean up Cuba." He needed a man of imagination, moreover. Men steeped in a military administration had a tendency, he noted, "to look upon government with legalistic minds."

In the midst of the Secretary's researches, the Cuban question suddenly became acute. Rumors became current that the administration proposed establishing a civil government in place of the military. The Cubans, taking counsel of their fears, decided that civil government by the Americans meant permanent occupation. A revolt threatened. What was to be done?

Wood was convinced that what was needed in Cuba was not "puerile intermeddling" but "firm and dignified control," and advised keeping the government military but taking a large part of the army away. The idea was accepted, the Cubans calmed down and the administration breathed once more.

To the public it now seemed clear that Wood was to be the new Governor of Cuba. The American and the Cuban press alike approved, but behind the scenes a bitter struggle was going on. Brooke's friends—all the older officers, in fact, who resented Wood's swift advance—fought his appointment, with clumsy cunning, dangling the post of surgeon general of the Army before his eyes. The "Army people" were, in fact, "stirred to the depth" and "almost hysterical" in their opposition. To advance this "mere doctor" over brigadiers in the regular establishment was "monstrous."

With unexpected courage McKinley pursued the intention he had cherished for six months or more. On December 15, 1899, Gen. Wood was appointed Military Governor of Cuba.

To friends who congratulated him on his appointment he said: "Wait a year." To a correspondent he added, "Success in Cuba is so easy that it would be a crime to fail."

Fifth Ave. Fashions

NEW YORK

A marvelous apron that will come in so useful for the holiday season, is today's model.

Tea-time smartness perfectly expresses this dainty apron. It is in exquisite peach organdie with piping in soft cocoa brown shade. The berufflled skirt is fetching with striking contrast in printed organdie in soft brown and green tones on matching peach ground.

It's easily made! It takes but 1¼ yards of 32-inch material with ½ yard of 32-inch contrasting and 3½ yards of binding.

Style No. C-791 may be had in small, medium and large sizes.

Dimity, batiste, chintz, net and voile are attractive suggestions for its development.

Hollywood Screen Life

By HUBBARD KEAVY.

Hollywood—Providing doubles is one of the best things Hollywood does. Doubles for kings and queens, doubles for Lindbergh or Prof. Einstein, can be found by casting directors somewhere in Hollywood, they say.

RICHARD ARLEN

Recently a director needed doubles for Mr and Mrs. Herbert Hoover, for an inaugural ball scene in "The Fire of Youth." Sixteen doubles—some good, others not so hot—for Mr. Hoover answered the call.

The one chosen was Tom Jensen, a policeman who walks a beat nightly in Hollywood. He was provided with a "Mrs. Hoover" in the person of Jessie Perry, a character actress.

Hollywood logic: Gangster stories are popular and westerns are too, so a combination of the two themes should make a doubly fine picture. Gangsters and cowboys meet and fight it out in a new one starring Richard Arlen, appropriately called "Gun Smoke."

"One-Eyed" Tries Work.

One-Eyed Connelly, worlds only professional gate crasher, lacking any major fistic battles to attend at present, is cleaning up at Universal City. His cleaning up is not figurative, for he has a job sweeping floors.

Just to maintain his reputation, he crashes the gate every morning without showing his studio workpass. Various difficulties with blue-coated officials have proved an annoyance to Mr. Connelly at times in the last few months, resulting in board and lodging in one of the city's most imposing structures.

No Room For "Flies."

A current song, "Never Swatta Fly," as popular as "Horses" and "Bananas" once were, and about as sensible, was taken out of the picture it was written for in many cities.

"Just Imagine" was too long for some theaters' programs, so the song about the love-life of the fly was eliminated, being only incidental.

After an absence from the screen of more than six months, Mary Nolan is returning to pictures in "The Up and Up." Illness has kept her away.

Miss Nolan probably is one of the most beautiful of women on the screen, and by far the most temperamental. She has something of the genius and the temperament of the late Jeanne Eagels. She is highly emotional and a strong individual.

MANCHURIA'S HEAD MAY LEAD REVOLT

OTHER RUMORS DIFFER

Peiping, China, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Contradictory reports were circulated today that Chang Hsueh-Liang, 30-year-old governor of Manchuria, was merging his virtually independent realm with the remainder of China and that he was planning consolidation of north China factions for rebellion against the Nationalist government.

A break up of Manchurian political solidarity built during many years by his father, Chang Tso-Lin, bandit who became war lord, was believed possible by observers here. They pointed to the conferences at Tientsin betwween Chang Hsueh-Liang, and Nationalist government officials seeking unification of national finances.

Chinese press reports, which could not be verified, asserted Chang Hsueh-Liang planned to turn over control of Manchuria to Chang Tso-Hsiang, governor of Kirin, one of its provinces.

These reports were widely interpreted as indicating Chang Hseuh-Liang was dickering with the Nationalist government.

Chang Hsueh-Liang, it was reported, will establish himself in Peiping with the high sounding title of vice generalissimo of Nationalist government forces, but with influence actually limited to north and northwest China.

If Chang Hsueh-Liang establishes headquarters in Peiping, political observers say either he will be a valuable acquisition to the Nationalist government leaders, or become head of an independent government menacing them with civil war next spring or summer.

Padlocks Menace Gasoline Stations

Virginia Judge Will Seize Places Where Owners Violate Law.

Special to The Washington Post.

Fredericksburg, Va., Jan. 14.—Judge Frederick W. Coleman, from the Stafford County Circuit Court bench threatened padlock proceedings in the future against gasoline stations whose owners are convicted of violating the dry law. The utterance came after a special grand jury indicted W. H. Shaw, missing owner of Highway Garage, at Wayside, on a liquor charge.

The garage recently was the scene of a shooting when Ashby Brooks, an attendant, left in charge by Shaw when he went to Washington, is alleged to have fired a bullet into the chest of Frazier Griffis, 23, a young farmer, seriously wounding him. The special grand jury indicted Brooks on two counts of felony for the shooting and one of misdemeanor for carrying a weapon.

Following the indicting of Shaw, Judge Coleman turned to the spectators in the courtroom and said: "If you want to forfeit your property, then sell liquor."

Missing Official Reported in Ohio

Father Leaves at Once for Point Where Son, Deputy Treasurer, Is.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Jan. 14.—C. L. Carter, living near Scottsville, father of Emmet L. Carter, deputy treasurer, missing since January 3, was notified last night that his son is in Ironton, Ohio, according to a telegram he received. He left immediately for Ohio.

County Treasurer G. Stuart Hamm is awaiting a message of explanation. Prior to his disappearance the younger man was engaged in official work with Hamm and was in Charlottesville on the night before his disappearance.

Although the bonding company has not completed an investigation of Carter's accounts, Treasurer Hamm has stated he is confident they will be found in good order.

Fear Entertained For Missing Man

Hagerstown Police Believe Athletics Director Has Been Waylaid.

Special to The Washington Post.

Hagerstown, Md., Jan. 14.—Belief that Paul E. Davis, 26, athletic director of the Pennsylvania State Forest School at Mont Alto, had met with foul play here was expressed today by the authorities, who are taking up the trail where it was dropped yesterday.

Morton H. Coupe, of the school faculty, returned from Philadelphia, where he went to see an amnesia sufferer. He was not Davis, said Coupe.

Davis' automobile was found parked in the business section here last Friday night. He disappeared from the school last Wednesday afternoon and has not been seen since. Students say the director had threatened to take his life.

Man Shoots Wife; Nerves Get Blame

Husband Fires on "Robbers" as Woman Walks to Calm Self.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Jan. 14 (A.P.). There were two cases of nerves in the home of Clarence Schimel last night and, as a result, Mrs. Schimel got a charge of buckshot in the side of the face, which probably didn't help her case any.

Schimel awakened during the night and heard a noise. He called out and there was no reply. Burglars, thought Schimel, and seized his shotgun. He fired in the direction from which the noise came.

A few minutes later they were hurrying Mrs. Schimel to a hospital. She explained it was she who made the noise, having been walking about to quiet her nerves. She left the hospital after receiving emergency treatment.

Behind the Screens

With NELSON B. BELL

THE mail has recently been full of powerful pieces relating in most glowing terms to the dramatic heights—both literally and figuratively—and the pretentious proportions attained by "Dirigible," a forthcoming Columbia Pictures release. From the time the barage was first laid down, it has been my supposition that this was the story authored by John Monk Saunders, whose "Wings" was the first of a numerous succession of epics of the air, but it seems not.

When Mr. Saunders was in Washington attending the Paramount Eastern sales convention at the Hotel Carlton three years ago, it was difficult to keep him from boiling over in his enthusiasm concerning the new idea which he was positive would incubate into a more astounding picture than either "Wings" or "The Legion of the Condemned." A few months later when Mr. Saunders was at the Mayflower, honeymooning with his bride, known to the screen as Fay Wray, he was still contacting the Navy Department and the newspaper writers on the matter of "Dirigible." That was about the last that was heard of the gas bag idea until Columbia began ballyhooing the title all over the place. But theirs is not the same "Dirigible," according to authentic advices.

The "Dirigible" for which Columbia has gone overboard is an adaptation of an original story by Commander Frank Wilbur Wead, U. S. N., retired.

Commander Wead was at one time one of the Navy's crack fliers and twice captained victorious Schneider Cup teams. An injury forced his retirement, since which time he has devoted his major interest to writing. "Dirigible" is his latest effort and is said to be his most pretentious.

It would still be interesting to know what became of Mr. Saunders' "Dirigible," which was scheduled for production by Paramount on the 1928-29 program and had Jesse L. Lasky as maudlin as its author when both were here on that Eastern Sanhedrim.

Mons. Lucien Leumas, the cherubic Parisian journalist who not so long ago vastly excited this department over the manifold superiorities of "Under the Roofs of Paris," still packing them in at the Little Carnegie Playhouse in New York, was again a visitor this early week, en route to Hollywood, where he is to lay bare the foibles, follies and fol-de-rols of the motion picture colony for the delectation of those 50,000,000 Frenchmen.

Mons. Leumas is afraid he is going to have a very swell time and gosh, how he dreads it!

While Ed Wynn, star of "Follow the Leader," next week's film attraction at the Palace, has never been what you might call prevalent in the celluloids, he does lay claim to a place among the pioneer broadcasters of the stage. Back in 1922, he broadcasted a reasonably complete performance of "The Perfect Fool," his then current vehicle, and aroused no little clamor, you may be sure, as the forerunner of a new era in entertainment over the air.

That particular era seems to have been sidetracked with complete and devastating efficiency. This information comes to you through the courtesy of the Cast Iron Oyster Cracker Company of Weekawken, manufacturers of Maxim silencers for heavy service soup spoons!

Since Tallulah Bankhead, the blonde native who went British for eight years, is currently in the news as a recent arrival in what she probably does not describe as "this my own, my native land," it may be of interest to know that the first talking picture in which she will appear, "New York Love," will be shown in Washington at the Fox Theater, according to announcement just made by Managing Director Meakin. It will be a Paramount production and is said to have been the reason of Miss Bankhead's having become repatriated.

Incidentally, "The Man Who Came Back," the picturized stage play in which Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell are smashing all attendance records at the Roxy Theater in New York, will open an indefinite engagement at the Fox on Friday, January 30.

Having recently—since the Christmas holidays, as a matter of fact—adopted Friday as the opening day of their new bills, the executives of the local RKO-Keith Theater, beginning next week, will carry the idea one step farther.

On and after a week from tonight, Thursday, January 22, the new programs at the Fifteenth street house will be inaugurated at the 9 o'clock performance each Thursday night—unless an appreciable antipathy toward such an arrangement is manifested by the cash customers. This has been tried experimentally once or twice before, but this time is to be tested as a regular house policy.

It is not pleasant to report that Mrs. Michael J. Cullen, the former Hazelle Jennings, of the Ziegfeld forces, wife of the managing director of the Loew interests in this city, is acutely ill with a sudden attack of appendicitis. Mrs. Cullen, as any of her friends will testify, is too vibrant a personality to be so perpetually pursued by so persistent a jinx.

While the clinic is in session, it may be remarked that that wallop in the back sustained by Ace Berry the Sunday night before Christmas, when his taxicab went berserk, was in its every essential element a wallop in the back.

The regional director for Radio-Keith-Orpheum in the Washington territory is just now beginning to totter around his room on crutches and is still a long way from a trip to his office in the Albee Building.

Yes, sir; quite a sock!

For your ready reference, next week's bookings in the downtown sector are as follows: RKO-Keith's, Mary Astor and Lowell Sherman in "The Royal Bed;" Rialto, Mary Duncan, Ian Keith and Betty Compson in "The Boudoir Diplomat;" Palace, Ed Wynn in "Follow the Leader" and "Monkey Shines" stage unit; Earle, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and E. G. Robinson in "Young Caesar," and vaudeville; Fox, Dorothy Mackaill and Joel McCrea in "Once a Sinner" and "Green Devil" stage revue; Columbia, Ruth Chatterton and Paul Lukas in "The Right to Love," second week; Metropolitan, Otis Skinner in "Kismet," and June Walker in "War Nurse."

A surprise party was perpetrated upon Tom Olsen, the retiring publicist of the Fox Theater, who has departed for his native Seattle to assume the managing directorship of the Fox Fifth Avenue Theater in that city, by the staff of the Fox last night by way of farewell.

Wholly—or thereabouts—unaware that anything was in either the wind or the ice-box, Mr. Olsen hastened to the apartment he shared with Jack Hurford in the Park Lane, preparatory to packing his overnight bag, and there stumbled into his undoing—or thereabouts.

From 11 p. m. to 1:30 a. m., the occasion was what you might call practically gala. At the later—or earlier, as the case may be—hour Mr. Olsen was escorted to the 2:10 train for the West and gently poured into his upper. By now the lad has probably turned over and really put his mind to doing some real sleeping.

Happy landing, Tella.

Just to give you the shudders, the apartment in the Park Lane was 219, if that means anything to you with this Limerick case going on.

And, speaking of such, I know now why they said a great deal "hinged" on what they found in that stove!

BANK SAFE BLASTED; YEGGS TAKE $2,500

Welding Device and Explosive Used by Robbers at Mount Solon, Va.

SUSPECTS ARE HUNTED

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., Jan. 14.—Augusta County officers had no definite clews tonight to the yeggman who early this morning blasted the vault of the Bank of Mount Solon, Inc., at Mount Solon, 15 miles northwest of here, and escaped with $2,500 in cash, Liberty bonds and securities left for safe keeping.

A stolen Chesapeake & Ohio Railway acetylene welding outfit was used in opening the look. Nitroglycerin then shattered the cabinet. Neighbors heard two dull explosions between 1 and 2:30 a. m.

The bank, a branch of the Planters Bank, of Staunton, reopened for business this afternoon. Cashier Zeb Miller said the loss was covered by insurance.

John B. Cochran, president of the Franklin National Bank, of Washington, is also head of the Planters and Mount Solon institutions.

Sheriff W. B. Wilson would like to question a man and woman who were at Mount Solon yesterday afternoon peddling. He is hunting two rough-looking men, who were trailed by Staunton police late at night.

In the loot was $1,500 in bonds of the F. H. Smith Co., of Washington. They were owned by Mrs. Gertrude Hopewell, railroad agent at Mount Solon, who discovered the robbery today.

G. U. Football Coach Heard by Rotarians

Thomas B. Mills, Georgetown University football coach, was the guest and speaker of the Washington Rotary Club at the weekly luncheon of the club yesterday.

He pointed out that football is the only college sport which makes money, and that the funds obtained defray the costs of all other sports in which the million students in American educational institutions engage. Successful athletes, he said, must have brains, initiative and the capacity to work.

OIL OIL OIL

THERE WAS A TIME when this country could have furnished enough meat to have fed the whole World.

That was when we had plenty of buffalo and they were easy to find and easy to kill.

Nobody can say that we were misers with buffaloes so long as we had them.

We killed them even though we could only use the hide, and sometimes we had to ship the hide a thousand miles and sell it for a dollar.

I don't know how long we could have supplied the World with buffalo meat but we could have done it for a few weeks or a few months, or possibly for a few years.

OUR OIL MAY GO LIKE OUR BUFFALOES

The same thing is true of oil today.

If we were to open up all of our wells, we could displace all of the other fuel of every kind used in the whole of the United States.

If we could run all of our oil and get it to the markets, we would ruin the coal business.

We would crucify the credit of the coal carrying railroads and this, in turn, would seriously injure the credit of all the railroads.

If we would drill up our proven oil lands as aggressively as we drilled up our oil lands in previous times, we could supply enough oil to displace all of the other fuel in the entire World.

I don't know how long we could supply the whole World with oil,—possibly only a few weeks, or a few months, or a few years, and then it would be a matter of past history like the buffalo.

But nobody will ever be able to say we have been misers with our oil either.

I have been trying for more than ten years to protect our oil against needless waste and reckless exhaustion.

ANOTHER MEETING OF THE GOVERNORS OF THE OIL PRODUCING STATES IS TO BE HELD TODAY

A meeting has been called for today in Washington of the Governors of the oil producing States. The people responsible for the protection of our oil resources have been "passing the buck" for many years and they probably intend to keep on doing it.

I will again try to tell the truth about oil and will again take the consequences for doing so.

Early in 1924, after more than five years of hard, unsuccessful work with the men of the Oil Industry, I laid the facts before our Federal Government.

After several months of quiet effort on the part of President Coolidge, he finally appointed the Federal Oil Conservation Board.

The Oil Industry was controlled by a few giant companies and could find spokesmen who could say what they wanted said from intermediate companies.

THE SPOKESMEN FOR THE OIL INDUSTRY HAVE SAID THERE IS NO WASTE OR OVER-PRODUCTION

These men were flattered to appear to be the leaders of the Industry and they said there was no waste or no over-production, and that our methods were all right and could not be improved.

They tried to prevent action on the part of the Government by saying that if our laws were changed so that our oil properties were handled as I recommended they should be, that gasoline could not be bought for fifty cents a gallon.

In spite of pressure brought on President Coolidge to prevent him from doing anything, he had the courage to issue his letter and appoint his Board.

His Board, however, found that they were lined up against millionaires, multi-millionaires and billionaires, and they have been compelled to play the soft pedal ever since.

THE WASTE OF OIL AND NATURAL GAS IS APPALLING

Perhaps there is no waste in all of the other businesses combined that equals the waste of the Oil Business.

What is called competition in an oil field is no more competition than is a run on a bank.

In fact a run on a bank is not as much "cut throat competition" as in an oil field because all the depositors are trying to get is their own money, and in an oil field the operators are trying to get not only their own oil but everybody else's oil.

STABILIZATION WAS NOT WANTED BY THE STRONGER OIL COMPANIES

We could not get stabilization in the Oil Business because the bigger and stronger companies did not want stabilization.

They could count the profits they made from the constantly recurring periods of distress when they could buy out first the little producer and then the little refiner at their own price.

OIL IS OUR MOST IMPORTANT MEANS OF NATIONAL DEFENSE

Oil is our most important munition of war.

Its exhaustion not only invites other nations to make war upon us but handicaps us in the conduct of war.

It would not require even the intellect of a child to know that the Federal Government possesses the necessary power to prevent the needless waste of oil, but the big oil companies had their lawyers say that the Federal Government had no such power, and when their own lawyers could not make a good enough case, they went out and hired outside lawyers to tell everybody the same story.

This kind of talk can silence children but should not silence grown up people very long.

WE ARE THE ONLY NATION THAT DOES NOT MAKE OIL A MATTER OF NATIONAL ACTIVITY

The chief object of the diplomacy of every other civilized Nation in the World is Oil, but our Nation simply "passes the buck" and wastes our resources.

I have talked on this subject for more than ten years and have said a great deal, and defy anyone to point to a single statement I have made that has not been true, and I defy anyone to point to a single statement that has been made in contradiction to what I have said, that has been true.

I have no fight with our Federal officials who have been afraid to take a firm stand on this oil matter, for I doubt if they would have gotten any place in a fight with a great line of Oil Barons, but the situation has now gotten so bad that many of these Oil Barons are themselves frightened and, I believe, now is the time to strike.

SALES SINK HEAVILY AS STOCKS IMPROVE

Rails and Coppers Assume Leadership in Slow Upward Move.

CUT IN CRUDE OIL PRICES

New York, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Stocks improved today, but the wheels of the market's machinery scarcely revolved, so small was the interest of either buyers or sellers. Sales of 1,276,345 shares were the smallest since December 3.

Bond trading also slowed as another large batch of new offerings was put into the investment hopper. Some observers found a connection between the listlessness of stocks and the sudden revival of bond financing, pointing out that the rapid digestion of the latter was important and that so substantial a volume could best be handled if the equity market remained calm.

The expected cuts in crude oil materialized, but attracted no attention marketwise. Steel reviews expressed conservative optimism, reporting that business in tin plate, rails and pipe had expanded backlogs but that general demand was still rather narrow. Two prominent companies, American Telephone and Reynolds Tobacco, contributed to the earnings news, the former with an estimate, the latter with final figures for 1930.

Reynolds' Net Sets Record.

Reynolds, Net, equal to $3.42 a share against $3.22 in 1929, set a record. Telephone's prospective return of $10.40 a share was in line with predictions and compared with 1929 earnings of $12.67 on about 3,000,000 fewer shares.

Slow selling in the morning was succeeded by a creeping upward movement which held to the close. Rails and coppers assumed the leadership, such as it was, with Anaconda, American Smelting and other metals up about a point in the late buying flurry.

Fractional net gains in U. S. Steel, Westinghouse, American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, North American, United Corp., General Electric and Union Carbide were shettered by Bethlehem Steel, American Can, Auburn Auto, Allied Chemical, Johns-Manville, Electric Power & Light, Sears Roebuck, Reynolds "B" and American Tobacco "B," which closed 1 to 1 1-2 higher. Authorization of a new rate structure on freight from Chicago, clearing through South Atlantic and Gulf ports, helped some of the rails, notably Illinois Central and Southern Railway, which rose 4 and 2, respectively. New York Central, Atchison and Southern Pacific gained a point.

The steel industry has now more than recovered the December losses in its seasonal upswing, but it is apparent that progress may be slow from this point. Nevertheless, the trade is still confident the trend is toward higher operating ratios.

Gain In Steel Operation.

Iron Age reported a 3 per cent rise in the week just passed, bringing the level close to 44 per cent. Inventory replenishment, said this publication, has thus far "failed to bring out a notable increase in specifications."

General Motors' December sales, well above those of the same month a year ago, were perhaps less interesting than the announcement that during 1930 the company's dealers had sold more cars to consumers than the dealers bought from the corporation. The reverse was true in 1929.

Easiness of money extended still further in term loans and rates on six months paper dropped, to 2 1-2 per cent, the lowest in 37 years. Renewed weakness of bar silver, which all but lost its recent gains, sent far Eastern exchange rates down. Europeans were moderately easy.

A 2 cent rally in the July future featured Chicago wheat. All months closed at least half a cent higher, reflecting in part a cold wave in the Southwest and bullish Government weather reports. Corn was unchanged to 3-4 up, while cotton gained 1 to 4 points.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Brisk upturns in wheat resulted today from crop dangers due to wintry temperatures and widespread lack of snow. July wheat, representing the 1931 crop, jumped almost 3 cents a bushel. Hoistings of bids by Government-backed agencies ready to take immediate delivery of wheat tended further to strengthen prices.

Wheat closed firm, 1½ to 2¾ cents advance; corn, ⅜ to ⅞ up; oats unchanged to ¼ higher, and provisions unchanged to 17 cents decline.

Greater general buying than witnessed before in weeks accompanied the wheat advance. Likelihood of a cold wave catching domestic winter wheat minus any snow blanket stirred the imagination of traders, and quickly developed a scarcity of offerings. Official reports showed that almost all United States winter wheat territory was bare of snow, and that there had been serious general moisture shortage, with farm board allies holding control of old crop deliveries. July appeared oversold in view of suggestions that farm board allies would at least temporarily keep the end-of-the-season carryover off the market after July 1.

Upturns by wheat here were in the face of sharp setbacks at Liverpool ascribed to weakness of Argentine exchange and to predictions of consequent increased pressure of Argentine wheat abroad. However, direct advices from Buenos Aires said the government would use its gold reserves immediately to support exchange rates. Drought reports from India continued, and it was confirmed that India had persistently been buying good sized quantities of wheat from Australia.

Corn and oats sympathized with wheat strength, but met with selling opposition. Minneapolis was reported offering corn for shipment to Chicago. The number of cattle on feed in corn belt States was announced as 10 per cent smaller than a year ago.

Provisions declined, responsive to setbacks in hog values.

EASE IN MONEY AIDS GOVERNMENTS' RISE

OIL ISSUES MOVE DOWN

New York, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—United States Government obligations responded to the extreme ease in money today, all issues rising while the rest of the bond market moved irregularly. Liberty fourth 4¼s reached a new high for the last two years in fairly active trading and the first 4¼s and Treasury 4s climbed ¼, an unusually large advance.

The market felt the affect of the general dullness in securities and the turnover was the smallest for a full session this year. Price movement on the whole was steadier than it has been since offering houses released the flow of new issues which for the week so far have approximated $230,000,000.

Price changes in the investment section were mostly fractional. Several railroad and utility issues that had yielded a little ground as the new bonds diverted attention of institutional buyers resumed their advance. It was sufficient to influence a small advance in the averages of 30 domestic bonds, the first upturn of the week.

Industrials and stock privilege issues were heavy. Richfield Oil 6s dipped 1½ points and Trumbull Steel 6s lost the same. Warner Brothers 6s, which have recovered 12 points from the 1930 low, reacted nearly 3 and closed 1¾ lower. Oil bonds were generally lower.

Trading in foreign obligations was fairly active. Australian governments turned reactionary. The 5s sold off 8¼ to a new low, and the 4½s sagged 1¾. German Governments were firm. Latin Americans displayed a mixed trend.

CHEVY CHASE DAIRY MERGER ANNOUNCED

SEVERAL BANKS ELECT

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Conclusion in New York City yesterday of negotiations whereby Chevy Chase Dairy, Inc., of this city, becomes a unit of National Dairy Products Corporation was announced at the New York office of the corporation. Officials of the large corporation controlling more than 35 subsidiaries, including Chestnut Farms Dairy, of Washington, said the Chevy Chase firm was the only local one acquired and no others were involved in the transaction. They declined to discuss the terms of the merger but said that sales of their corporation, which took over Western Maryland Dairy Corporation in December, would approximate $400,000,000 for 1930.

Chevy Chase Dairy, or Wise Brothers', was established in 1885 by George A. and Joseph A. Wise. In 1902, the partnership of Wise Bros. was formed and they operated under the name of Chevy Chase Dairy. Incorporated January 1, 1926, under the laws of the District, the firm is engaged in supplying milk, cream and other dairy products to families in Washington and surrounding territory. Its officers are Raymond J. Wise, president and treasurer; Spencer L. Wise, vice president; Bernard M. Wise, secretary. Its main office is at 3206 N street northwest, where there is a plant and it has five branch plants throughout the city.

WASHINGTON: THURSDAY, JANUARY 15, 1931. 19

Westbrook Pegler Says

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Notwithstanding the recent revival in wrestling in New York, I am afraid that the ethics of the business are no better now than they were before, because the leader of the revival, Mr. Jack Curley, is a most unethical man. I did not realize how unethical Mr. Curley was until I heard him tell in the presence of several witnesses, and with a manner of triumphant pride, of his unscrupulous conduct in relation to a world championship wrestling match between Wayne (Big) Munn, the Nebraska football player, who died in Texas the other day, and Stanley Zbyszko, the bald and elderly Pole. It is a very sordid story.

"Big Munn was a very nice, intelligent man," Mr. Curley said, "but he was not a good wrestler, and it may interest you to know how he happened to lose the heavyweight championship of the world. He was about to wrestle Stanley Zbyszko in Philadelphia in defense of the championship, which he had taken from Ed Strangler Lewis, who is not the original Strangler Lewis, by any means, but a party by the name of Fredericks.

"The original Strangler Lewis came from Baraboo, Wis., and he lost the championship a long time ago to Youssoff, the original Terrible Turk, in a bout at Tattersall's, in Chicago. I regret to say that this was to have been a dishonest exhibition. Youssoff was supposed to lose to the original Strangler Lewis, but the referee, a man by the name of One-Eyed Hogan, entered the ring with a pistol butt sticking out of each of his flask pockets and insisted that any irregularity would be severely dealt with; so Youssoff threw Strangler Lewis with the most casual ease, and a bout which might have been a blot upon the name of wrestling became instead a great credit to the sport. Some time later, Youssoff sailed for home on the French steamship Burgoyne and was lost when the ship sank after a collision. Some people said Youssoff was carried to the bottom by the weight of the gold in his money belt, but I do not believe that can have been so, because I doubt that his managers ever let him have enough money to affect his buoyancy.

"However, I was going to tell how it was that Stanley Zbyszko happened to throw Big Munn in Philadelphia and win his championship away.

"I went down to Philadelphia to see the contest, and it bothered me to hear that Zbyszko did not intend to put forth his best efforts because he was a very fine wrestler, and my artistic sense rebelled at the thought of his submitting to any one as inartistic as Wayne Munn. I knew Stanley Zbyszko very well, as he had wrestled for me many times before he joined the stable of the Bauman Brothers, who also handled Munn, Lewis and others, so I felt justified in speaking to him with the utmost frankness.

"Therefore, I went to Stanley and said, 'Stanley, aren't you ashamed to do this thing which I understand that you are about to do?' Stanley said he didn't like to do it, because he was an artist, himself, but he explained that the Baumans were keeping him fairly busy and allowing him to make some money. Then I said, 'If you will toss this fellow tonight and win the championship and come with me, I will guarantee you $50,000.'

GUNS KEEP MATCH ON LEVEL

$50,000 BID CAUSE OF CHANGE

"Stanley said he would do it, and that night he tossed Munn for the first fall very abruptly, to the great consternation of Maxwell Bauman and his brother, William, who calls himself Billy Sandow. The Bauman boys were very indignant at this breach of trust, and there was great commotion around Stanley's dressing room, but Stanley refused to leave the ring between falls, so he could not be talked to in his dressing room. Therefore, the Bauman boys climbed right up into the ring in the corner to talk business with him in the presence of the customers while Munn waited in his dressing room to learn the explanation of this unexpected conduct.

"After a long time, Stanley threw up his hands and said to the boys, 'All right, bring him back in.' This could be interpreted almost any way, so they brought Munn back in and Stanley, true to his agreement with me, tossed him again and won the championship. Stanley was strictly

3 Colleges Set New "Gate" Records Despite Depression.

(This is another of a series of stories on athletic conditions based on a Nation-wide survey by the Associated Press.)

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Football, the breadwinner for college athletic departments, has taken a body blow from the business depression at several Middle Western schools, and the lesser members of the athletic family will go on short rations—but not the chief wage earner.

The king pin of varsity sports will be given another chance—probably many more—on the customary elaborate scale to show it can provide a healthy living for the dependent on non profit branches of intercollegiate, intra mural and recreational athletics.

No curtailment is apparent in the 1931 gridiron schedules, although coaches have been advised to "cut corners" in making up budgets for all sports, because of the generally diminished football gate receipts in 1930.

Three Schools Enjoy Banner Year.

To allow schools to schedule gridiron contests with Kansas after its re-instatement in the conference, the Big Six has gained faculty permission to program nine games for each school next fall.

There were notable exceptions to the depression. Oklahoma A. and M., Oklahoma City University and Tulsa University experienced a banner football year and collected their largest gate receipts.

The "gate" at the University of Oklahoma was slightly less than it was in 1930. Although Sooner officials say they are in a position to continue normally, they will curtail athletic programs in line with the Big Six and Missouri Valley conference plans.

For the announced purpose of building up bigger Oklahoma U. basket ball crowds, the admission price has been cut in half for the 1931 season.

Kansas Played to Biggest Crowd.

The University of Kansas also was an exception. Athletic Director F. C. Allen estimated the Big Six champion Jawhawk gridders played to the largest aggregate crowd in the history of the school—146,684, or 20,000 more than the highest previous total.

Retrenchment is the order at Iowa State College, Missouri, Nebraska, the Kansas State Agricultural College and several other institutions. The program calls for fewer men on trips, shorter junkets and a reduction of schedules in sports listed in the non-profit class. These include all but basket ball, which wavers on the line of demarcation between "asset" and "liability."

Iowa State showed a net football profit of $28,500 in 1930, compared to $37,000 the previous year. The reduction at Drake University was 25 per cent and there the football receipts which usually carry the entire Athletic program failed to do so in 1930.

Strict Economy At Missouri.

C. L. Brewer, athletic director at Missouri, says the smaller receipts will bring about reduction of schedules, strict economy program in equipment and staff and "unfortunately, reduction of recreational or nonproductive sports." The football receipts at Missouri were 8 per cent lower than in 1929.

Nebraska's baseball schedule will be held to a minimum, and fewer players will travel.

Kansas Aggie officials have inaugurated the economy system, but Athletic Director "Mike" Ahearn says the depression need not affect the general program.

The Big Six conference faculty council in December abolished the conference tennis and wrestling tournaments, on the ground they duplicated the round robin dual meets.

IT took A. F. Tschiffely two and a half years to complete his arduous journey from Buenos Aires, Argentina, to Washington, D. C., Tschiffely, who by profession is a teacher, undertook his hazardous trip to prove the mettle of the criollo horses which were claimed to be capable of amazing feats of endurance. Although there were a few good trails and roads along his route, hundreds of miles had to be traversed through torrid deserts, barren ranges, jungles and swamps.

CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Pat Page has resigned as football coach at the University of Indiana. Taking advantage of the periodical lull of the Hoosier anvil chorus, which was stilled after his team defeated Purdue in the biggest upset of the 1930 Big Ten campaign, Page came to Chicago today, conferred with several of his friends and then mailed his resignation.

A combination of circumstances caused Page, football mentor at Indiana since, 1926, to resign and to take a chance on obtaining a berth next fall. The material at Indiana has not been exactly to Page's liking, or if it has, it has to compete with the great Hoosier pastime—basket ball; the Indiana faculty athletic commission has not cooperated enough to suit him; the alumni in Indiana have been a loud anvil chorus for years and their complaining chants finally have punctured Page's feelings, and, finally, Page believes he can do better elsewhere.

POST TOASTIES CHAMPS.

Somewhere the sun is shining, but not in the camp of the Herald Hoopias, who experienced the inevitable yesterday in the form of a 40-28 defeat at the hands of the Post Toasties. The victory ends the Sportswriters' season and gives the Toasties the title.

War Chief Asks Funds For Army in Olympics

(Associated Press.)

So the War Department can send athletes to the Olympic games in Los Angeles next year, Assistant Secretary Payne asked congressional authorization yesterday for payment of their expenses out of funds available.

In a letter to Speaker Longworth, he said since the United States was to be host to the Olympiad for the first time "it is highly desirable" that the Army be represented.

No material increase in Army expenditures would be caused by participation.

Stribling Is Confident Of Beating Schmeling

Ochlocknee, Ga., Jan. 14 (A.P.). W. L. "Young" Stribling, matched yesterday to meet Max Schmeling in June for the world's heavyweight championship, said today he was confident he could beat the German.

"Confident? Yes, I feel as if I can beat Schmeling. But, no, I can't tell you what round. He's a pretty fair puncher with either hand and he showed his ruggedness in taking a lot of punishment from Sharkey.

"I think he's game, all right."

The Georgia heavyweight said he was in good condition.

Maryland U. Frosh Defeat Eastern, 34-24

Maryland University's giant freshman basket ball team almost pulled a tartar yesterday afternoon in Eastern High, the schoolboys finally succumbing by the score of 34-24 in a hotly contested game played at College Park.

Kane and Lieb shone for Eastern.

Vincent, six-foot-four center for Maryland, showed an ability that stamped him as real varsity caliber during his short stay in the game. Playing in but one quarter, the giant tap off Terrapin netted 12 points for his side before being relieved by Chase.

Clovers, Crescents End in Controversy

The Community Center League game between the Clovers and Crescents, staged last night at Central High School, is still undecided, due to a disagreement as to whether a snowbird shot by Leo Thompson of the Crescents just as the whistle blew should count. The Clovers claim that time was up before the goal was made, while the official timekeeper states the whistle was blown exactly on the second, but that he was unable to turn the stop watch off for a second or two due to interference on the part of the Clover player who was watching the watch for that team.

Referee Bumner withheld decision pending a meeting with Director Johnson of the league, impounding the stopwatch as evidence. If the goal counts, the Crescents won, 30 to 29; and if it does not count, the Clovers won, 29 to 28.

FIGHT CHIEFS FLOUTED, TOWAIT

N. Y. Group Plans No Interference in Title Bout.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—The New York State Athletic Commission entrenched grimly today to play a waiting game against the insubordination that has come out of the signing of the Stribling-Schmeling heavyweight title match.

The commission satisfied itself today with warning all boxing corporations and promoters of the commission rules forbidding negotiations with suspended boxers and managers.

"The case of Schmeling-Stribling and the Garden is not officially before us," Chairman James A. Farley said. "We will deal with them in our own way at our own time."

Holds Disciplinary Powers.

Indications were that the commission will make no efforts to hamper the Garden and its associate, the New York Hearst milk fund, in the staging of the match. The commission has varied disciplinary powers, however, to use in dealing with the Garden and the boxers involved.

The commission suggested a tournament be staged here among the middleweights to determine a successor to Mickey Walker as champion. Walker's title also was vacated by the commission last week.

Dempsey Ridicules Sharkey Defi; Hints He Would Fight

BALTIMORE, Md., Jan. 14 (A.P.). Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion of the world, denounced Jack Sharkey in a statement issued here in connection with the latter's offer to fight the former champion, "within six weeks for charity."

"In his usual cautious way," Dempsey said, "when discussing fights for charity, Sharkey specifies 'within six weeks,' realizing that it would be impossible to get into condition within that period of time. This reminds me of another 'charity bout' which Sharkey proposed. That was when he challenged Bill Stribling to 'fight for charity' in New York on the exact date when Stribling was contracted to fight in Chicago."

Dempsey attacked Sharkey for criticising his not entering their branch of service during the World War. The former champion defended his position at considerable length and called attention to $300,000 raised for the Army-Navy fund through bouts during the war period in which he fought.

After this explanation Dempsey said: "And now Sharkey challenges me to fight. If Sharkey really is sincere about this challenge, I ask him to repeat it when he reads this. If it is repeated in good faith, and not as a ballyhoo for Sharkey, and a chance for him to wave a flag, I will then make an answer that should enable Sharkey to decide whether he wants a fight or not. In the meantime I think that the answer to what is wrong with the fight game is Jack Sharkey, of Boston."

Duke U. Tests Maryland Tonight

Three Other Former District Stars With Invading Five.

DUKE UNIVERSITY'S Basket Ball Team will be seen in action tonight at Ritchie Gymnasium, College Park, against Maryland University in what promises to be one of the collegiate court treats of the year. The game is scheduled for 8:15 o'clock.

Duke may face Maryland without the services of Big Joe Croson, co-captain and center, whose six-foot-four frame has led the Southerners to many notable victories this year. Croson, a product of Tech High, badly wrenched his leg Monday night in the Duke-South Carolina game at Durham. The university announced last night that the leg had responded to treatment and the giant yet may be in his tap-off place at game time.

Former D. C. School Stars Play.

Teddy Capelli, forward, and Don Garber, guard, are former Eastern and Tech High School basket luminaries who will be seen in Duke's lineup tonight. Nelson Colley, former Central High player, and a regular guard for Duke's "Washingtonians," may also see action tonight, having practically recovered from the ailment of a fractured hand received in an early season game.

Duke's lone setback this year has been at the hands of Villanova, the Pennsylvanians winning by the margin of 1 point, 22-21.

Coach Shipley of Maryland will start Chalmers and Ronkin, forwards; Norris, center, and Berger and May, guards—a combination which has clicked in a most satisfactory manner this year.

Maryland Greatly Improved.

Maryland, even without the services of Bob Gaylor, around whom Shipley anticipated molding his 1931 squad, has improved notably, sending Washington and Lee down to the Generals' second defeat in two years last Saturday night at Lexington.

Ronkin and Berger are to be depended on tonight to stop the Devils, due to their bright performances at Lexington.

Catholic U. Will Play Duquesne Five Tonight

Catholic University's basket ball team, conquerers Tuesday night of George Washington U., will play host to the robust Duquesne University crew tonight at 8:30 o'clock at Brookland. Last night Duquesne sank American University with little or no effort by the score 32-to-18.

The Cards will have to call on every bit of their now renowned fighting spirit to check the drive of the visiting Pennsylvanians, who now have five straight victories and a clean slate for the season.

On the other hand Duquesne will have to be on its guard tonight against the sudden transition of C. U. from a conventionally passing and guarding team to a pack of dangerous potshotters who can show results from this style of game. C. U., though, will find it more difficult to pot tonight, since Duquesne plays a five man defense.

Chick Gagnon will start Hanley and Sheary, forwards; Hickey, center; and Oliver and Ambrose, guards. Chick Davies, Duquesne's mentor, will use the same opening lineup which put under American last night, namely, Benedict and Abele, forwards; McGeever, center; and Capt. Stephens and Parry, guards.

George Washington University's Basket Ball Team, stung by a defeat at the hands of Catholic University Tuesday night, goes down to Ashland, Va. tonight for a game with Randolph-Macon's dribblers.

Bobby Jones to Play For Charity on Feb. 18

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Charity is to benefit by Bobby Jones' first public golfing appearance since his retirement from competitive play in November. Two of his foremost rivals among the professionals—Horton Smith and Gene Sarazen—are to play Bobby and an unnamed partner in a four-ball match at the East Lake Club here February 18.

AMERICAN U. IS EASY FOR DUQUESNE

Eagles, Never in Running, Are Beaten by 32-18 Count.

A BAND of big and hardy basketers from Duquesne University showed only about half of their real strength last night in turning American University's dribblers topsy-turvy to the tune of 32-18 at American U. before 300 fans.

It was a brawny crew that loafed through to a win over the Methodists, with a highly "professionalized" style of play, no semblance of a zone defense, a hard-driven passing attack and as keen a bunch of foul shooters as the local courts will ever see.

Diminutive Capt. Brud Stephens led the Duquesne heavyweights in great style, and himself found the loop for 10 points. Ganzy Benedict, famed half back for Duquesne's football team, was notable for his all-around play.

Skinker Eagles Play Connecticut Tossers

Instead of the group of star bowlers it has been accustomed to send to Washington for the past several years, Stamford, Conn., will send its crack Connecticut Yankee Basket Ball Team here next Sunday to meet the Skinker Brother Eagles at the Silver Spring Armory, starting at 3 o'clock.

Eastern, Gonzaga Play Day's Lone School Tilt

In the midst of a great and strenuous week for the scholastic ball players appears a lull today kept alive at all only by the appearance of Eastern against Gonzaga. The game will be played at Eastern at 3:30 o'clock.

Coach Guyon, of the high school series leading Lincoln Parkers, will no doubt use the game as a test for his reserve material, but will have his regular team of Kane, Lieb, Nooman, Shirley and Zola on hand in case Gonzaga continues the form it showed yesterday against Woodward.

G. W. Frosh Tossers Beat Bethesda High

Led by Pouts, Davidson and Brown, who were credited with 8 points each, the George Washington Freshmen basketers last night had little trouble in disposing of the Bethesda High five. The Little Colonials led all the way and won by the final count of 39 to 19.

Gonzaga Ends Defeats; Swamps Woodward

Gonzaga Basket Ball Team went on a scoring rampage yesterday at the Purples' Gym and defeated the Woodward School five, 56 to 26, for its first victory of the season.

It looked like a new team that stepped on the floor in Gonzaga uniforms, the youths showing a brand of accuracy not seen in Gonzaga's Gym this year. Especially notable was the work of Jack Hester, whose 14 points gave him high scoring honors for the game. Little behind was Tommy Nolan, crack young forward, with 13 points.

Agua Caliente Play Led by Veteran

Dudley, Dutra Tie for Second Place With Cards of 71.

Sarazen, Diegel and the Smiths Trail by 2 With 72's.

By BRIAN BELL.

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Roly Poly John Golden, professional at the Wee Burn Club, Noreton, Conn., came through a Scotch mist which almost amounted to a hard rain today to lead the field in the $25,000 Agua Caliente open golf tournament with a first-round score of 70, two strokes under par.

The stolid Golden, who never grows excited, no matter what the golf provocation, owed his one-stroke lead to a magnificent brassie shot at the home hole. The veteran Golden, after a long drive at the eighteenth, fired his wood second fully 230 yards, the ball coming to rest within 2 feet of the cup. To hole the little putt was simple.

Tied for second place were Ed Dudley, winner of the Los Angeles open, and Mortie Dutra, Long Beach, Calif., one of the most deliberate players in the competition, at 71, each winning by one stroke in the battle with par.

Dudley Brilliant On Greens.

Dudley, whose putting touch returned in Los Angeles, after an unexplained absence, gained his position by great work on the greens. He holed no long putts, but he was down in two or better at each green and placed four birdies on his card. Dudley's round duplicated his first-round score in this competition last year, but then it was good enough to lead the field.

Dutra was off to a great start, with threes at the second, third and fourth holes. Two were birdies. He grabbed two more birdies coming home, one a two at the short fifteenth, where he holed a big putt.

Bunched at par 72 stood five players, any one good enough to win the $10,000 first money. Gene Sarazen, last year's winner; MacDonald Smith, the veteran Scot, who is always a threat; Harry Cooper, the fast striding Chicago pro; Horton Smith, the young star from Missouri by way of New York, and Leo Diegel, the home pro, were in good position.

Hagen and Von Elm Shoot 74's.

Although Sarazen declared the Agua Caliente course, little more than a year old, was greatly improved over its inaugural form last year and played "far easier," only eight were able to meet par on even terms.

Walter Hagen and George Von Elm, the former crack amateur, playing together, had the same score—74—and Jack Forrester and Frank Walsh, who starred briefly in the Los Angeles open, could do no better than 77, which also was the count needed by Joe Turness, winner of the Miami open.

Golden, who would be called fat if he were not a great golfer, for years has been one of the consistent money winners of golf. The player who has been a member of the last two Ryder Cup Teams has won only a few important competitions, but his name often has been found among the first four or five.

Golden's first appearance of the winter season was in the Los Angeles open where he failed to survive past the half-way mark.

John Golden, Noreton, Conn., 34—36—70.
Ed Dudley, Wilmington, Del., 35—36—71.
Mortie Dutra, Long Beach, Calif., 36—35—71.

Draft Peace Is Voted By Association Clubs

Chicago, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—The American Association made an unconditional surrender to the major-league draft ultimatum today.

By a mail vote of five to two, the class AA circuit, one of the original opponents of the revised draft plan, accepted the major leagues' proposal and sent the official acceptance to Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis. Unlike the Pacific Coast League, no reservations were made.

NORTHERNS WIN DEBUT.

Buck Grier's Northern A. C. Basket Ball Team, made an auspicious debut in the Independent League last night at Immaculate Conception Gym, trouncing the Marine Barracks five by the score of 46 to 19.

Pepco Barry, mighty atom of the Northerns, starred for the winners, finding the loop for 20 points and directing the team in able fashion.

PALACE-D. G. S. VS. BOYS CLUB.

Palace-District Grocery Store cagers will open their season tonight against the Boys Club quintet at the Boys Club Gym, starting at 8 o'clock. Palace players are asked to meet at the clubrooms at 7 p. m.

45-DAY RACE MEETING STARTS AT MIAMI TODAY

$2,000 Stake Features Card

Sports and Society Celebrities to Turn Out in Force.

"Synthetic" Mutuels to Take Place of Oral Betting.

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Celebrities of the world of sports and society will watch the bangtails run in tomorrow's inaugural of the Miami Racing Association's 45-day meet.

Winter residents, from the members of the exclusive colonies at Palm Beach and Miami, to the casual tourist sports lovers, will be in the clubhouse and grandstands as the ponies line up for Miami's third successive season of winter racing at the Hialeah track.

Feature Race Attracts Field of 18.

Seven entries will face the barrier in the Key Largo race, the first of six events on the program, while the $2,000 Hialeah Handicap, high spot of the day, will draw 18 starters.

Tomorrow's program also will mark a change from the oral system of betting to the certificate system, commonly referred to in racing circles as "synthetic parimutuels."

Horses from leading stables of the country were at the track tonight. Reservations for horses have been listed from the stables of Cornelius V. Whitney, Joseph E Widener, Mrs. Payne Whitney, Willis Sharpe Kilmer, William Woodward, George D. Widener, Jefferson Livingston, Bud Fisher, Mrs. H. C. Phipps, Ogden Mills, Edward B. McLean, J. C. Ellis, Mrs. P. A. B. Widener, Mrs. Parker Corning and others.

Rail Position Assigned To Jock.

Jock, entry of E B. McLean, drew the rail position for the Hialeah Handicap tomorrow. Other entries for that event include Jack Howe, Gun Royal, Mud, Okaybee Greenock, Peto, Dedicate, Son o' Battle, Laughing Boy, Jean Valjean, Honey Locust, Ellice, Pennant Lass, Silverdale, Sandy, Angry and Upsweep.

Six D. C. Athletes Win Numerals at Army

The United States Military Academy has awarded minor letters to five Washington youths for services rendered with West Point's soccer teams, it was announced yesterday by the academy. The Washingtonian booters are Edward K. Purnell, Chuan C. Kambhu, Bun M. Praband, Raymond J. Reeves and Charles H. White.

Lewis K. Beazley, former Central and Devitt grid and diamond star, received his numerals in football, having played regularly in the line of the Army Plebes.

Boots and Saddles

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

—Miami Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS

THEY are off at Miami. Eighteen horses have been entered in the Hialeah Inaugural Handicap at 6 furlongs, which features the card, but the other five races are rather scantily patronized by the owners, who have almost 1,000 horses on the grounds. The meeting of 45 days has definitely adopted the certificate plan of wagering, giving the large colony of bookmakers, who had expected to grab tickets, the air. The post time for the first race will be 2 p. m., Eastern standard time.

The Inaugural has added value of $2,000 and brings into action some of the strongest stables East and West. The track is good, but not fast. JOCK, which will be coupled with SILVERDALE, is selected to win on his Maryland form. That is the most recent form for many of the horses, as their last racing was at the Bowie meeting. It is true of PETO, and he is rated the contender, but the Ellis filly ELLICE, which will figure in the race, has been running at the St. Johns track, is in top form and won more than once at the Florida track. JOCK'S last winning race at Bowie was when he beat Judge Schilling, running 6 furlongs in 1:11 2-5, and it is unnecessary to say more about him, for he is much the best, but is required to carry top weight of 126 pounds. He may need a race, but so may PETO, of the Belair-Wheatley Stable entry, which also has UP-SWEEP in the race. Third money seems to be between ELLICE and OKAYBEE. But ELLICE is coupled with a fast one, JACK HOWE.

FIRST RACE—The first race is a purse for 3-year-olds, in which seven are listed to start, at 6 furlongs. THE GEN won a few days ago at St. Johns and may repeat. Several months ago, when they were racing in the East, both SILVER BEAUTY and TALENTED PRINCE outclassed THE GEN, but the horse known to be in form must have the preference.

SECOND RACE—The second race is for 3-year-olds, and is the first race on the card at a route, going a mile and 70 yards. MUFF is selected to win. He was favorite in a large field at Empire City last fall, but was beaten. He was beaten again earlier, but beat a good field at Jamaica. SNAP may be the contender, having finished third to Crushed Stone as a 2-year-old in New York. EARTHQUAKE looks like a contender.

THIRD RACE—COOTS, from the stable of Mrs. B. C. Hart, which ran a close second to Agitator at the Fair Grounds early in January, and which is making his first start in Florida, is selected to win the third race for 4-year-olds and up. That was a fast race. PROMETHEUS, on his Maryland form, should be the contender, but MUD, which was a consistent Maryland winner, and in his last start was third to The Spare and Pennant Lass, will cut a figure in the contest. This should be run in 1:12, from the material offered. PORT HARLEM is another that has a chance.

FIFTH RACE—PRINCE TOKALON another St. Johns winner, is probably best of the field in the fifth event. He is in form. BIRDIE WRACK has been running well and has a chance, but is best in the mud. BOUNDING DEEP should hold the others safe. MARY DALE, winner at the Fair Grounds a fortnight ago, beating Hades and others, may be better than raised.

SIXTH RACE—LADY MESSENGER is selected to score in the sixth race, on general form. BEA, a winner at St. Johns, may be the contender. JUNE MOON, also a recent winner at the Florida track, has the edge on the others, unless ROSEVOLT, a disappointment as a 2-year-old, but running close enough to always hold a following, should wake up. There are only six races today.

G. U. RUNNERS NAMED BY O'REILLY

Burke, Briggs, Carlin Win in Trials for Brooklyn Meet.

THREE of the four men who will constitute Georgetown's 1-mile relay team which will compete in the Brooklyn College Athletic Association's indoor games, to be held in the Thirteenth Regiment Armory, Brooklyn, on January 24 next, were selected by Coach John D. O'Reilly at try-outs yesterday afternoon at the Hilltop.

These men are Victor Burke, Arthur Briggs, and Charles Carlin. Fourth position on the team rests between Paul Connolly and John Mara, both of whom tied for the honor in yesterday's time trials. One of these two cinder artists will be selected today.

James Kelly, star quarter-miler, who was considered an outstanding candidate for the quartet, did not participate in the try-outs. He is still convalescing in Georgetown Hospital from the effects of a tonsil operation.

Georgetown's representative in the Olimpic sprint series, which will be a feature of the Brooklyn games, will be Al Kelly, promising young dash man. He will be faced with an exceptionally strong field, including, among others, Jack Elder, former Notre Dame speed merchant; Ira Singer, of N. Y. U.; Benjamin Hand, of Princeton, and Howard Jones and Mike Andursky, of Pennsylvania.

The trackman who will carry Georgetown's colors in the historic Brooklyn College Thousand will not be named until today or the latter part of this week. Participating in this event, which in the past has been won by Jimmy Connolly and Jim Kennedy, Blue and Gray track immortals, will be Phil Edwards, 1930 winner; George Bullwinkle, Russell Chapman, Ray Conger, and others.

A. T. & T. CO. HEAD REPORTS EARNINGS

PROGRAM ASSISTED IDLE

New York, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—The American Telephone & Telegraph Co. earned approximately $10.40 a share in 1930, said Walter S. Gifford, president, in a statement today accompanying dividend checks to stockholders.

"While final figures in respect of the financial results of the company for 1930 are not yet available," the statement says, "preliminary summaries indicate earnings of approximately $10.40 per share for the year.

"Construction expenditures for additions and betterments during 1930 approximated $600,000,000. The operating companies of the Bell System generally carried out their programs as planned at the beginning of the year, thus assisting in the stabilization of employment and at the same time constructing facilities available for prompt use as general business conditions improve."

Surplus applicable to the stock for 1930 was about the same as the 1929 figure of approximately $166,000,000. Earnings in 1929 on the average outstanding shares totaling 13,113,746 were $12.67 a share, whereas the 1930 figure of $10.40 is based on approximately 16,000,000 average shares.

Soap Concern Buys Plant in Baltimore

Baltimore, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Purchase by the Procter & Gamble Co. of the Baltimore Cocoanut Oil Crushing Mill of the Oil Seeds Crushing Co., was announced today.

The mill is one of the largest of its kind in the country. It has been running on part time for a considerable period, but its new owners state that capacity operations, giving employment to some 100 more employes, are planned. The purchase price was not disclosed.

This acquisition will permit Procter & Gamble to crush coconut oil from copra, or dried coconut meats, as it is received directly from the steamer. The company is now receiving copra at its Cincinnati plant by rail from New Orleans, its principal port of entry.

Canada's Durant Motors Operated by Canadians

Toronto, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Durant Motors of Canada, Ltd., is now owned, controlled and operated by Canadians, it was announced today by Roy D. Kerby, president and general manager of the company. The announcement said it was probably the only automobile company in Canada so controlled and managed.

Control of the company will rest in the hands of an investment group of Canadians. The change, the announcement said, had in no way interrupted the company's program for the year.

Washington, Wednesday Jan. 14, 8 p. m.

The northeastern disturbance has advanced to southern Greenland. Goodhaab, 29.32 inches, and the minor disturbance that was centered near Cairo, Ill., Tuesday night has continued to move eastward, being central tonight a short distance east of Cape Hatteras, 29.92 inches. Another disturbance has apparently developed in the vicinity of Bermuda, Hamilton, 29.90 inches. These disturbances have caused snow from Tennessee and southeastern Missouri eastward to the Virginia and North Carolina coasts, and in portions of the Lake region, the upper Ohio Valley, and the northern Appalachian region. Another disturbance of slight intensity is over southern Arizona, Phoenix, 29.62 inches, and it has caused light rain in portions of southern California. Pressure is quite low from southern Alaska eastward over the southeast portions of Manitoba and Hudson Bay, Kodiak, Alaska, 28.76 inches, and Chesterfield Inlet, 29.34 inches. Pressure is high over the greater part of the United States, and it is rising rapidly east of the Mississippi River, Cairo, Ill., 30.68 inches. The temperature has fallen from the Mississippi River eastward to the Atlantic Coast and in the west Gulf States, and it has risen throughout the Northwest. Abnormally cold weather now prevails throughout the Southern States. Tuesday night's temperatures were, 4 p. m. as far south as the central portions of Mississippi, Alabama, and Georgia. Generally fair weather will prevail east of the Mississippi River during the next two days. The weather will continue cold in the Atlantic States, the upper Ohio Valley and the lower Lake region Thursday. While the temperature will rise in Kentucky, Tennessee, and western Ohio Thursday, and throughout the Washington forecast district Friday.

LEGAL NOTICES

WILLIAM W. BRIDE and WALTER L. FOWLER, Attorneys.

IN THE SUPREME COURT OF THE District of Columbia, holding a District Court. In re condemnation of land in squares 354 and 355 as a site for Farmers' Produce Market, in the District of Columbia. District Court, No. 2075. Order of citation and publication. Upon consideration of the petition of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, filed in the above-entitled cause, and on motion of counsel for the said Commissioners, it is, by the Court, this 12th day of January, A. D. 1931, ordered that the clerk of the court issue citation to all parties in interest in the land to be condemned herein, particularly described in the aforesaid petition, to appear in this court on the 16TH DAY OF FEBRUARY, A. D. 1931, at 10 o'clock a. m., to answer the said petition and to show cause, if any they have, why the prayers thereof should not be granted and why the land in squares 354 and 355, as shown on the plat filed with the petition in said cause, should not be condemned as a site for Farmers' Produce Market. It is further ordered that a copy of said citation be served by the United States Marshal for the District of Columbia upon such owners of the land sought to be condemned herein, and found by the said marshal or his deputies, within the District of Columbia; and it is further ordered that all persons having any interest in these proceedings be, and they are hereby, warned and required to appear in this court on or before the said 16th day of February, 1931, to answer the said petition, and to continue in attendance until the court shall have made its final order ratifying and confirming the award and report of the condemnation jury to be appointed by the Court to appraise the value of the respective interests of all persons concerned in the land and premises mentioned and described in the aforesaid petition. It is further ordered that a copy of this order be published once in the Washington Law Reporter, The Washington Post, the Washington Evening Star and the Washington Herald, newspapers published in the said District, before the said 16th day of February, 1931. By the Court: JOSEPH W. COX, Justice. A true copy. (Seal.) FRANK E. CUNNINGHAM, Clerk. By JOHN H. SULLIVAN, Assistant Clerk. 15

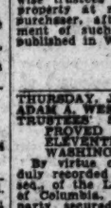
THE MAN WHO KNOWS



This strange man sees the way and tells it all. Just what your life has been. Just what it will be. Tells you when and whom you will marry; whether husband, wife or sweetheart is true or false. Tells as to changes, travel, lost or absent friends, divorce, wills, deeds; whether it is best to buy or sell. He tells the good and the bad. A visit will convince you of his wonderful power. Something tells you this is the man. You feel the impulse to call. Do not delay.

SEVEN ARE GRILLED IN MYSTERY DEATH OF U. S. EMPLOYE

Six Men and Woman Held After Police Uncover Party Evidence.

HOLD THEORY INJURIES WERE RESULT OF FALL

Say Long Remained at House 12 Hours Before Being Found on Street.

Police last night were holding seven colored persons in an investigation of the circumstances surrounding the death Friday of Samuel J. R. Long, Capitol folding room employe who was picked up on the street at Delaware avenue and C street southwest and taken to Gallinger Hospital, where he later died.

At a late hour the six men and one woman still were being grilled by police at the Fourth Precinct Station. Acting on information unearthed yesterday, police are working on a theory that Long either fell or was thrown down a flight of steps at a house on C street near First street southwest, after a drinking party.

A fellow employe, whose name was withheld, was said by Lieut. S. J. Marks, who is conducting the investigation, to have told police he saw Long with a small amount of liquor in his possession Saturday morning before he was found unconscious Sunday night. The coroner's office and Dr. J. J. McCarthy, attending physician at Gallinger Hospital, both previously stated that Long had not been drinking when he was admitted to the hospital and that an autopsy following the death did not reveal traces of liquor.

Says Long Went to House.

Precinct Detective N. G. Thayer, who is assisting in the investigation, said that Long went to the home of one of the colored men who is being held, Arthur Mitchell, 32, of the C street address, some time during Saturday, and that the fall occurred at that time.

For at least 12 hours, according to the story allegedly told by Mitchell, Long remained in the house, too weak from the fall to move. Headquarters detectives, who are working on the case with the Fourth Precinct policemen, say that, according to the story told by Mitchell, fear of being blamed for Long's accident kept them from calling medical aid.

Only four of the seven persons being questioned last night had been booked. They were Mitchell, Fannie Peole, 23, of Canal road southwest; George Higgons, 35, also of Canal road, and William Moore, 57, of C street near First street southwest.

25 Witnesses Questioned.

Twenty-five persons, all of whom were neighbors and friends of those held, were questioned yesterday, but police say that they were only questioned with a view to checking statements made by Mitchell and Moore.

Explaining statements made by physicians that there was no liquor in Long's stomach, at the autopsy police pointed out that two days had elapsed between his death and the investigation and it was not less than 7 days after the accident that the autopsy took place.

The stories told by those held were said by police to be conflicting. It has not been definitely established just when the fall occurred, or whether it is a fact that Long was held or remained at the C street house from Saturday until he was picked up on the street Sunday night by J. C. Wilson, of K street near Thirteenth street, who took the man to the hospital.

Seen by Passersby.

It was said the man was seen lying on the street where he was later found by Wilson, at least five hours previous to the time he was picked up and taken to the hospital. Police says that passersby saw the man at 6 o'clock, but thought that he was drunk and left him alone. He was admitted to the hospital at 11:55 o'clock that night.

Police say that they have not dismissed the theory that Long may have been thrown down the steps. Those who were at the house were drunk and did not know what they were doing. It was learned yesterday that the last pay Long drew at the Capitol was on December 23, when he drew $64.

It was intimated last night that several other persons would be brought to the station house for questioning, possibly this morning, and Lieut. Marks declared that the investigation would continue until something definite was learned.

Funeral services for Long will be held from the home of his sister, Miss Mattie Long, 325 First street southeast, this morning at 10 o'clock, services being at the home instead of the Metropolitan Presbyterian Church as previously announced. The Rev. Freeley Rohrer, pastor, will officiate, and interment will be at the Congressional Cemetery.

Rum Chase Ends In Crash; 2 Hurt

125 Gallons of Alleged Liquor Seized After 6-Mile Pursuit.

After a 6-mile chase through the northern section of the city, the police liquor squad, led by Sergt. Little, last night overhauled two alleged liquor runners and 125 gallons of alleged corn whisky when the pursued car crashed through a park at Fifth street and Rock Creek Church road.

Police said the driver of the car was Harry W. Wilson, colored, 23 years old, of 2309½ Champlain street northwest. He was treated at Emergency Hospital for a fracture of the skull, internal injuries and lacerations. Joseph Parham, colored, 26 years old, who police say was operating the smoke screen, was treated for lacerations and shock.

Sergt. Little took up the chase on Riggs road, near the District line, where he had been waiting on a tip that some rum would be run over the line.

In the course of the ride from the District line to Rock Creek Church road, the liquor car resorted to a smoke screen and every known bootleggers' artifice to shake them off, Little said. With the liquor squad were Officers Deyoe, Schleitcher and Schottar.

DEATH PROBED

SAMUEL JOHN R. LONG.

30 YEARS IN JAIL FACED IN ASSAULT

Man Convicted of Attack on Young White Woman on Illinois Avenue.

CAPTURE IS MADE LATER

Dellie Clark, Negro, was convicted by a jury in District Supreme Court yesterday on a charge of criminal assault on a young white woman April 22, 1929, on Illinois avenue northwest near Taylor street.

Although Assistant United States Attorneys Walter M. Shea and Irving Goldstein asked for the death penalty, the Government made no recommendation. As a result the maximum sentence in 30 years.

The young woman, an employe of the Western Union Telegraph Co., had just alighted from a street car shortly after midnight. Testimony was that the Negro accosted the girl and dragged her into an alley.

Clark was captured a few nights later in approximately the same neighborhood by a civilian who surprised the man struggling with another white girl.

Clark claimed he was not the man, and attempted to prove an alibi. He was represented by Attorneys C. W. C. Williams and Henry L. Johnson, jr. Justice Peyton Gordon presided.

Thieves Get Cash And $214 in Rum

Cut Way Into Drug Store, Loot Till of $859 and Choose Brands.

Jimmy thieves forced a basement door early yesterday to gain entrance to the drug store of Roscoe A. Ridgway, 5522 Connecticut avenue northwest, and escaped with $859 in money and prescription liquor valued at $214.

Mr. Ridgway discovered the robbery on opening the store. He said the money was taken from a drawer in the rear. A locker had been pried open to get the liquor.

The liquors were 6 quarts of sherry wine 22 pints of rum and 64 pints of whisky. The whisky brands were Sherwood, Old Forrester, Lyndale and Old Tucker.

Garfield Civic Society Backs Alley Closing Bill

The Capper bill for closing of alleys for dwelling purposes was indorsed last night at a meeting of the Garfield Civic Association held in the Garfield School. A protest was voiced against closing of a kindergarten at the building last Friday, and means were devised for transportation of two children to the kindergarten in order to provide the number necessary for reopening.

The association adopted a resolution to file a petition for establishment of an engine house in Garfield. Opening of the question of bus service to the community by the people's counsel with the Public Utilities Commission was reported, as was information that the Capital Park and Planning Commission had approved widening of Alabama avenue and sewer extension to Garfield. It was noted that condemnation proceedings for sewer extension had started. W. H. Lewis presided.

Man Held for Robbery To Waive Extradition

Carl Tate, 29 years old, arrested by headquarters detectives Tuesday night for Indiana authorities, who suspect him of participation in a safe robbery in which two policemen were shot, denies his guilt and will waive extradition when Indianapolis police arrive today to take him back.

A girl, Myrtle Marie Sheets, 18 years old, who was arrested with Tate at the home of her sister on B street near First street southwest, was released yesterday morning when word came from Indianapolis that she was not wanted.

Fatal Truck Accident Is Held Unavoidable

August Raeder, 75 years old, who died in Sibley Hospital Monday from injuries received when he was struck by a truck in November, came to his death as the result of an accident, a coroner's jury decided yesterday.

Clarence Groos, colored, 52 years old, driver of the truck which struck Raeder, was absolved of blame by the jury.

HOUSE GROUP HEARS OF FUNDS NEEDED IN SCHOOL OPERATIONS

Superintendent and Business Manager of System Are Before Committee.

$13,000,000 IS ASKED IN APPROPRIATION BILL

Executives Present Material Compiled to Show Wisdom of Policies.

Hearings on a requested school appropriation of approximately $13,000,000 will be continued today by the subcommittee on District appropriations of the House, of which Representative Robert G. Simmons is chairman. The hearings were opened yesterday.

As the hearings are being held behind closed doors, just what is transpiring is not definitely known, as school officials will not comment on the proceedings beyond stating that discussion of the budget is progressing satisfactorily.

Officials Are Questioned.

Representative Simmons, it is understood, is subjecting Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, and Jere J. Crane, business manager of the District schools, to a severe cross-examination as to the manner in which school sites have been selected in recent years and new school buildings have been erected.

Dr. Ballou and his assistants, it was learned, are meeting every thrust of the subcommittee with a strong defense. For days the school officials have been at work assembling material for the hearings—data planned both to show the wisdom of the policy of the past and to gain acceptance for the programs they propose for the future.

Included in this data is a detailed history of all school projects completed in recent years. This information shows the factors which caused delay in connection with several school building programs.

Dr. Ballou Stresses Needs.

As to the future, it is understood that Dr. Ballou is stressing the need for a new senior high school and junior high schools, to offset the school congestion which officials contend is seriously threatening Washington. The new estimates carry items for new schools and improved health and safety facilities.

In the committee room all day yesterday were Dr. Ballou, Assistant Superintendents Stephen E. Kramer, Robert L. Haycock, Garnet C. Wilkinson, superintendent of colored schools, and all members of the Board of Education with the exception of Henry Gilligan and Dr. J. Hayden Johnson. The latter two expected to be present today.

Foxhall Village Joins Drive on Billboards

A resolution calling attention to unsightly billboards was adopted last night by the Foxhall Village Citizens Association, which met in the parish hall of St. Patrick's Chapel. The group also pledged its support to the coming Community Chest campaign.

William W. Wheeler, of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., spoke on the Chest drive and Richard W. Westwood, of the American Nature Association, projected slides purporting to show the unsightliness of billboards. Lieut. Burke, of the Seventh Precinct, addressed the group on police protection. Henry S. Merrick, president of the association, announced he had accepted the captaincy of the Community Chest drive in Foxhall Village.

Federation Told School Is Needed

University Park Citizens Also Appeal for Playground.

Two resolutions affecting schools and another on street lighting were adopted last night by the American University Park Citizens Association at a meeting in Hurst Hall, American University.

The association asked the superintendent of schools to relieve "congestion" in Western High School classes, and advised the Federation of Citizens Associations of needs for a school building and playground in American University Park.

The third resolution directed the secretary to urge the Commissioners to install lights on Forty-sixth street, between River road and Massachusetts avenue. The association was addressed by Frank B. Noyes, of the Washington Star, who urged whole-hearted supporte of the forthcoming Community Chest campaign.

Richmond Park Names Buckman President

George L. Buckman was elected president of the Richmond Park Citizens Association last night at the association's meeting in the Cleveland Park Congregational Church. Other officers elected were W. M. Starhawk, vice president; George E. Clark, secretary, and W. J. Calnan, treasurer. Mr. J. W. McGerry and Capt. G. D. Dierer were made delegates to the Federation of Citizens Associations.

Maj. H. L. Robb, Assistant Engineer Commissioner, gave a short talk on the proposed Rodman street playground.

Boy Insists Kidnapers Brought Him to City

Baltimore Lad Tells of Three Men While Father Doubts.

Robert said he was "kidnaped" yesterday by three men in an automobile, and that explained his appearance in Washington about 6 o'clock when he should have been eating dinner at his home in Borman street, Baltimore.

Robert L. Thomas, sr., his papa, who called for him last night at the Sixth Precinct, thinks Robert "hitchhiked" to Washington to escape a "licking." The boy had some minor trouble at school and his father was "in conference" with his teachers yesterday.

Robert was picked up by Traffic Policeman Robert Strong near Massachusetts avenue and North Capitol street late yesterday. He told the "kidnaping" story to Strong, who turned him over to Policeman G. L. Saunders, of the Sixth Precinct. Police then got in touch with his father, who called for him about 10:30 o'clock last night.

Robert said the three men approached him about 1 o'clock on Belle avenue in Baltimore, in front of the Forest Park High School, where he attends classes. They drew up to the curb and asked him how to get to "Liberty Heights," the boy told police.

After he volunteered to get into the car and show them, they refused to let him out, he said. There were no threats to harm him, and he was only held when the car was passing police, Robert said. They were "just taking him for a little ride" and would bring him back, he said the men told him. When the car reached the vicinity of the Capitol, however, the men told him to "get out," and drove away, according to the boy's version.

Police of the Sixth Precinct sent out a "lookout" for the men, whom Robert described as about 19 years old and well dressed.

WILSON CONVICTED OF EMBEZZLEMENT

SENTENCE IS DEFERRED

Arthur Lee Wilson, operator of the Wilson Realty Co., Inc., was convicted yesterday in District Supreme Court on an indictment charging embezzlement in connection with a stock transaction. Sentence was deferred.

Wilson was accused of having embezzled 250 shares of stock of the Federal Security & Mortgage Co. belonging to Anna W. Eckels, a widow, of 701 Shepherd street northwest.

According to testimony of Mrs. Eckels, Wilson worked at one time for the Federal Security & Mortgage Co. and called on her on December 13, 1929, and told her he could sell the stock she held for $8 a share. Mrs. Eckels said she gave Wilson 100 shares of stock at that time. Later she gave him 100 shares each on two different occasions, and was notified that the stock had been sold by the company.

All she received from Wilson, she said, was $400 for 50 shares and when she insisted on being paid was told that she could have shares of the Wilson Realty Co., Inc.

Testimony was to the effect that Wilson had sold the stock for $7 a share instead of the $8 he had promised the woman. It also was brought out that prosecution had been pushed by the Better Business Bureau. Assistant United States Attorney John J. Sirica prosecuted.

3,000 Shade Trees To Be Planted in City

Three thousand shade trees are to be planted this spring in the Cleveland Park section along recently opened or improved streets, Clifford Lanham, superintendent of trees and parkings, announced yesterday. They will be chiefly maples, elms and oaks.

As 100 trees are planted to a mile there will be 30 miles of new trees placed in the residential area. The program also includes the replacing of dead trees throughout the city.

Maloney Acquitted Of Assault Charge

Jury Agrees Lieutenant Hit Camera Man in Self-Defense.

Lieut. John C. Maloney, of the Ninth Precinct, was found not guilty by a Police Court jury before Judge Ralph Given yesterday on a charge of assault on Joseph Roberts, a photographer employed by the Washington Herald. The jury which heard defense testimony that the policeman acted in self-defense was out less than five minutes.

Lieut. Maloney was arrested on a warrant issued on order of United States Attorney Leo A. Rover, after an appeal from action of Assistant United States Attorney John R. Fitzpatrick in refusing the writ.

The policeman, according to testimony, pushed the photographer's camera against his face while the complainant was seeking to get a snapshot of a suspect in the Limerick murder case.

SALES REPORT GIVEN BY INSURANCE CLUB

Sold $7,000,000 Worth of Policies in 1930; Group Holds Hotel Banquet.

1931 RECORD NOW GOAL

More than $7,000,000 worth of business was sold by members of the Life Insurance Club of Washington during 1930, it was revealed last night at a dinner given by the club at the Shoreham Hotel in compliment to general agents and managers of companies who are members of the District of Columbia Life Underwriters Association. This was an average of $319,000 per member and more than half of the club's membership sold more business in 1930 than in 1929. Club members will strive to make 1931 a record year.

The dinner was interspersed with short talks by guest managers and agents, and orchestral music. Dan J. Harrison, president of the club, was toastmaster, and in response to the club's courtesy, John Dolph, dean of local insurance men, on behalf of the guests, invited the clubmen to a similar dinner to be planned for the future.

Guests of the club include: H. L. Choate, John F. Cremen, R. P. Freeman, Harold D. Krafft, E. D. Krewson, H. O. McLean, Thomas P. Morgan, J. L. McElfresh, David S. Bethune, A. L. Baldwin, Eugene G. Adams, John Dolph, A. D. Carpenter, Paul D. Sleeper, Vincent Saccardi, John H. Snyder, Edward C. Stone, W. B. Daniels, Thomas M. Cahill, Thomas M. Baldwin, Romayne Waldron, Horace Winter, Robert P. Withington, Frank T. Koons, Maynard C. Burrell, B. J. Lynch and Edward S. Brashears.

Members of the club present were: Philip L. Balwin, Dan J. Harrison, George B. Farquhar, Howard J. Jackson, John P. Lynch, James A. Maloney, Laurance H. Riggles, Frank D. Roach, Russell Shelk, Graham E. Wilson, L. J. Myers, M. I. Walter, Alton G. Grinnell, Charles B. Sinclair, G. Lea Stabler, Guy Withers, Larry V. Lampson, J. E. McCombs, Herbert L. Barlow, Frank E. Amick, Paul W. Hammack, J. Mitchell Owens, R. Clyde Smith, Roger M. McCullough, Paul H. Primm, Raymond V. Shepler and Edward Hill.

Former Policeman Sidesteps Trial

W. F. Burke Forfeits $15 as Collateral on Charge of Intoxication.

William F. Burke, former policeman, was permitted to forfeit $15 collateral yesterday in Police Court on an intoxication charge rather than stand trial.

Burke was arrested Sunday night at Tenth street and New York avenue northwest. He was scheduled to appear for trial Monday, but was reported ill, and the case was continued.

Burke, who for several years was a detective on the force, but who was demoted almost a year ago, was recently dismissed following conviction before the Trial Board on an intoxication charge. His conviction by the Trial Board came after he had been acquitted on a similar charge in Police Court.

SALARY INCREASES PUT BACK IN SENATE AGRICULTURAL BILL

Committee Favors Measure Asking $213,959,670, Million Over House.

$10,160 MORE GIVEN TO WEATHER BUREAU

Pay Awaits Agreement on Postoffice Measure Now in Conference.

Amounts necessary to eliminate partially discrepancies in the way of Government employes in Washington and in the country were put back into the annual Agriculture Department appropriation bill reported to the Senate yesterday by the Senate appropriations committee.

The bill, as reported, carries $213,959,670. This was nearly $1,000,000 more than carried in the bill as passed by the House.

Among the amounts added to the House bill by the Senate committee, in addition to those required for increases for employes' salaries, were: $210,000 for control and prevention of the European corn borer; $30,000 for tobacco market news service; $50,000 for blister rust control in national forests; $25,000 for the same work in the West.

More for Weather Air Line.

An increase in the House amount of $10,160 for work by the Weather Bureau incident to establishment of an airway between Boston and Washington also was provided by the Senate committee in the bill.

The committee had been expected to put back into the bill the amounts stricken out by the House for salary increases. The action does not mean much more than that the Senate has not yielded on the question.

The test of strength on the question will come between the House and Senate on the Postoffice-Treasury bill.

Conference Agreement Disapproved.

This bill is in conference. The Senate has disapproved the agreement of its conferees to accept elimination of salary increases.

Until the issue is settled on this bill, the first appropriation bill to be acted on by both House and Senate, the House will continue to strike out the amounts proposed for salary increases and the Senate will continue to insert them.

Both sides in the fight will, it has been agreed, abide by the decision in the battle over the first bill.

Divorce and Alimony Are Granted to Wife

Justice Jennings Bailey in District Supreme Court yesterday signed an order awarding Mrs. Gladys Potter, of Twenty-ninth street northwest near M street, a limited divorce, custody of a child and permanent allimony.

Leo W. Potter, former employe of a bus company, the husband, also was ordered to pay Attorney Godfrey L. Munter, counsel for the wife, a $100 fee. Mrs. Potter charged that her husband seldom kissed their baby, spent most of his time away from home, and gave her only $1 a week for food.

785-Day Jail Term Given in Car Case

Youth Accused of Taking Auto and Traffic Violations Is Tried.

Charged with many traffic violations and with taking an automobile without permission of its owner, James R. Anderson, 19-year-old Negro, of Gordon's alley, was sentenced yesterday to spend the next 785 days in jail.

Judge Isaac R. Hitt sentenced him to serve 180 days and pay a fine of $500, or serve another 180 days, on a charge of operating without a permit. In addition he sentenced him to a total of two months on charges of speeding, driving without lights, passing two stop signs and driving on the wrong side of the street.

Immediately afterward the Negro faced Judge Gus A. Schuldt on the charge of taking the machine without the owner's permission, and was given a further sentence of twelve months.

Woman Motorist Sued By Her Passenger

Seeking to recover $10,000 for alleged personal injuries, E. Josephine Sterling, of 1621 T street northwest, filed suit yesterday in District Supreme Court against Louise Payne, of 1460 Irving street northwest.

Through Attorney A. Henry Walter, the plaintiff states she was riding with the defendant in an automobile when the machine left the road in Wilson lane near Conduit road and crashed into a tree. Negligence on the part of the defendant is alleged.

Two Police Detectives Ordered Transferred

Capt. L. I. H. Edwards, Police Department personnel officer, yesterday announced the transfer of two precinct detectives, to be effective today.

Precinct Detective John Boxwell, of the Sixth Precinct, will go to the Eleventh Precinct to assume duties of W. R. Laflin, who will replace Boxwell at the Sixth Precinct.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

TWO CONGRESSMEN AND A STARVING MAN.

(The scene is a city street. A very emaciated man, obviously in need of food, is appealing for 10 cents to get a cup of coffee and a roll.)

FIRST CONGRESSMAN: What does the gentleman desire?

Second Congressman: Will the gentleman please repeat his inquiry?

Starving Man: I'm starving, sir. Please could you gimme a dime to get something to eat?

First Congressman: While the request does not come in the regular order, I am constrained to give it consideration.

Second Congressman: I have no objection to a discussion of the proposition at this time.

First Congressman (to beggar): How long have you been starving, my man?

Starving Man: For several weeks, sir.

First Congressman: The reason I ask is that I want to be assured the matter is one that properly comes under this year's business.

Second Congressman (to beggar): You are aware, of course, that the form of your request is slightly irregular.

Starving Man: Please, sir, a dime for a cup of coffee and a piece of bread.

First Congressman: In the event that we act favorably on your petition, where do you propose to obtain this cup of coffee and piece of bread?

First Congressman: That one with the white front?

* * * * *

SECOND CONGRESSMAN (to his colleague): I don't know that we should act on this matter without first ascertaining the respective merits of the two lunchrooms. I feel we should know that this dime is going to the place where it will do the most good.

First Congressman (very seriously): Quite so. I would indeed hesitate to act favorably on the gentleman's request without some assurance the money was not to be wasted and that it was to be wisely expended with a mind to proper values.

Starving Man (getting hungrier by the minute): Just a nickel, sir, if a dime is too much.

First Congressman (to his colleague): Does the gentleman from Iowa consider a dime too much?

Second Congressman: I am not prepared at this time to say whether a dime is too much or not. I recall the case of a starving man in the State of Minnesota in the winter of 1888. In that case it was subsequently established that a dime was excessive. On the other hand, such a sum has been known to be inadequate.

First Congressman: I can appreciate the evils of snap judgments in matters of this kind, but I am inclined to regard this as an emergency in which we would make no mistake in giving the man enough money to get the cup of coffee and the roll.

Starving Man (now quite weak): Please, sir!

* * * * *

SECOND CONGRESSMAN (to his colleague): I yield to no man in my reactions to want and woe, but I think nothing would be lost by deferring action for another day.

First Congressman (tartly): This is not a time for parsimony. From the majestic mountains of the Far West to the surf-beaten stretches of the great Atlantic there is——

Second Congressman: I object to this appeal to the grandstand.

First Congressman: If the gentleman says I am appealing to the grandstand he is a liar.

Second Congressman: I defy you, sir, to repeat that name outside.

First Congressman: Buffoon!

Second Congressman: Coward!

HE WAS ONLY FOOLING.

MR. WILL HAYS' warning to the movie picture men that crime must not be played up in the pictures is being followed, you may have noticed, by the greatest run of crime pictures in history.

One of life's major mysteries is why it should ever be necessary to take a vote to prove a congressman's seat vacant.

The more you read about those frame-ups of innocent women in the New York court inquiry, the more you realize that some of the courts there must be located in the type of buildings generally referred to as low frame structures.

About the best argument for a bear market in Wall street is a statement from a big financial man predicting that the worst is over.

ONE OF LIFE'S MAJOR MYSTERIES.

Hi: Why is it that a man who never thinks of asking a friend to repair his automobile, piano, violin, furnace or electric icebox will, the moment his radio gets out of order, invite the friend who best understands them over for a social evening?

AMENDMENT URGED TO BILL GIVING U.S. CONDEMNED LANDS

Offutt Would Have Proposed Law Apply to Cases Pending in Courts.

PLAN GOES TO HOUSE DISTRICT COMMITTEE

Lawyer for Property Owners Cites Possibility of Unfairness.

Amendment of the bill sponsored by the Department of Justice to give the Government authority to take possession of land in process of condemnation was urged on the House District committee yesterday by George W. Offutt, representing property owners.

Mr. Offutt followed Attorney General Mitchell before the committee. The Attorney General recently appeared before the Senate District committee and urged enactment of the measure. The bill, he said, would help speed up the Government building program.

Cases in Court.

The measure simply would make applicable to condemnation proceedings pending in the courts the last time the law was amended. The last amendment provided for the Government taking possession under court supervision of property it wanted. It excepted, however, cases then pending in court. The new amendment would make the law applicable to cases pending in the courts at the time.

Possession would be taken by the Government under court approval on deposit to the credit of property owners of the amount it deemed the full value of the property it sought. Taking over of the property, under the law, would make it mandatory that the Government pay the owners whatever amount might be awarded in final court proceedings.

Statement by Offutt.

There are three cases which are pending in court, the settlement of which may take two or three years, Attorney General Mitchell explained, adding that Government building projects involving millions of dollars will be held up pending final settlement unless the Government were authorized to take immediate possession and pay whatever damages eventually are awarded by the courts.

Mr. Offutt said that the law would work out unfairly to property owners because by the time the condemnation jury got around to looking at the property it would not see it as it was when the Government took it over, but would see a hole in the ground, a partial foundation for a Government building or something else than the property which had been seized. He proposed an amendment which the Attorney General objected to as too stringent but agreed to a modification proposed by Mr. Mitchell.

Parking for 20 Cents May Start Price War

Signs reading "Parking—20 Cents" which may be the signal for a price-cutting war were noticed yesterday on buildings in the block once occupied by the Potomac Electric Power Co., Thirteenth and Thirteen-and-a-half streets, B street and Ohio avenue. Parking in the downtown area costs from 25 to 35 cents at other places.

The Treasury Department has rented the vacant lot, which is the site for proposed Government buildings, to Cohn & Martine, which firm is inviting parking at cut rates.

Motorcycle and Foot Chase Net Driver Three Charges

One motorcycle-auto chase plus one rammed machine plus one pursuit on foot netted three charges against one colored truck driver yesterday. The prisoner is Charles Lewis, 23, of Twelfth place near Florida avenue northwest and he is charged with reckless driving, leaving the scene of an accident and lacking a permit.

Policeman R. E. Burton, of the Traffic Bureau, saw the truck traveling on Q street near Seventeenth in what he termed a reckless fashion. Opening pursuit on his motorcycle, he pulled alongside the truck at Florida avenue and R street and ordered the driver to pull up.

Lewis refused to heed the command, Burton alleged and sped on to Sixteenth and R, where he jumped out, abandoning the moving truck which ran into an auto owned by Mrs. Nina H. Baumgartner, graduate nurse, of 1618 Riggs place northwest.

Quitting his motorcycle, Burton ran after his elusive quarry, whom he captured in an alley nearby. The truck is the property of the National Vaccine and Antitoxin Institute.

Chairman Hawley 'Missing,' Patman Tells Service Men

Representative Wright Patman, of Texas, last night told the Enlisted Service League he has been unable to get a hearing on his adjusted compensation bill owing to the "mysterious disappearance" of Chairman Hawley, of the House appropriations committee.

Patman told the enlisted men meeting in Immaculate Conception Hall that Hawley has not been at the Capitol for two weeks. His bill proposes that war veterans get their adjusted compensation in cash instead of insurance.

Following Patman's address the association adopted a resolution authorizing the collection of a $50,000 fund "to be offered as a reward for the apprehension of persons detaining Representative Hawley."

Harry C. Flynn, president of the organization; Frank A. Connally, treasurer; William Glenn, secretary, and Carroll R. Doddridge, also addressed the league.
